Poet's Corner.

THE LABORER AND THE WARRIOR BY EPES SARGEST.

The camp has had its day of song; The sword, the bayonet, the plume, Have crowded out of rhyme too long The plow, the anvil and the loom ! Oh! not upon our tented fields Are freedom's heroes bred alone; The training of the workshop yields

More heroes true than war has known. Who drives the bolt, who shapes the steel, May with a heart as valiant smite As he who sees a foeman reel In blood before his blow of might;

The skill that conquers space and time, That graces life, that lightens toil, May spring from courage more sublime Than that which makes a realm its spoil.

Let labor, then, look up and see His craft no pith of honor lacks; The soldier's rifle yet shall be Less honored than the woodman's axe

Let art his own appointment prize, Nor deem that gold or outward light Can compensate the worth that lies In tastes that breed their own delight.

And may the time draw nearer still When man its sacred truth shall heed, That from the thought and from the will Must all that mises man proceed; Though pride may hold our calling low, For us shall duty make it good; And we from truth to truth shall go, 'Till life and death are understood.

STRIVE ON.

Strive on-the ocean ne'er was crossed Repining on the shore; A nation's freedom ne'er was won

When sloth the banner bore. Strive on-'tis cowardly to shrink When dangers rise around: 'Tis sweeter far, though linked with pain To gain the vantage ground

Then strive-but, oh let virtue be The guardian of your aim: Let pure unclouded love illume The path that leads to fame.

common application to the political ultraists of the South, and one which seems to be a "sweet morsel" in the mouths of the "free wool" fraternity of the North. But until recently we were not aware that such an "animal' existed so near the borders of Mason and Dixon's line as in Caroline county, Maryland. Such, however, is the case. We have, positively, a live "fire eater" 'among us," and what is stranger than Brue to Their Fr The fourteen Democrats in Confrom this State, have nobly redeemed the pledges made by themselves and their friends in regard to the revision of the Tariff. Our own member, How. Wilson Reilly, has used his best exertions in behalf of the interests of Pennsylvania, and his Domocratic colleague, MR. PHILLIPS, has framed a Tariff bill which, if passed, would certainly prove satisfactory to all classes of our citizons. The paramount object of Ms. Phillips' bill is revenue, but it also aims to give incidental protection to such of our industrial interests as are thought to require it. This bill is all that the iron men can ask, whilst at the same time it is framed with that special Democratic regard for the welfare of the masses, which should always be characteristic of such measures, but which is so lightly esteemed by the.extreme protectionists.
