POPPING CORN.

And there they sat a-popping corn, John Stiles and Susan Cutter; John Stiles as stout as any ox, And Susan fat as butter.

And there they sat and shelled the corn, And raked and slirred the fire; And talked of different kinds of ears, And hitched their chairs up nigher.

Then Susan she the popper shook, Then Jobn he shook the popper, Till both their faces grew as red As saucepans made of copper.

And then they shelled and popped and ate, All kinds of fun a-peking, And he naw-hawed at her remarks, And she laughed at his joking.

And still they popped, and still they ate, (John's mouth was like a hopper.) And stirred the file, and sprinkled salt, And spook and shook the popper.

The clock struck hine, the clock struck ten, And still the coin kept popping: It struck eleven and then struck twelve, And still no signs of stopping.

And John he ate, and Sue she thought,
The corn did hop and putter,
Till John cried out, "The corn's a-fire! Why, Susan, what's the matter?' -Said she, John Sules it's one o'clock !

You'll die of indigestion ! I'm sick of all this popping corn, Wher don't you hop the question?" Springfield Republican.

dent, the loyal people of the slave State are as true to this Union as any man in the Senate Chamber, or in any of the free States; but never, never will they submit by unconstitutional laws to have their slaves liberated and to remain domiciled among them; and the policy that attempts it will establish a bloody La Vendee in the whole of the slave States, my own included. If at the time you commenced this war, you had announced as the national policy that was to prevail, the measures and visionary schemes and ideas of some gentlemen on this floor, you would not have had a solitary man from the slave States to support you. Whenever you seek to carry those measures into operation you unite the slave States as one man. They will tell you that in resisting such schemes they are fighting for the Union and the Constitution; and they will tell you so truly. They will tell you that your system of policy is no less aggressive and destructive upon the Union and the Constitution than that of the rebels of secessia themselves; and they will tell you so truly. They will feel it as incum-Kentucky Union Sentiment on bent on them as men and as freemen to present your unconstitutional policy, by which you will overturn and trample under your feet SPEECH OF THE HON. THE FREEDOM OF THE PRESS.

Slowly but surely the strong American danger of a re-action in favor of universal anarchy, but the cool and deliberate mind, the suber second thought of the nation. condemns the past, and gives to itself the solenm promise that no such political sins shall be committed in the future. It is not nucessary now to argue that these things were wrong. Every man in the nation, whose opinion is worth an expression, every newspaper, so far as we know, which is recognized as expressing the views of an in-telligent editor or party, (conservative and radical, Democratic and Republican.) all found to support the acts of which we speak

We have escaped the danger once, and we shall hardly be likely again to fall into that will result in the exile or the externii tive element in the nation, no man can tell

An address was delivered in Louisville on the 22d of February, by Hon. James Guthrie, a very ardent friend of the Union. the intervention of the courts, the moment At present we have room only for the following extract:

"The worst enemies of the constitution are those whose constant cry is for the blood of the rebels, and the confiscation of their estates, with the emoncipation of the WOULD TRANSLE THE CONSTITUTION, the rights of property, and the principles of humanity, under font, and blast forever the prosperit of the nation."

A Latinised Recipe .- Every man who has pride enough to own a horse is anxious to have it appear well. We clip the following ad libitum: elbow greaset quantum sufficus; blanketus firstratus : stablus warmus : fodderous, never say dietus, but mealus es oatus; exercisus non compromisus. The effect will be-Coatus shinus, appetitus wolfitus, muscularitus two-forty-itus.
