Old " Meier Jack Downing " has turned nu anth. in a recent letter to the New York Day Book he makes the following allusion to the late defeats of the "Dimmycratic Party," which it would be well to lay to heart;

." Things are now jest as bad as they kin be, and that is what encourages me. I shall never forget Hezekiah Stebbins, who lived away up in the upper part of Penobecot .-One winter it had been awful cold weather, and Kish had had wonderful bad luck, and towards spring it seemed to get worse nstead of better. He had lost his horse and his cow, and his chickens, and all his pigs but one. Finally that died, and the west day I happened to go up to his house to see how he was getting along. I found the old man happy as a lark. He was singin' and shoutin' as if nothing had happen'd. When I went in see I, "Kish, what on sirth the matter?' 'Oh,' see he, 'the last pig is dead, and he went to jumpin and clapgan' his hands as if he was the happiest man in the universe. Ses I, what posseases you to act so? 'Wal,' ses he, 'things can't be no wus. The last pig is dead! anything that happyns now must be for the better.' And just so it is with the Dimmycratic party. Anything now that happens is it must be for the better. And I must onfess that I feel a good deal like Kiah. I don't feel at all like settin' down and chyin' like a sick baby over spilt milk, because we've been whint in the late elecwhite way been whipt in the late elec-ahins. That sin't the way old Gineral Hickory Jackson taught me Democracy."
