The Inauguration of the National Cemetery at Gettysburg.

OFFICE OF THE U. S. STATES MARSHAL, WASHINGTON, Nov. 10, 1863.
The undersigned respectfully request the marshals to be appointed, at my request, by the Governors of the several States, the propriety of adopting a uniform dress and badge to be worn by them upon the occasion of the inauguration of the National Cemetery, at Gettysburg, on the 19th instant, and to that end he would submit the following as a guide, which will be complied with as nearly as possible.
1st. That the dress be a plain black suit (frock coat being preferable) black hat, and white gloves.
2d. A white sash across, five inches wide, to be worn over the right shoulder, and carried across the breast and back to the left hip, and there fastened with a rosette, the sash to be fringed, and to extend to the knee. At the centre on the shoulder the sash should be gathered and mounted with a rosette.
3d. The rosettes for the scarf to be four inches across, raised in the centre, and to be made of black and white ribbon, and to be worn on each side of the white.
4th. Each State marshal will also wear upon the left breast a national rosette of "red, white, and blue" ribbon, of the size indicated above, with the initials of each State in the centre. This will greatly facilitate the duties of the special aids of the chief marshal, in conveying orders to the marshals of the States, by the fact that they will be more readily distinguished.
5th. The marshals of the States will be required to furnish their own horses. On this point the undersigned would suggest that perhaps some arrangements can be made with the authorities of Pennsylvania, to furnish enough horseflesh for the marshals of the States at a much less expense than they could otherwise be procured.
Special aids to the chief marshal, in order to be distinguished from the marshals of the States, will wear buff satin shirts with buff trousers, as described above.
