

W. J. STARR, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR. GETHYSBURG, PA. MONDAY MORNING, APRIL 4, 1859.

Democratic State Circle.
For Auditor General, RICHARDSON L. WRIGHT, of Philadelphia.
For Surveyor General, JOHN BOWE, of Franklin county.

NEWS, ETC.
Gen. Myrray Whallon has been appointed and confirmed as Collector of the Port of Erie, Pa. The General is, and has been, one of the "wheel-horses" of the Democracy of Western Pennsylvania, and deserves the best office the President has to bestow.

We learn from the Mount Vernon Record that the third installment in payment for Mount Vernon, with the interest thereon, was paid upon the 23d ult. The association has now paid $153,332.02 of the sum of $200,000 required to secure the title to Mount Vernon—$150,000 of which has been paid in a little more than three months.

It is not believed at Washington that any filibustering expedition is now ready to start for Cuba, as recently reported. The most reliable advices are altogether contrary to the probability of such a movement. The story is similar to the programme of General Remond, promulgated months ago.

The article on our first page in regard to an Extra Session of Congress, was in type for last Monday's Compiler, but went over on account of a press of other matter. It has not lost any of its force by the delay. Recently James Buchanan Henry, Esq., read a private Secretary of the President, has resigned his place, and commenced the practice of law in New York, in partnership with C. H. Schaff, Esq., of Newark, N. J.

Clark's Ferry Bridge, at Duncan's Island, above Harrisburg, was carried away during the storm of Friday week. It was built by the State, but belonged to the Central Railroad Company.

On the 8th of April four persons are to be executed in Baltimore, Md., on the 15th, one in Fayette county, Ga., on the 26th, two at Albany, N. Y., on the 5th of May three at Chicago, and on the 27th, one at Cincinnati. There are, also, two at Pittsburg and one at Boston under sentence of death.

Mr. Joseph Miller, of York, caught an otter six days ago, which measured four feet six inches in length, and weighed about twenty pounds. The otter was caught in a trap, at the forks of the Codorus creek, about four miles from that borough.

A fatal affray occurred at Duncan, Pa., about 18 miles above Harrisburg, Saturday night week, during which one man was killed and another had his nose cut off.

We have the pleasure of acknowledging a handsome addition to our list of subscribers during the past few weeks. There is still room for more.

Sam. Prior, colored, died at Petersburg, Va., on Saturday, at the age, it is stated, of one hundred and thirty-two years.

The Compost Reporter records the killing of twenty crows at a single shot by J. J. Whitney, of that place. Big shot, that.

They have a large nature at Cincinnati, in the shape of an Irish child seventeen months old, who never cries or talks, but whistles instead. He doesn't whistle tunes of course, but his whistle is as clear as an adult's. A young locomotive probably.

J. D. Cameron, of Harrisburg, son of the Hon. Simon Cameron, was, on the resignation of the latter, elected cashier of the Bank of Middleburg, on Monday week.

We learn from the Middletown (Pa.) Journal that a woman appeared at the polls there on election day, and claimed a right to vote on the ground of being a tax-payer. She is opposed to the doctrine of "taxation without representation," and thinks all lady tax-payers ought to be entitled to the elective franchise.

More about the "Signers"
A Pittsburg correspondent of the Pennsylvania says of the signers from that city to the "Call" for the Forney-Knox Convention, on the 13th, that about one-third of them were Van Buren "bolters" in 1848, about the same number are disappointed office-seekers, several were "intensely American" and are nearly, if not quite, full-blooded Republicans; whilst all of them belted the Democratic State Ticket last fall, so far as their action is known.

The Harrisburg Patriot and Union understands that the persons from that locality whose names are appended to the call for the Forney Convention deny having signed said call or authorized their names to be attached thereto. The same case in other places. Dr. J. M. Porter, of Reading, has authorized the Gazette to state that his name appears without his knowledge or consent. It is also stated that REXEN C. HALL and ISAAC HIGGS, who appear on the call, never signed it.

The Pennsylvania has received the following notes from citizens of Germantown, whose names have been attached to the "Call" for the Bogus Convention without their knowledge or consent:

GERMANTOWN, March 29, 1859.
Messrs. Editors:—I was greatly surprised and highly indignant, on discovering my name in connection with several others from Germantown, as one desiring the assembling of a new Convention to repudiate the nominations made by the late Democratic Convention. I hold no allegiance to those traitors who, for paltry gain, desert pure Democratic doctrines to gratify disappointed ambition. Such has been the motives prompting the prime movers in their effort to disorganize the Democratic party, and the utmost confidence in the able and just administration of James Buchanan, and will ever wield my power in sustaining it. I conceive it to be scarcely requisite to state that my name was used against my desire and entirely contrary to my judgment and opinions. That my friends in the interior of the State may not be misled by misapprehension, you will please forward my connection with this call to the public.

Yours, truly,
C. C. ROACH.

Also, the following:
PHILADELPHIA, March 29, 1859.
Editorial:—In the "Press" of last week, appears a call for a Black Republican Convention to meet in Harrisburg on the 13th of April, to which I find my name attached. Will you do me the favor to say that it was put there without my knowledge or consent? I have always been a devoted and true Democrat, and have no sympathy with the traitors who have been so unscrupulous as to use my name in connection with their call for a new Convention to nominate their candidates, which I pronounce to be a base forgery—my name being used without my knowledge and without my consent.

Yours, truly,
M. DILLON.

The following is "decidedly rich"—and true, every word. The Patriot and Union says:
Forney's Press, the organ of the rump Convention, to be held on the 13th proximo, has some very funny correspondents, who are drawing the wool over the eyes of Mr. Forney most ably, as the following specimens will show.

On the list of indignant Democrats who sympathize with Forney and his conditors, in their revolutionary movement, are to be found the following names, furnished from the county of Schuylkill, viz: D. C. Bobb, a crazy negro, who resides in Pottsville; Jacob C. Dones, a crazy white man, the butt of the town of Pottsville; Solomon Williams is a negro, who lives in Ashland; Samuel Zeob, Christian Vontager, and Arnold B. Spetzer, all of whom have no existence, either in Schuylkill county or anywhere else, according to the recollection of the "oldest inhabitant."

How many more such indignant Democrats, as those above enumerated, are in the list published from other counties, in the Press, we are not, at present, informed, but for the truth of the above we can vouch.

If the Convention is to be made up of such material, and it would seem that but few of any other quality will venture here on the 13th of April—it will have the merit of being assembled at the Schuylkill Capital.

The Greenback Democrat states, upon the authority of William A. Sprax, Esq., that his name has been signed to this call without his knowledge, and without any intimation to him.

"Victory or Death."—Gov. Hicks.
Gov. Hicks, in a speech in Baltimore, in the presence of many of the Club members, used the above language prior to his election. The effect of his language is apparent, and His Excellency is now forced to determine whether it shall be all victory and no death; or victory interspersed with death.

The Clubs took up the cry of "victory or death," and victory was achieved, but not without murder and a host of grievous outrages.

The Governor owes his election to the faithful manner in which the Clubs carried out the programme as laid down by himself—"victory or death."—He was placed in the executive chair, at the expense of the political, civil and religious rights of the people of the State. They obtained victory for the Governor, but not without "Death."

The Governor may outlive his great crime of exciting the Clubs to murder, with the rallying cry of "victory or death," but the terrible dupes of his subtlety will expire their lives in the gallows. It is a question in the minds of many, if the men who instigated the Clubs in their Devilish outrages are not more to be blamed than the Governor.

The Governor's position, in respect to the men now desiring and awaiting death, is truly lamentable. Filling his office through the paramount aid of Death and Fraud, he is daily beset with the specter of political friends, urging him to an act of secret-political friendship, for those who worked energetically in the infamous programme he himself laid down. He will not, however, succumb. He dare not do it. The law must take its course. A man who can incite his political friends to action by the cry of "Victory or Death," can refuse the slightest aid to his dupes. He can see them dangling in the air and then complacently exclaim, "Blood for Blood."—Hagerstown Mail.

Wanted.
A suitable reward will be given for an able-bodied admirer of Gov. Packer, to represent Franklin County in the sepy Convention.—Free Railroad tickets and free wharf application on application to Forney. A "free dirt," guaranteed to all attending.—Chamberburg Spirit.

More about the "Signers"
A Pittsburg correspondent of the Pennsylvania says of the signers from that city to the "Call" for the Forney-Knox Convention, on the 13th, that about one-third of them were Van Buren "bolters" in 1848, about the same number are disappointed office-seekers, several were "intensely American" and are nearly, if not quite, full-blooded Republicans; whilst all of them belted the Democratic State Ticket last fall, so far as their action is known.

The Harrisburg Patriot and Union understands that the persons from that locality whose names are appended to the call for the Forney Convention deny having signed said call or authorized their names to be attached thereto. The same case in other places. Dr. J. M. Porter, of Reading, has authorized the Gazette to state that his name appears without his knowledge or consent. It is also stated that REXEN C. HALL and ISAAC HIGGS, who appear on the call, never signed it.

The Pennsylvania has received the following notes from citizens of Germantown, whose names have been attached to the "Call" for the Bogus Convention without their knowledge or consent:

GERMANTOWN, March 29, 1859.
Messrs. Editors:—I was greatly surprised and highly indignant, on discovering my name in connection with several others from Germantown, as one desiring the assembling of a new Convention to repudiate the nominations made by the late Democratic Convention. I hold no allegiance to those traitors who, for paltry gain, desert pure Democratic doctrines to gratify disappointed ambition. Such has been the motives prompting the prime movers in their effort to disorganize the Democratic party, and the utmost confidence in the able and just administration of James Buchanan, and will ever wield my power in sustaining it. I conceive it to be scarcely requisite to state that my name was used against my desire and entirely contrary to my judgment and opinions. That my friends in the interior of the State may not be misled by misapprehension, you will please forward my connection with this call to the public.

Yours, truly,
C. C. ROACH.

Also, the following:
PHILADELPHIA, March 29, 1859.
Editorial:—In the "Press" of last week, appears a call for a Black Republican Convention to meet in Harrisburg on the 13th of April, to which I find my name attached. Will you do me the favor to say that it was put there without my knowledge or consent? I have always been a devoted and true Democrat, and have no sympathy with the traitors who have been so unscrupulous as to use my name in connection with their call for a new Convention to nominate their candidates, which I pronounce to be a base forgery—my name being used without my knowledge and without my consent.

Yours, truly,
M. DILLON.

The following is "decidedly rich"—and true, every word. The Patriot and Union says:
Forney's Press, the organ of the rump Convention, to be held on the 13th proximo, has some very funny correspondents, who are drawing the wool over the eyes of Mr. Forney most ably, as the following specimens will show.

On the list of indignant Democrats who sympathize with Forney and his conditors, in their revolutionary movement, are to be found the following names, furnished from the county of Schuylkill, viz: D. C. Bobb, a crazy negro, who resides in Pottsville; Jacob C. Dones, a crazy white man, the butt of the town of Pottsville; Solomon Williams is a negro, who lives in Ashland; Samuel Zeob, Christian Vontager, and Arnold B. Spetzer, all of whom have no existence, either in Schuylkill county or anywhere else, according to the recollection of the "oldest inhabitant."

How many more such indignant Democrats, as those above enumerated, are in the list published from other counties, in the Press, we are not, at present, informed, but for the truth of the above we can vouch.

If the Convention is to be made up of such material, and it would seem that but few of any other quality will venture here on the 13th of April—it will have the merit of being assembled at the Schuylkill Capital.

The Greenback Democrat states, upon the authority of William A. Sprax, Esq., that his name has been signed to this call without his knowledge, and without any intimation to him.

"Victory or Death."—Gov. Hicks.
Gov. Hicks, in a speech in Baltimore, in the presence of many of the Club members, used the above language prior to his election. The effect of his language is apparent, and His Excellency is now forced to determine whether it shall be all victory and no death; or victory interspersed with death.

The Clubs took up the cry of "victory or death," and victory was achieved, but not without murder and a host of grievous outrages.

The Governor owes his election to the faithful manner in which the Clubs carried out the programme as laid down by himself—"victory or death."—He was placed in the executive chair, at the expense of the political, civil and religious rights of the people of the State. They obtained victory for the Governor, but not without "Death."

The Governor may outlive his great crime of exciting the Clubs to murder, with the rallying cry of "victory or death," but the terrible dupes of his subtlety will expire their lives in the gallows. It is a question in the minds of many, if the men who instigated the Clubs in their Devilish outrages are not more to be blamed than the Governor.

The Governor's position, in respect to the men now desiring and awaiting death, is truly lamentable. Filling his office through the paramount aid of Death and Fraud, he is daily beset with the specter of political friends, urging him to an act of secret-political friendship, for those who worked energetically in the infamous programme he himself laid down. He will not, however, succumb. He dare not do it. The law must take its course. A man who can incite his political friends to action by the cry of "Victory or Death," can refuse the slightest aid to his dupes. He can see them dangling in the air and then complacently exclaim, "Blood for Blood."—Hagerstown Mail.

Wanted.
A suitable reward will be given for an able-bodied admirer of Gov. Packer, to represent Franklin County in the sepy Convention.—Free Railroad tickets and free wharf application on application to Forney. A "free dirt," guaranteed to all attending.—Chamberburg Spirit.

The Democratic Press of Pennsylvania.
Further Extracts.
From the West Chester Spectator.
The refusal of the Convention to endorse the Administration of Gov. Packer, was the legitimate result of his fostering, by his patronage, behind which all the political opponents of the Democracy, yet exerting themselves to the utmost to sow dissensions and bring about the overthrow of the party. The rebuke was a merited one, and the Democracy of Vonnago say:—

From the York Democrat.
We will not here repeat the charges against him (Gov. Packer), nor will we name the particular acts which have made his administration a stench in the nostrils of Democracy. We will only say that he has betrayed his friends, and given place and power to the enemies of the party that made him what he is. The action of the Convention proves that the majority of its members entertained the same desire for conciliation toward the Administration, and that they were not so far from being right in their opinion, as to regard the Administration as a step towards conciliation, on the part of the majority, to pass no resolution touching the Governor's conduct, and it should have been graciously met by him and his friends, and not to have labored to secure his reelection to the office he now dis honors, and whose feelings had been outraged by his course; but, instead of denouncing him, they charitably throw the mantle of silence over his many sins. Endorse his policy they could not, without establishing a precedent, behind which all the political opponents of the Democracy, yet exerting themselves to the utmost to sow dissensions and bring about the overthrow of the party. The rebuke was a merited one, and the Democracy of Vonnago say:—

From the Lancaster Echo.
At the moment that Governor Packer took Judge Knox to the highest position in his Administration, the confidence of the true Democrats of Pennsylvania received a shock. It was a blow which they could not but feel, and which they would not have hesitated to throw the Governor into the hands of the court enemies of the party. Knox had been in the confidence of Packer, and well might he be called upon to defend his Administration against the "rebuke" of the Democracy. The appointment of Knox to the highest position in the Administration, as the sequel has shown, the worst apprehensions of Democrats. Then came the inaugural Address, in which the Governor, after lavishing letters and public speeches, and after having declared that he would not interfere with the slavery question, and declaring that question practically settled, at one stroke contradicted the whole record of his election, and attempted to array the Democracy of Pennsylvania against the National Administration, on this very question of slavery, in a most aggravated form. Then came the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most inconsiderable of difficulties, had been brought about by Governor Packer's Government, which was the result of the appointment of such men as George Lacombe to the best places in his gift; and following hard upon that, the stupendous fraud of the sale of the public works, in which the Governor's complicity was fully established, and which drew the attention of the humbler voter in the Commonwealth. The canvass of '58 came round, and when the Democratic party found itself bested with difficulty, the most in