Selected Poetry.

Here's Christmas. Here's "Christmas"-let us boldly greet him, We may as well, for none can chest him ; He will steal on, and slyly sprinkle The first gray hair and first faint wrinkle And yet methinks it little matters What see 1 of ruin-moss he scatters, So that amid it we contrive To keep Truth's Heartsease still alive

Here's Christmas, and it seemeth well That Conscience to our deeds should tell The just cesult of all we've done. And time the way our sands have run. Let us peruse the closely scaled, The volume ever unrevealed, And see if we have said or thought

Within our breast.

And well it is that we should see So. ere we drain the festive cup, We'll look within, and h ckin up The debts we nwe.

But face ourselves, and boldly ask Our conduct whether at has trod The path of Mammon or of Goi ? A more important "day-book" lives Than that which worldly commerce gives; Some brighter figures must be found Than those which make the golden round Of Profit's dial.

Let us take beed that no arrears Are due to those whose atleut tears Are calling on us night and day For debts which mercy ought to par; Let us be sure that we have heard The claims of Mosery's lowly word, And that out lips have never driven The helpless and the spinit-riven With harsh denial.

Let us think how "accounts" any stand When the "recording angel's" hand Adds up our column-turning then To the "great book" ort kept by men. No yellow dust will serve to hide The errors made by selfish pride; filse items, though on vellum page Will never bear the searching gauge Of holy sight

So take good cantion how we let Delusion lead us into deb.; And let old Christmas flud us willing To prev Humanity's last shilling. We'lipile the log and drain the cup, But not before we reckon up The · balance-sheet" that Conscience draws, And God ever keeps by His one laws Of Wrong and Right.

A' BEPEBLICAN JOUBNAL ON THAN STEVENS.

The Philadelphia Daily News, a paper which has never acted with the Democracy, and which has been as bitt-r as any other in the State, is gradually coming to its senses, if we are to judge by the following just and well-timed sketch of the Lancaster member of Congress. We give the article entire as we find it in a late issue:

It is as much the duty of a candid jour-nalist to point out those defects of judg-ment, in a person occupying an influential position, which are like to bring trouble upon the country, as it is to perform the more agreeable task of commending the wise and prirrotic acts of those who labor judiciously and earnestly to prevent disas-

Mr. Stevens is a visionary theorist, whose judgment is distorted by the harsh feelings which he entertains toward the people of the States recently at war with our government; and, what is of much more consequence to every citizen of a loyal State, is that he is a revolutionat. He has repeatedly declared that he does not respect the Conetitution which is the creator of the legislative body of which he is a member. If his views be adopted and put into practice the American republic will no longer have an existence, although the name may be retained. He would utterly destroy the grandest political fabric ever erected by the wisdom and patriotism of man, an t substitute for it an oligarchy of an und& fined and irresponsible character. the utter subversion of what has been so of teo termed "the best government upon each" for the purpose of est iblishing some form of tyranny whose shape is not yet well defined. When men revolt ag inst desp .;-ic governments their coulust is deemed heroic and patriotic, for it is presumed that they are actuated by the desire to establish one in which freed m and justice may be instituted; but what excuse can be given the efforts which are now made to overthrow a government whose fundamental character secures all power to the people ? Can it be that men who sustain the revolu-tionary policy of Mr. Stevens fully compre-bend it? Dothey see that in an effort to wreak vengeance upon men who have rebelled against the authority of the government, they are about to pull down the house which shelters them upon their own head-? Mr. S. acts upon the presumption that the Constitution has already begoing obsolete, and has no longer power to re-train the mijority in Congress; and if this view be correct, our government has been changed to something different from Walks it was before the war. It would be well for those whose notions of the power of Congressing based upon the point of that it may disregard the Constitution if they would coolly ask themselves what our government is, and what security we have for the hberties of which we have heretofore boasted so much. Tue two houses of Congress have no legal power but what they get from the Consti-tution, and if they act in disregard of it, they may with as much show of right pass "a concurrent resolution" making Mr. Thaddeus Stevens Emperor of North America as they may to do any other of the ridicalous thing, which he proposes.
