The Outrages in Southern Kansas.

We find in the St. Louis Republican of the 6th inst., a letter dated at Fort Scotz, on the 17th of December, 1858, containing a detasled account of the outrages committed by Montgomery, John Brown, and other desperadoes at that place. They shot Mr. John Little dead, narrowly secaped killing several others, broke open buildings, atole whatever they could lay their hands on, received one of their number from the custody of the sheriff, and with oaths declared:

"We defy the United States, its officers, we whatever they could lay their hands on, received one of their number from the custody of the sheriff, and with oaths declared:

"We defy the United States, its officers, its faws and its armies." The letter which narrates these high offunces says in conclusion:
