POETRY.

Oh! that the bells in all these silent spire Would clash their clangor on the sleeping sir, Ring their wild music out with throbbing choirs, Ring peace in everywhere !

Oh! that this wave of sorrow surging o'er
The red, red land, would wash away its stain;
Drown out the angry fire from shore to shore,

And give it peace again ! On last year's blossoming graves, with summer calm, Loud in his happy tangle hums the bee; Nature forgets her hurt, and finds her balm— Alas! and why not we?

Spirit of God! that moved upon the face Of the waters, and bade ancient chaos cease Shine, shine again o'er this tumultuous space, Thou that art Prince of Pesce!

CURRENCY-TAX.

"The heaviest possible war tax," says the N. Y. Times, "is the depreciation of the currency." This is undoubtedly so, and the first duty of Congress, is to take immediate measures to reduce the currency and afraid of the contrast between the present thereby equalize, as nearly as possible, the value of paper and gold. The Times, although Republican, enforces its doctrine in true Democratic style. It says:

"Every man, woman and child now pays half of their monthly earnings into the cof-fers of the war. It s mechanic earns his $600 a year, $300 are paid away in the paper currency.; if a clergyman or college profess-or receives $1,500 salary, he now gives $750 to sustain the circulation of the country.-It is so with every day 'laborer and the poorest seamstress. The nation doubles its debt every day, because its paper representative of value has the world and a terror of evil doers. How striking the contrast looking at the country and now! reduced value of the currency. The dollar is only worth fifty cents. Every one knows this. The people see that what is called the price of gold, is to them the most important of all pecuniary matters, and that the tax on the currency far outruns all other taxes. Indeed it is well seen now that a direct tax of fifty per cent. on every person's income, (provided it brought the currency up to par) would be less exacting and wasteful than the present depreciation, because it would be fixed, and would not permit such excessive speculation and over-

The Theological Seminary at Gettysburg .- It is stated in the Lutheran Observer that a single family, belonging to the Lutheran congregation of Pittsburg, Pa., have deterinined to undertake the endowment of "loyal" men—that is, they are in favor of negro-equality and the abolition of slavery. It then then be put into the army and light as they preach. They are no better than other men, and should not be permitted to shirk responsibility.—Curlisle Volunteer.

An Od Speculation.—Some two or three months ago a smart Orange county chap went out to the Pennsylvania od region, went on to the Pennsylvania od region, intent on speculation. He spent $4.500 in 000: Christopher subscribed $3.000, and 000; Christopher subscribed $3,000, and boring a well. His pumps gave no show of oil, all his capital was gone, and the Orange business, $500, with the anticipation of doubty man was ruined. A happy thought struck him. He bought five barrels of oil ized. It is further stated that a convention of the friends of the Seminary is to meet in Baltimore on the scoond Wednesday in Murch next, to adopt a plan, and inaugurate measures to the completion of its endowment.
