POPTS CORNER. TWENTY YEARS AGO.

How wondrous are the changes, Jim, Since twenty years ago, When gals wore woolen dresses, Jim, And boys wore pants of tow-When shoes were made of calf-skin. And socks of homespun wood; And children did a half day's work Before the hour of school !

When girls took music lessons, Jim, Upon the spinning wheel; And "practiced" late and early, Jins, Upon the "doubling" reel; The boys would ride bareback to mill, A duzen miles or 20, And hurry off before 'iwas day,

Some twenty years ago. Then people rode to meeting, Jim, In sleds, insteal of sleight, And wagons rode as easy, Jim, As buggies now-a-days; And oxen answered well for teams, Though now they'd be too slow, For people lived not half so fast Some twenty years ago.

That "Wilson's patent stove," That fatl er bought and paid for, Jim, In cloth our gals had wove ; And how the neighbors wondered When we got the thing to go, And said 'twould bust and kill us all, Some twenty years ago. Yes, everything is different. Jim, And what on earth we're coming to-Does anybody know? For everything has changed to much

Why the Shoe Pluchers & Con Applied Anatomy, By Bir man Applied Anatomy, By Birman Herry, M. D., Professor of Anatomy in the Differenty of Zurich, Translated from the German by John Stirling Craig. Ediuburgh : Ediuburgh : and Douglas.

Dr. Meyer, the author, is pronounced one of the highest continental canthorities on Physiological Anatomy, who has published an important general text on that selence, as well as several treatises on the spreature of the fort and knee. In the discussion now under consideration best also discussion now ceded by Poter Ounger, who, in the last century, write a paper "Ou the best Shoe," and who zealously but ineffectually wrged that the foot gear of man was quite an im-A poetical genius, who is not a blood rela- portant a topic as the sheeing of borses, to

It is kissed someholy of the femining gender, has the needless sufferings which mon and women bardly ten years since not more than three " bubbled his soul " in a "fragment." which, ' endure from badly cut and ill-shaped shoes

Against the prevailing pattern Professor Mover, in his capacity of anatomist, atters an entuest protest. The cut of a shoe, says the Professor, is not, as the cut of a cost, a matter of indifference. "When Fashion proscribes an arbitrary form of shoe, she goes," he asserts, "fur beyond her province, and, in reality, arrogates to herself the right of determining the shape of the feat."

In his opinion the shoemaker ought not on-to produce a shoe that does not pinch, but a shue so constructed that it will give to a foot distorted by the pinching it has borse already, a fair chance of a return to its right shape, and full possession of its power as a means of entrying the boay onward. He tells us that, in measuring a foot for shoe or book the first thirg to be considered is the place of the great toe. Upon this toe, in walking, the weight of the whole body turns at every step; in the natural foot, therefore, it is in a straight line with the heel. A central straight line drawn from the point of the great too to the middle of its root, if continued, would pass rory exactly to the middle of the neel. By the misfitting boot o armonly worn the point of the toe is pressed inwards, the root outwards. The practice adopted by many of having a last nude to the exact size and model of the foot is condemned by Professor Meyer, if the foot has been previously injured in consequence of wearing ill fitting houts or shoes. If a cast he made of a distorted foot and a boot fitted to that, it is had, because thereby the distortion is confirmed. It would be much better, therefore, says the Professor, so to form the boot that the conditions of healthy walking are allowed for, and the hones, at least to some extent, can gradually right themselves. Town foot shortened by listortion he would fit a choe adapted to its healthy size. But of a pair of boots made so as to content the eye of an anatomist, who knows what work is d. ac by every bone, the main characteristic i-, that when they stand side by side, with their heels in contact, the inner margins of the front part of the sole are inner margins of the trons part of the along the whole edge corresponding to the desirable to point the toes they must be pain-ted only from the outer side, after the place of greatest breadth in the fuot has been properly respected. A certain sense of turn inward belongs to the shape of boots so made, but if they fit perfectly they will ensure to the foot the utmost case and power, and as their shape is of the ordinance of nature they are no doubt really as elegant as those of which the pattern is a boot maker's invention. Dr. Mayer siys that two or three persons
