Leap Year.

My sweet little song the Address; The Address, 1'll inform you, ian's as long As you would be likely to guess. The year of our Lord A. D. 1860 has been wisely set apart for the benefit of that class of ladies who are anxious to enter the state The year just gone by has been marked with events, With events both important and great; of matrimony, but who have not had the good fortune to entice some luckless wight into the meshes of their not. On and after the 29th day of Felguary, 1860, the ladies will be ful-Whilst the Bussians are dreaming old England ly authorized to commence making love to any gentlemen they may deem worthy of their hands, hearts and fortunes. It will devolve upon the ladies to invite the gentlemen to accompany them to parties, concerts, balls and other places of amurement, and it will al-

With the world we're at peace, with no nation in a pleasant part of the hall. And, almve all, Indier, it will be your duty to pay the bills. We doubt not our tailors and milliners can furnish you with work sufficient to earn whatever little sums it will require to meet the current expenses, and should you be obliged to take in washing once in a while, to make both ends meet, you should do so cheerfully. Neat year, ladies, you can rule the roost.-You will, of course, improve an opportunity so temptingly placed before you; but take cld gent. our advice and rule with moderation.
