Great Improvement
IN COOKING STOVES.—Consumption of Smoke and Gas, and Saving of Fuel.—The subscriber would respectfully inform the public that he has added to his former variety of Stoves, a new Patented Gas-burning COOKING STOVE.
It is well known that all inflammable matter requires a certain amount of air to support combustion, and if the supply is insufficient, it is impossible to produce a flame. The heat of the fire, in ordinary cooking stoves, decomposes the fuel, and as the fresh air is admitted under the grate, the oxygen is exhausted before it has passed through the fire-chamber. The close flues at the top of the stove, then act as an extinguisher, tending to put out the fire, instead of assisting the combustion. A large portion of the fuel, therefore, passes off in the shape of smoke, clogging up the flues of the stove, so as to impede the draft and interfere with the baking, or of invisible gas which combines with the lime and so destroys the mortar of the chimney, loosening the bricks, and exposing the dwellings to the danger of fire. The introduction of an additional supply of cold air, would cool the gas below the igniting temperature, but by the proper application of cold air, the heat is not cooled to a temperature of several hundred degrees (which is one of the prominent features of the patent), the gases are inflamed in numerous jets, and their combustion is sufficient to heat the oven, even if the draft through the fire-chamber is entirely closed. In addition to the ordinary draft draft up the grate and through the fire-chamber, the gas-burner has an additional draft through the top plates, which is of itself sufficient to maintain combustion. The upper part of the grate is entirely closed, and it helps to strengthen and preserve the central pieces, which are most exposed to the direct action of the fire, and which are made double instead of the usual single plates. By means of this draft alone, all the particles of fuel can be carried to the grate, and the fire consequently burns more slowly and more economically.
A sufficient quantity of the effect of the gases in heating the oven, is found in the fact that the oven will be ready for baking, even before the fire is thoroughly kindled, and much sooner than in any other stove.
As Gas-burning Stoves are the order of the day, the Gas-burning Cooking Stove will not only be the leading stove of the present season, but it will undoubtedly succeed in all other parts. Purchasers will, therefore, consult their own interest, by seeing and examining it before giving any orders elsewhere. The operation is so perfect, and its advantages so manifest, that it is a great variety of goods, that it readily commends itself to the public, and is sold at a price which is a great saving over the retail price of any stove of the same size.
Also, on hand a variety of Parlor Coal Stoves—cheap.

Hammonton Lands,
NEW ENGLAND SETTLEMENT.—RARE OPPORTUNITY.—To all waiting Farmers a healthy place, Hammoniton, in the Delaware Valley, on the Atlantic Railroad, New Jersey. An old estate has recently been opened for sale, and the first division of 10,000 acres divided into farms of twenty acres and upwards. The soil is of the best quality for the production of fruits, grain, &c. The price is $15 to $20 per acre, payable in easy quarterly instalments, within a term of four years, with interest. The terms are made easy, in order to insure the rapid improvement of the land, by enabling every industrious man to buy a farm. It is now being extensively improved by good roads, and some of the best citizens from New England and the Middle States are erecting large improvements. It is a scene of the greatest improvement out of Philadelphia. Seventy-five houses have been built in four months. Practical farmers and business men from the length and breadth of the Union are settling there. It is an important business place, on account of its being in the midst of a great market. Every article raised upon this land is sold at a high price. The water is excellent, and no such thing as fever is known. The soil is a sandy or clay loam, with a clay bottom and retentive of manures. Its free of stones and easily worked. It abounds largely in the phosphates, and such is its fertility that the crops produced from it upon the land and the large area adjoining under cultivation, will be found not to be excelled anywhere in the production of crops most adapted to its soil.
The reader may well aware that the earliest and the best fruits and vegetables come from New Jersey, which are annually exported to the amount of millions of dollars. The land, besides being accessible in every way for fertilizers, has an abundant supply of the best quality of lime, which can be had on the spot at a cheap price, from the mills. Other mills are now being opened and brick-yards being started on the ground. A person can put up a frame tenement for present convenience for one hundred dollars. On the coast of the extensive emigration, this is the best course to pursue in order to get a place to live in at first. Carpenters and builders are on hand to put up houses on the best terms.
A settler here the emigrant has many advantages. He is within a few hours' ride of the great cities in the Middle States and New England; he is near his old friends and associates; he is in a settled country, where every improvement and comfort of civilization is at hand; he is not subject to the uncertainty of losing the greater part of his family and his own health by those malignant fevers which make the graves of so many millions of the young and hardy in far off regions away from home and friends. Besides, he has a mild climate and a new winter.
There are three trains daily to Philadelphia, and to all those who improve the railroad company gives a free ticket.
The reader will at once be struck with the advantages of this new territory, and why the property has not been taken up before. The reason is, it was never thrown in the market; and unless these statements were correct, no one would be invited to examine the land before purchasing. This all are expected to do. They will see the land under cultivation; they will meet persons, no doubt, from their own neighborhood; they will witness the improvements, and can judge of the character of the population. Persons should come to examine the property, and not be subject to the uncertainty of losing the greater part of his family and his own health by those malignant fevers which make the graves of so many millions of the young and hardy in far off regions away from home and friends. Besides, he has a mild climate and a new winter.
