THE GREAT BATTLE AT RICHMOND.

Particulars of the First Day's Fighting. [Army Correspondence of Associated Press.]

HEADOR'S OF GENERAL McCLESLAN, June 2, P. M. two days of the battle of Richmond have the fought, on both of which our troops have been victorious. The loss on both sides is heavy. The battle was opened by the enemy making an attack on General Casey's division, encamped near Seven Pines, on the turnpike leading over Bottom.

Some of the troops in this division from New York and Pennsylvania behaved very badly. Many of the officers were killed and wounded in endeavoring to rally their men. General Heintzloman, on ascertaining the result, ordered forward a portion of the divisions of Generals Kearney and Hooker to regain the day. General Kearney's men. the bayonet, driving the rebels before them, and regaining all the lost ground—about half a mile-when night coming on, operations were brought to a close. Gen. Sumner's two divisions—Sedgwick's Longstreet's, Rain's and Huger's divisions, the flower of the rebel army. The fighting was desperate, every foot of the ground being hotly pentested, but our soldiers were too much for them.

The enemy would stand manfally at a distance of sixty yards and receive the fire of our troops, but they were airaid of the bayonet, and in every instance that our men charged they were victorious.

These two divisions did nobly, driving the rebels at every point until dark.

The enemy's loss here was very heavy—many of them being killed by the bayonet. Gen-Pettigrew, of South Carolina, was taken prisoner, and we have about 500 other prisoners, among whom—— . [At this point the wire ceased to work
