Rical Preachers who have had so much to do in bringing about division and hatred between the different sections of our country, culminating in our present troubles, are still busy at work for the abolition of Slavery, and are endeavoring to convince the people that the Union cannot be preserved with Slavery, and the Constitution maintained as it is. They began their work of ruin many years ago, and the effect of their men add patriots. It would seem that, beholding the sad results of their course, they should heed the lessons of sad experience and confine themselves to their sacred raission; yet the pulpit, in too many instances, is occupied for far different purposes from preaching "Christ and Him Crucified,"—York Gazette.
