Like the Egyptian queen in ancient story, That garbed berself all toyally to die.

The year a round, her folds her robe of beauty,

And stands a queen beneath the pailid sky ,

And round her regal form, like hushed attendants

For 'neath her splendor heaves to death her boson

Smote by the aspic of the untirnely flost.

Like Caesar soon will come the chill December,

To gaze upon her form whence life is field;

And the wild winds that wail around her, dying,

Will shrick in anguish o'er the bright year dead.

Several correspondents-some of them members of the D-mocratic State Central Committee-urge the ceturn of the Domocratic party to the old princtice of holding then State Conventions on the 1th of March. The suggestion is worthy at least of consid-eration. However, men may differ as to the arguments for and against postpons-ment that have been presented from time to time, it will be encoded that the postponements brought with them no solid adpotentials of ought whit them in some ar-vantages to the party in the contests which followed. From the 4th of March to the second Tuesday, in Ostober, is not more time than is needed, and can be efficiently used for the proper dissemination of documents and other purposes of party organization. If the Convention be postponed, as it has been in one instance, to June, and in another to August, the effect will be developed in the disintegration and supineness of the party, and consequent failure of our political campaign. The time is manifestly too short for the work necessary after the nominations are made, how-ever diligent the committee may be. Why nt give them time er.ough ?

The question is one of great importance to the Democratio party in Pennsylvania, and we press it upon the attention of our political mends. We bespeak for it prompt consideration by the State Central Commitlee:—Aye.
