The true DIGESTIVE FLUID or GASTRIC JUICE—a great Dyspepsia Curer! Prepared from Rennet, or the fourth stomach of the Ox, after directions by Baron LIEBIG, the great physiological chemist, by J S. Hougaros, M.D., No. 11 N. 8th St Philadelphia, Pa.

Digestion is chiefly performed in the stomach by the aid of a fluid which freely exudes from the inner cont of that organ, when in a state of heal h, called the gastric juice. This fluid is the great solvent of the food—the purifying, preserving and stimulating agent of the stomach and intestines. Without it there can be no digestion, no conversion of food into blood, no nutritionbut rather a foul, torpid, painful and destruc ive condition of the whole digestive apparatus.

Curdling of milk is the first process of digestion. A calt's stomach can curdle nearly one thou-and times its own weight of milk. Baron Liebig states, "one part of Pepsin dissolved in sixty thousand parts of water, digests meat and other food." Diseased stomachs produce no good Gastric Juice, Rennet or Pep-in. To show that this want may be perfectly supplied, we quote the subjoined

SCIENTIFIC EVIDENCE!

Baron LIEBIG, in his celebrated work on Animal Chemistry, says: "An artificial digestive fluid, analogous to the Gastric Juice may be realily prepared from the mount membrane of the stomach of the calf, in which various articles of food, as meat and eggs, will be softened and digested in the same manner as in the human stomach."

Br. BEREIRA, in his famous treatise on Food and Dietaphilshed by Fowlers 4 Wells. New York, page 35, state the same great fact, and describes the method of preparation. There are few higher authorities than Dr. Pergeration.

Pr. COMBE, in his valuable writings on the Physiology of Direction, observes that "a diminution of the duquantity of the dastric Juice is a prominent and all-prevailing cause of Dyspepsia, and he states that "a distinguished professor of medicine in London, who was severed from the use of the feature of the fastric Juice, obstined from the stomach of living animals, which completely succeeded."

Br. GRARAM, author of the famous works on Vegetable Diet, easys: "It is a remarkable fact in physiology, this the stomachs of animals, macerated in water, impart to the final the property of dissolving various articles of food, and of effecting a kind of artificial digestion of them in no wise different from the natural digestion of them in no wise different from the natural digestion of them in no wise different from the natural digestion of them in no wise different from the natural digestion of them in no wise different from the natural digestion of them in no wise different from the natural digestion of them in no wise different from the natural digestion of them in no wise different from the natural digestion of them in no wise different from the natural digestion has been dead to the different from the natural digestion has no proper to the famous works on Vegetable Diet, easys: "It is a remarkable fact in physiology, this capts: "It is a remarkable fact in physiology

Dr. SIMON'S great work, the Chemistry of Nan. (Lea & Blanchard, Philad, 1846, pp 331, 25) says: "The discovery of Popsin forms a new era in the chemical history of Digestion. Prof. BUNGLISON, of the Jefferson College, Philad, in his great work on Human Physiology, devotes more than fifty pages to an examination of this subject. must say we found it specific in its action upon diseases of the liver and digestive organs, and the powerful influence it exerts upon nervous prostration is really surprising. It calms and strengthens the nerves, bringing them into a state of repose, making sleep refreshing.

If this medicine were more generally used, we are satisfied there would be less sickness, as from the stomach,
