Does it apply the incendiaries' torch to your dwelling? Does it abuse your wife and your little children, and throw upon the cold miseries of the world millions of men, houseless, homeless, and penulless? Cin we from this believe that the standard of piety is up to the requirements of the Scriptures ?

We have at present thrown upon the world about four millions of human beings. who never had any care or anxiety about the future ; and what is being done to bet-ter their condition ? I admit there is any but all is over now, and we can draw a deep, quantity of sympathy, but that neither shelters, feeds, nor clothes those unfortunate creatures, who are without friends or homes. They are dying by hundreds and thousands, these very unfortunate negroes, who have been druelly and unkindly treat-ed in the way in which they have been thrown upon the world. If slavery was to be got rid of in this country—if the people had wished it, it should have been done gradually. Their condition is deplorable in the extreme, and the hot breath of the pestilence is sweeping over them like the sirocco of the desert. It is the duty of those who brought-them to this condition to pro-who for them, for they are mostly that portion of the American people whose an-cestors were chiefly concerned in bringing African slaves to this country, and who reaped immense fortunes thereby; the in-habitants of the States of Massachusetts and Rhode Island should take care of these people now. I do not say they injured the negro by bringing him here; I have an en-tirely different view of the subject. In their native Africa they were merely ani-mals, but here their minds were raised from darkness and degradation and exposed to the consoling influences of civilization and Christianity. Was that doing him a wrong? I have always been a true friend to the ne-gro, and would have him treated with all gro, and would have him treated with al-kindness and humanity, and Christian sen-timent, in his place, and nowhere else. -Another frightful sign of the times is the demoralization, of the country-robbery, murder, drunkenness, and Sabbath dese-cration. Some say it is the result of in-creased population, but that cannot well be true, considering we have had a four-varder was in which we lost considerable year's war, in which we lost considerably more than normalion people. It extends to all classes. In legislative bodies you can easily accomplisity our object; you can buy men. The ballot-box, about which we boast so much, is rotten to the core, and our boasted defence is little more than a farce. You can buy men as you buy sheep

GRANT SHOWING UP BUTLER.

The pricking of a bubble shows its utter nollowness at once. Human bubbles sometimes manage to float for a long time before they are pierced by the sharp point of the keen spear of truth and their utter empti-ness exposed to the public view. Now and General Grant in his report, which all men will receive as truthful, most effectually disposes of this would be hero. The New

the great Presidential elections for the pur-pose of buying American citizens to vote as you wish them. A man who calls him-self a Republican requires him calls him-Richmond to Petersburg on Butler's front practicable, and in accordance with the undefended, and Butler seized it. Grant, resources of the country, and recommends self a Republican requires his men to vote the ticket he desires, or they lose their situations. They say that such a man can be approached, and that means that you there was no reason; and then how Terry, with nearly the same force, accomplished the sequel to this Grant merely says: assigned to the command of the Denartment of Virginia and North Carolina. NUMBER OF A STREET STREET

Report of the Secretary of the Treasury. The annual report of High McCullooh, the Searchary of the Treasury, presents a full expection of the condition of the Na-tional funnces. The Secretary congratulates the country on the fact that it has been enabled to bear the expenses of a protracted and costly war from its own resources, and without aid from loreign capitalists, and derives a favorable augury of the ability of the nation to loguidate all the obligations which it has contracted. Mr. McCulloch affirms the right of Congress at all times to borrow money in such form as may be most convenient, but the right to make its obli-gations a legal tender for the payment of all public and purate debts can only be sustained by the unwritten law, which sanctions whatever acts may be committed by the representatives of the people for the defence of the nation in time of extreme peril.

The emergency having passed away, the legal tender clause should not be continued NO. 12. ne moment longer than may be essential to promote the return to specie psymethis. It may not be desirable to repeal the laws immediately, but as Congress could not have designed to perpetuate in time of peace a measure that not only intended s an emergency of war, it is to the oredit of the Government and the interest of the people, to restore its obligations to their full specie value, and bring to a conclusion the irredeemable paper money which must re-flect a certain discredit upon the Govern-ment so long as it is maintained. The S-oretary opposes the arguments advanced in favor of making United States notes a permanent currency, and states that a paper circulation should be flexible, and accommodate itself to the wants of trade, and, if furnished, by the Bovernment, it would be iable to be influenced by the wants of the Freasury, and the interests of political parties rather than by the necessities of the people.

Secretary McCulloch traces the relation. ship between currency and prices, and de-duces from the financial panics of 1837 and 1857, the conclusion that an inflated circulation produces over-trading and high prices, while a contracted circulation causes a reduction in prices of commodities, and resource trade to a healthy basis. In 1850, the paper circulation amounted to $207,-102,000; at the present time, it has attain-ed the startling proportions of $704,000,000. As this excessive circulation increases the cost of living, and induces an unhealthy, feverish state of business, the Secretary ur-ges an immediate and steady contraction. With this view he recommends that Con-gress shall declare that the compound in-terestapotes shall cease to be a legal tender ness crypsed to the public view. Now and ness crypsed to the public view. Now and then, however, some pretentious character is disposed of by n single rude thrust. But-her, the beast, as he has been aptly termed, has been blown into a kind of meretricious netoriety by means of the pens of menda-net not solve the policy of contraction will exercise that the policy of contraction will exercise an unfavorable influence on business.

He next urges the importance to the na-tion of funding the national debt; which

York Harald, in its review of General Grant's mounted on the 31st of Ostober last to a report, very forcibly says: Grant's references to Butler put that $2,808,945,437. If e estimates that the total Front's references to Butler put that doughty personage before the country in the proper light for the first time. They such an empty, blatant pretender, and just hy hold' him up to contempt. Butler was against Richmond that that eavapaign objective point, and that he was to co-operate with the Army of the Potomuc, and to seize gaged Lee on the Ripidan. The plan was gaged Lee on the Ripidan. The plan was perfect, and no person with less ingenuity than Butler would have found it possible to spoil it. Butler, however, managed wonderfully not to do what was requisite. He was shown that Richmond could not be reinforced from the south or from Lee's reinforced from the south or from Lee's interest of the national debt. The interest army, and was at his mercy; but instead of on $3,000.000.000 at five per cent. amounts seizing it he sat down at Bermuda Hundred to $150,000,000, leaving a bulance of $50, and wrote despatches and "suffered the 000,000 to go towards the payment of the enemy to as completely shut him off from principal during the first year. As the further operations against Richmond as if amount of interest will decrease with the he had been in a bottle strongly corked." #### A Sharp Trick.

The Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Ledger, of the 27th ult., sends the following : The Commissioner of Customs has: just received intelligence of the detection and errest of a party of female smugglers on the Canada frontier, engaged in the whiskey trafic. A few days since the revenue deteotivés on a train coming from Canada had their suspicions aroused by the unusual number of women and babies on board; and noticed that out of thirty two babies but two evinced the ordinary signs of animation. On arriving at a station on this thing; you have banished injustice, and iside of the river, where several of the sus-made all men, of whatever nation or color, picious females left the train, the detectives with their usual courtesy insisted on hol-la ing the "baby" until the lady slighted, and
