OLD FRIENDS.

The old, old friends!—
Some changed; some buried; some gone out of sight;
Some enemies, and in the world's swift fight
No time to make amends.

The old, old friends!—
Where are they? Three are lying in one grave;
And one from the far-off world on the daily wave
Loving message sends.

The old, old friends!—
One passes daily; and one wears a mask;
Another, long estranged, cares not to ask
Where causeless anger ends.

The old, old friends!—
They hover round me still in evening shades;
Surely they shall return when sunlight fades,
And life in sorrows ends.

The old, old friends!—
They have once more been called to the field;—
At order from the Commanding General,
They are again sent to the front.

The old, old friends!—
They have once more been called to the field;—
At order from the Commanding General,
They are again sent to the front.

The old, old friends!—
They have once more been called to the field;—
At order from the Commanding General,
They are again sent to the front.
