The war in which the nation is engaged against armed and infituated rebels and the radical policy of the administration which prolongs it, have conspired to bring together upon one platform all conservative, Unionloving and Constitution-loving men, of what-ever former name and creed. Many of those **PICKING'S late arrival of New Goods who, within the limits of the Constitution, mbraces everything in the Clothing line for fought the battles of the ballot-box under the lendership of those patriotic atmessmen of other leadership of those patriotic statesmen of other cud better days, Henry Clay and Daviel Webster, together with the masses whose principles were those of such patriots as Andrew Jackson, and William L. Marcy, Stas Wright and Stephen A. Doughts, now stand shoulder to shoulder upon the same platform and under the same bunner. The platform is a plain one. The is to bestork the Union, maintain the Constitution, and subcace the Laws. Whatever makes for this end, the exercise of force or the policy of conciliation, The World will advocate; whitever makes against it, The World will analyse the process of the policy of conciliation, the World will endocate the policy of conciliation of the World will endocate the policy of conciliation.
