Wit and Humor.

TOBACCO. What makes my teeth, from day to day, Exhibit symptoms of decay— With pain and anguish rot away? What makes my breath so facid, foul? What makes the ladies on me scowl, And shun me as they would an owl? What makes me, when I'm called to speak, Fix quick (for fear my mouth will leak) The spit-box or the door to seek? What is the cause of war and strife lictwen the good man and his wife, Embittering every hour of life?

What makes an appetite for rum, That sends the drankard staggering home And prematurely seals his doom? And when the smoking gallants cay Among the children chance to stray What turns each little head away? These are the facts: then let us shun

The weed that many has undone, And our just vengeance wreak upon CHIMNEY, (the only critter that has a right to smoke.

The Knife Sharpener.

They have a renowned knife-sharpener in New Orleans, who holds forth in the public thoroughfares and highways with an eloquence that eclipses the Soap Man, and rivals with the Razor Strop Man, himself. The Delta gives a "specimen brick" of his orntory, as follows:

"Gentlemen," he goes on to say, tell you it's a fact, nine tenths of the deaths that occur-no mistake about itare occasioned by dispepsie-ask your doctor, and he'll tell you so; but no, darn him, he wont do it; he might though, I guess. I say, gentlemen, now I want to make this point plain to you; and I'll do it sure as shootin'. I say nine-tenths of the deaths are occasioned by dispepsic. It's true as preachin', and truer than parson Miller's preachin', or the Rochester Knockings, by a jug full. . Hold on, now, I'm gettia' to the pint-[draws a knife through two theces of steel]-that is, I'm a petrin' to the edge of my subject; that ar gentleman with the goatee is sharp, I see he is; but he ain't so sharp as I can make this here knife. Now, gentlemen, I was a sayin' that most folks die of dispepsie; well, of course they do; but how do they do it? Ay, there's the rub-[rubs the buife on a block of granite to take the edge off it, the better to test the merits of his sharper.] Why they do it 'cause they haint got sharp knives to cut their meat into thin slices-'cause they cut it into thick chunks, and, 'cause, like the boaconstructor or hostrich, they swellows their wittals whole. There's the secret of it, und that's the way to tell it."

Terrapins.

It is known that, to apply a hot coal to a terrapin's back will make him stir him self 'about the quickest.' Down in the Red River country, Col. Young, a candidate for office, was busy electioneering. He stopped at the house of a voter, and having several cold biscuits in his saddle-bags, he distributed them among the old gentleman's sons some five or six in number. They were particularly pleased with their presents, and immediately went into the yard to examine them. In a short time the Colonel heard a great noise, and curiosity led him to the door to see what could be the matter. The boys were standing around in a circle, and one appeared to be in the center, upon his knees. The Colonel silently approached, and peeped into their midst. There lay one of the Colonel's biscuit on the ground, with a large coal of fire upon it, and the boy upon his knees blowing as if he would blow his very brains out. "Blow on, Jim," cried out one of the larger boys, "blow on, he'll poke his head out directly." Col. Young fainted. The boys had taken his biscuit for young terrapins!-He couldn't have fooled them so with potatoes.

A Philosophic Editor.

The editor of the Alabama Argus, published at Ecmopolis in Marengo, makes merry, after the following fashion, over what most folks would consider a serious

"We see the sheriff has advertised the Argus office for sale during our absence. We hope the bidders will have a merry time of it. If the sheriff can sell it, he will do more than we ever could. Like a damp percussion cap, we think it will fail to 'go off.' "

The man who went to sleep on Surday afternoon last and awoke between four and five o'clock, thinking it was Monday morning, and opened his shop and went to work, was certainly mistaken. Of this he must have become convinced himself, for he shortly after closed it again .- Norristown Register.

Sir Charles Lyell, in speaking of our Western States, says, there are only two articles which the merchants appear to pay cash for, viz.: "flax seed" and "old rags.

The New Hampshire Telegraph relates a case, in which a boy in school, who imbibed his politics and intelligence from a Democratic father, refused to cypher in federal money. He is, we suppose, a relation of the lady, one of the 'upper ten thousand,' who directed the school master not to let her son have anything to do with vulgar fractions.-[Lynn News.

WORM SPECIFIC!

M'LANE'S VERMIFUGE—This invaluable remedy for worms, is rapidly supplanting all others, in public estimation. Where it is used it has produced the best effects, and driven out all other remedies. It is the best we have ever seen! is the remark of all who have ever used it

J Kidd & Co-I received a lot of M'Lane's Vermituge from your agent last spring, which I sold out in one week, and I think I could have sold one thousand bottles by this time if I could have got it, but not knowing where to get it I had to wait until your agent came around. Every person that has tried M'Lane's Vermifuge tells me it is the best they have ever seen; in fact it is impossible for any one to say too much in favor of M'Lane's Vermifuge. ANOTHER SCIENTIFIC WONDER!

JUICE-a great Dyspepsia Curer! Prepared from Rennet, or the fourth stomach of the Ox, after directions by Baron Linnia, the great physiological chemist, by J S. Hougarton M.D., No. 11 N. 8th St. Philadelphia, Pa. A TRULY wonderful remedy for Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Janualice, Liver Complaint, Constipation and Debility, curing after Nature's THE undersigned wish to inform the farming community generally, that in water, can digest or dissolve Five Pounds of roast beef in about two hours, out of the stomach. Digestion is chiefly performed in the stomach by the aid of a fluid which freely exudes from the inner coat of that organ, when in a state of health, called the gastric juice. This fluid is the great solvent of the food—the purifying, preserving and stimulating agent of the stomach and intestines. Without it there can be no digestion, but rather a foul, torpid, painful and destructive condition of the whole digestive apparatus.

Pepsin is the chief element or great dige ing principle of the gastric juice. It is found in great abundance in the solid parts of the human tomach after death, and sometimes causes the stomach to digest or ent itself up. It is also found in the stomach of animals, as the ox, calf, &c. It is the material used by farmers in making cheese styled Rennet, the effect of which has long been the special wonder of the dairy. Curdling of milk is the first process of digestion. A call's stomach can curdle nearly one thousand times its own weight of milk. Baron Liebig states, "one part of Pepsin dissolved in sixty thousand parts of water, digests meat and other food." Diseased tomachs produce no good Gastric Juice, Renne or Pepsin. To show that this want may be per-fectly supplied, we quote the subjoined

SCIENTIFIC EVIDENCE!

Baron LIEBIG, in his celebrated work on Animal Chemistry, says: "An artificial digestive fluid, analogous to the Gastric Juliec may be readily prepared from the nucous membrane of the stomach of the calf, in which various articles of food, as meat and eggs, will be softened and digested in the same manner as in the human stomach."

Br. BERERIA, in his famous treatiles on Fosd and Diet, published by Fowlers & Wells, New York, page 35, states the same great fact, and describes the method of preparation. There are few higher authorities than br. Peveria.

Dr. COMBE, in his valuable writings on the Physiology of Digestlom, observes that "a diminution of the duc quantity of the Gastric Julie is a prominent and all-greating that the compalant, finding everything class to fall, had recourse to the Gastric Julies, obtained from the stomach of living animals which completely succeeded.

Br. GEAHAM, author of the famous works on Vegetablicited with the compalent family succeeded.

Br. GEAHAM, author of the famous works on Vegetablicit, says: "It is a remarkable fact in physiology, that the stomach of divinuals macrated in water, impart to the fluid the property of dissolving various articles of food and of effecting a kind of articles digestion of them in no wise different from the natural digestive process." SCIENTIFIC EVIDENCE! and of effecting a kind of artificial digestion of them in no wise different from the natural discetive process."

Br. SIMON'S great work, the Chemistry of Man. (Lea & Blanchard, Philad., 1546, pp. 321, 35, says. "The discovery of Pepsin forms a new era in the chemical history of Diestion. Prom recent experiments, we know that feed is dissolved as rapidly in an artificial digestive fluid, prepared from Pepsin, as it is in the natural Gastrie Judic itself.

Prof. Di NGLISON, of the Jefferson College, Philad, in his great work on Human Physiology, devotes more than fifty pages to an examination of this subject. His experiments with Dr. Beaumont, on the Gastrie Judic, obtained from the living human stomach and from animals, are known. "In all cases," he says, "digestion occurred as perfectly in the artificial as in the natural digestions."
