Pickings and Stealings.

The reasons given by the Democratic Senators for refusing to vote for the $500,000 appropriation to arm the State are beginning to be realized in their full force.-Up to this time no money has been expended for arms, and yet we venture to say, that if all the bills contracted in the army movements and the equipments purch-sed were paid to-day, there would be a very small balance of the appropriation on hand.

Within a day or two, revelations of an astounding nature have been made, which go to show that unprincipled men are turning the whole affair into a grand speculation and a Legislative investigation is freely talk-

We are told that the control tors who are now engaged at the Girard Bouse, in Philadelphia, in getting up clothing for the army, have turned the whole operation into a grand speculation, and are making a nice thing of it. It is said that they charge the State for each military coat made $2.25, while they pay the woman who do the work only 70 cents. Hundreds of soman who are wealthy have volunteered to make up these garments without pay, and yet for every one. that is turned in somebody receives two dol-lars and twenty-five cents. The same may be said of everything else, even to the manufacture of shirts. Material is purched at a certain price, and bills, with a certain per-centage added, are rendered, which percentage is of course folded by somebody. One firm in Philadelphia had an offer to dispose of a large quantity of cloth by making out one of these bills, but being honorable men, they essories to such dishon-

The Blockade of Southern Ports.—Washing ton, April 20.—Some excitement has been produced in diplomatic circles, growing out of the proclamation of the President, directing a blockade to be respected by foreign powers, must not only be effective, but that due notice must be given of such intention to their representatives. With Brazil and all the South American Governments, a notice of ninety thay is required under existing treaties. Itself this has not been given by our Government. Hence, consignments of coffee and other natural products, designed for Southern ports are delayed in their transportation to that portion of the country—the merchants not may tion of the country—the merchants not have tions, and I can cheeribly recommend it to the ing been notified of the effects of the imme-public as a sure antidote to these complaints.
