The glorious Uncertainties of the Law.

The most litigious fellow I ever knew, was a Welshman named Bones. He had got possession, by some means, of a bit of waste ground behind a public house in Hogwash Street. Adjoining this lane was a yard, belonging to the parish of St. Jeremiah, which the parish trustees were fencing in with a wall. Bones alleged that one corner of their wall was advanced about ten inches on his ground, and as they declined to remove it back, he kicked down the brickwork before the mortar was dry. The trustees having satisfied themselves that they were not only within their own boundary, but that they had left Bones some feet of the parish land to boot, built up the wall again. Bones kicked it down again.

The trustees put it up the third time under the protection of a policeman. The inexorable Bones, in spite of the awful presence of this functionary, not only kicked down the wall again, but kicked the bricklayers into the bargain. This was too much, and Bones was marched off to Guildhall for assaulting the bricklayers. The magistrate rather pooh-poohed the complaint, but bound over Bones to keep the peace. This causa belli, the wall, was re-edificed a fourth time; but when the trustees revisited the place next morning, it was again in ruins! While they were in consultation upon this last insult they were politely waited upon by an attorney's clerk, who served them all with "writs" in an action of trespass, at the suit of Bones for encroaching on his land.

Thus war was declared about a dirty piece of land literally not as big as a doorstep, and the whole fee simple of which would not sell for a shilling. The trustees, however, thought they ought not to give up the rights of the parish to the obstinacy of a perverse fellow, like Bones, and resolved to punish Bones for assaulting the workmen. Accordingly, the action and indictment went on together.

The action was tried first, and as the evidence clearly showed the trustees had kept within their own boundary, they got the verdict. Bones moved for a new trial; that failed. The trustees now thought they would let the matter rest, as it had cost the parish about one hundred and fifty pounds, and they supposed that Bones had had enough of it. But they had mistaken their man. He brought a wit of error in the action, which carried the cause into the Exchequer Conrt, and tied it up nearly will be one of the most interesting pictorials ever issued them nolens volens to try the indictment.

When the trial came on the judge said that as the whole question had been decided in the action there was no occasion for any further proceedings, and therefore the defendant had better be acquitted, and so the fendant had better be acquitted, and so the series of the most interesting pictorials ever issued in this country.

Accordingly, Bones was acquitted; and the very next thing Bones did, was to sue the trustees in a new action, for muliciously instituting the indictment against him went on to trial; and it bieng proved that say that they would punish him, this was taken as evidence of tralice, and Bones got a verdict of forty shillings damages beside all the costs. Elated with this victory, Bones pushed on his old action in the Exchequer chamber to a hearing, but the court affirmed the judgment against him, court affirmed the judgment against him, without hearing the trustees' counsel.

The trustees were now sick of the very name of Bones, which had become a sort of bugbear, so that if a friend met a trustee in the street, he would be greeted with an inquiry after the health of his friend Mr. Bones. They would then have gladly let the whole drop into oblivion, but Jupiter and Bones brought a writ of error in the house of lords, on the judgment of the exchequer chamber. The unhappy trustees had caught a Tartar, and follow him into the house of lords they must. And after another year or two's delay, the case came on in the house of lords. Their lordships pronounced it the most trumpery writ of Error ever seen, and again they affirmed the judgment, with costs, against Bones. The trustees now taxed their costs, and found that they had spent not less than five hundred pounds in defending their claim to a bit of ground that was not of the value of an old shoe. But, then, Bones was condemned to pay the costs. True; so they issued execution against Bones, caught him after some trouble, and locked him up in gaol. The next week, Bones petitioned the insolvent court, got out of prison, and, on examination of schedule, his effects appeared to be £0. 0s. 0d. ! Bones had in fact been fighting the trustees on credit for the last three years; for his own attorney was put down as a creditor to a large amount, which was the only satisfaction the trustees obtained for perusing the sche-

This was the climax. and being myself no disciple of Coke, I have heard nothing further of it; being unwilling, as unqualified, to follow the Court of Chancery. The castastrophe, if this were a tale, could hardly be mended -so the true story may end here.

A Farmers' Paper for Central Pennsylvania!

VOL. VIII. OF

LEWISBURG CHRONICLE, AND WEST BRANCH FARMER.

On the 2d of April next, the undersigned will commence the Eighth Volume of this weekly journal, edited by HENRY

C. HICKOK, Esq. The "Lewisburg Chronicle" is a seven column sheet, well printed on good paper, and will contain per week an average of 15 columns of fresh reading matter, on fair NEW TYPE. It is issued Wednesdays, at $1,50 cash in advance; $1,75 if paid in six months; 82 within the year; or $2,50 at the end of the year. In addition to a carefully selected portion of Literary and General News matter, with Political items given in an impartial form, it is our design to make the Chronicle and Farmer distinctively a FARMERS' PAPER, as far as can be done by selections from Agricultural publications, by contributions from good practical farmers, whose assistance is desired and expected, and by the proceedings of Agricultural Associations. The President of the Nation, and the Governor of the State, have both adverted to the importance of, and encouragement to, Agricultural progress, in their last Annual Messages. A State Agricultural Society has been formed, and County Societies are springing up on every hand. To aid in fostering the spirit thus aroused, papers devoted to Agriculture are certainly necessary. Situated as the Chronicle is in a highly flourishing farming country, and independent as it is of all party claims, we have thought proper to offer it to the lovers of improvement in Agriculture, Practical Science, and Domestic Economy, as a medium of communicating with each other, and thereby gaining mutual pleasure and profit. We propose devoting about one page per week to Agriculture and kindred topics, and even more should the interest and patronage seem to warrant it.

The Under the New Postage Law, the Chronicle will circulate free in Union county, and the postage will be but 20 cts. r year to most of the counties in Central Pennsylvania. Its circulation is already superior to that of any English paper in Union county, and affords a good medium for the publication of Advertisements of Real Estate, &c.

Payments may be made by mail, at our risk, when the money is enclosed and sent with the knowledge of the Post Master.

Persons procuring five subscribers and remitting the pay, shall have a copy gratis.

Communications and subscriptions respectfully solicited by

Pepsin is the chief element or great digest ing principle of the gastric juice. It is found in great abundance in the solid parts of the human stomach after death, and sometimes causes the stomach to digest or eat itself up. It is also found in the stomach of numuls, as the ox, call, &c. It is the material used by farmers in making cheese styled Rennet, the effect of which has long been the special wonder of the dairy. Curdling of milk is the first process of digestion. A calt's stomach can curdle nearly one thousand times its own weight of milk. Baron Liebig states, "one part of Pepsin dissolved in sixty thousand parts of water, digests meat and other food." Diseased stomachs produce no good Gastric Juice, Rennet or Pepsin. To show that this want may be perfectly supplied, we quote the subjoined
