LITTLE JERRY, THE MILLER. Beneath the hill you may see the mfil, Of wasting wood and crumbling stone; The wheel is dripping and clattering still, But Jerry, the miller, is dead and gone.

Year after year, early and late,
Alike in summer and winter weather, He pecked the stones and calked the gate And mill and miller grew old together. "Little Jerry!"--'twas all the same-

They loved him well who called him so; And whether he'd ever another name, Nobody ever seemed to know. "Iwas " Little Jerry, come grind my rye;"

And "Little Jerry, come grind my wheat;"
And "Little Jerry" was still the cry, From matron bold and matron sweet. 'Twas "Little Jerry" on every tongue, And thus the simple twith was told.

For Jerry was little when he was young, And Jerry was little when he was old But what in size he chanced to lack, That Jerry made up in being strong; I've seen a sack upon his back

As thick as the miller, and quite as long Always busy and always merry, Always doing his very best, A notable wag was little Jerry,

Who uttered with his standing jest-"When will you grind my corn, I say?" "Nay," quoth Jerry, "you needn't scold; Just leave your grist for half a day, And never fear but you'll be TOLLED."

How Jerry lived is known to fame, But how he died there's none may know: One autumn day the rumor came,
"The brook and Jerry are very low."

And then 'twas whispered mournfully The leech had come and he was dead; And all the neighbors flocked to see;— "Poor Little Jerry!" was all they said.

They laid him in his earthy bed-His miller's cost his only shroud-"Dust to dust" the parson said, And all the people wept aloud. For he had shunned the deadly sin, . And not a grain of over toll

Had ever dropped into his bin, To weigh upon his parting soul. Beneath the hill there stands the mill. Of wasting wood and crumbling stone The wheel is dripping and clattering stift, But Jerry, the miller, is dead and gone.

It is a kind of disloys. tion of the frost, and it is thought that the mounds freeze solid to the tree, and remain frozen until spring, especially if well mulched, and the buds are kept back until late in the spring, and escape untimely frosts. It is claimed for this plan, also, that there is a vastly increased surface exposed t the heat and air for their happy influence. It is found that the earth is literally filled with fine fibrous feeding roots by the third or fourth year which are ready to make the most of the 'situa-

Upon this resolution Senator CLYMER. now the Democratic candidate for Gover-I did not know, sir, that the Senator from Washington (Mr. Hopkins) was about to offer a resolution of this kind; had I been and Union of these States, and we tell you aware of the fact, I might have been able to form a more correct judgment as to his intentions in so doing. JUSTICE TO THE SOLDIER. I presume he designed to perform an act of simple justice to those who, on the tented field, are struggling for the maintenance of this Government. He himself avows his intention to place this meritorious class of our fellow-citizens, as far as relates to their pay, upon a footing with those sleek, well paid, well fed, truly loyal, and most discrete gentlemen who, in this time of trial, are idling sunny hours in the courts of Europe as our foreign ministers, while the soldier is enduring the pains, the trish and the dangers of a campaign. Contemplate the picture; the one class clothed in purple and paid in gold, the other clad in homespun and paid in greenbacks! The one surrounded by all the luxury which gold can buy, the other in their individual persons and in their families enduring all the want and misery which paper money ever entails! An unpredjudiced observer, sir, would not; it seems to me, be likely to at-ribute any sinister or improper motive to MR. BOLMER'S PEACH ORCHARD.

In a very long communication, Mr. Lewis Bolmer, of the Great Mismit Valley, presented to the Cincinnati Horticultural Society, his method of the soldier—paid in greenbacks—and the soldier—and th salaries of our foreign ministers, ranging from seven to twenty thousand a year, paid in gold, is of such magnitude that it should not be "disloyal" to attempt to equalize it. TALK AND NO. WORK.

Possibly, sir, the Senator from Washington offered the resolution with an additional motive-that was, to relieve himself, and those who act with him politically, from the base and unfounded charge that we were opposed to an increase of the pay of the opposite side of this chamber, instructing our Senators and requesting our Represen tatives in Congress, to vote for a bill increasartificial protection. THE DEARING MASSACRE.

Murderer's Real Name,

Probst.-Burial of the Victims From the Philadelphia Age of Monday. The genuine name of the murderer of the Dearing family has at last been ascertained.
In signing his name at the County Prison it was found to read Antoine Probst, and not Anthony Ganther, as he stated before the Mayor in his examination. The prison oner has been fully committed, and at the present time occupies the same cell in which Present time occupies the same cell in which the coccusion was one of the most solemn. The inspector here asked the prisoner what his family would say when they heard of the atrocious crime he had committed. To this he made no reply, but showed some emotion and shed a few tears. The account of how Mr. Dearing and Miss Dolan were killed, given by the prisoner to the Inspector, differs from his statement made to the Mayor. WHEREAROUTS OF THE MURDERER. It has been ascertained to a certainty that the murderer never left the city. On Saturday night, after committing the deed, he repaired to a brothel near Front and ed, as we then believed, and as you subse- Moore streets. Sunday he passed in Mg. quently admitted by proceeding to elect a Lakefelt's lager beer saloon in New Market Speaker, a resolution was offered on the opposite side of this chamber. near Willow. In the evening he left his value in the charge of the landlord and stayed all night at a house near Front and Brown streets. On Monday he again went to Lakefelt's and remained there till Tues day morning, when he left without paying for his lodging and meals, and Mrs. Lakefelt took possession of the value, intending to keep it as a security for the payment o his board. Tuesday night he remained in a house of ill fame. From Wednesday till

He was even appealed to by one of the company, who said, "What do you think? Isn't it a shame that a German should have done this and disgraced his countrymen?" Probet made no reply, and pretended to be asleep, with his hat drawn over his eyes. But immediately afterward a German who knew him entered, and proposed a game of cards. Probet consented at once and in the intervals of shuffling and dealing had the hardihood to read the ac-

WHAT BECAME OF THE STOLEN MONEY,

It has been discovered that while Probe was wandering about Front and Market streets, he had another man with him. atreets, he had another man with him.—
They were drinking together, and the anknown man, it is stated, remarked to the keeper of a saloon, "This German has got, a lot of money and he talks about going to Germany. If he keeps on this spree he will lose it, and I am going to play for it." "The is most probable that the man did play for it and thus accured the proceeds of the murder, and so induced Probst, in the midst of his disampointment, to endeavor midst of his disappointment, to endeavor to fix upon some one a part of the guits which wholly belongs to himself.

THE FUNERAL OF THE MURDERED. The funeral of the victime of the late atrocious murder took place on Saturday morning, from the house of Mr. Simon Gartland, the undertaker, in Thirteentla street above Chestnut.

APPEARANCE OF THE BODIES.

The bodies were laid out in neat shrouds and placed in coffins, having on their lids the names of the deceased in order, with silver plates to designate them, as follows: Cornelius Carey, died April 7, 1866, aged 17 years. Elizabeth Dolan, died April 7, 1866, aged

Emily Dearing, died April 7, 1866, aged Anna Dearing, died April 7, 1866, aged

Thomas Dearing, died April 7, 1866, aged

John Deaving, died April 7, 1886, aged Julia Dearing, died April 7, 1866, aged 45 years. Christopher Dearing, died April 7, 1866, aged 38 years. At the head of the coffins were to be seen burning a number of candles in accordance with the usages of the Catholic Church, of which the deceased were members.

VIEWING THE RAMAINS. At the hour of ten o'clock, the gate leading to the premises of the undertaker was thrown open, and all having tickets of admission were permitted to enter for the purpose of viewing the bodies as they lay in their coffins. The scene was most solemn and affecting. Old and young, as they witnessed the mutilated remains, gave vent to their feelings of sympathy by suppressed sobs, which at times became almost audible in spite of their endeavors to hide them .-As the crowd passed in front of the different bodies, they were required to leave the premises by the front door, in order to make room for those who followed them. AN AWFUL SCENE, About noon the relatives of the massa-cred family resolved the residence of Mr. Gartland to take their final parting with the death-bound group of parents, children and friends. When their arrival was announced the room was cleared of persons. with several exceptions, and the surgiving kindred were ushered into the presence of the dead. The effectionate grand-father leading by the hand the bright lad Willie Dearing, were first to enter, followed by those who mourned with them. An appalling scene ensued. Father, mother, brothers, sisters, the baby and the kind-Cornelius Carey were before little Willie fearfully still in death. The death wounds of their cruel execution were fresh within of their cruel execution were tresh within view. Grief melted the heart of the desolate child and his good protector, and winding about the field of dead both wetted with pure tears the dear faces of those they loved so well. Where is the baby, my father! dear Johnny! and so would be county the bodies of them all. Other sought the bodies of them all. Other heart-rending incidents might be joined with the names of several survivors but the sorrowful hour passed. All stood in awa as burning love and innocence gave up the ties of life. APPEARANCE OF THE STREETS.

The streets through which the funeral moved were lined by a multitude of anxious ing it, and having a majority, effected its spectators, who appeared to be much imamendment, and thus defeated the original proposition.

The fences and steps leading to the dwellings along the route were also completely filled, in many instances with men, women and children.

ARRIVAL AT THE CEMETERY. ing to St. Mary's Cemetery was completely besieged by the crowd, and it was with some difficulty at times that the vehicles could pass to the inclosure. The collect that was ever before witnessed in this city ated. It is hoped that Probet will not die and the solemn scenes thus presented will a natural death as did Berger but that his be remembered long by those who were present on the occasion. PHILADELPHIA, April 16 .- The coroner's jury for the investigation of the murder of the Dearing family, have found a verdict, charging Antoine Probst, now under arrest, with the murder of the entire eight persons.

HON. EDGAR COWAN.

"Renegade" is the political term the Radical papers condescend to bestow upon Senator Cowan. From what is he a rangegade? Not from the principles of the old. Whig party, for it never held that the chief end of the American government was 40 keep black men in bacon through the operation of the Freedmen's Bureau. Not from the resolution of Congress defining the object of the war, for that looked to a speedy restoration of the Union. Those who denounce Senator Cowan as a " senegade" are the worst of renegades themselves. They have run away from all the promises they have made to the people throughout the whole war. They have been guilty of fraud. They have obtained popularity under false pretences. They have proven themselves political "confidence men" of the most unscrupulous kind." With professions of devotion to the Union constantly in their mouths for the last five years, their great delight now is to embarrass and nullify the efforts of good men and true patriots like President Johnson and Senator Cowan to restore the Union.- Lancaster Intelligencer.
