REUBEN AND PHESE.

A MOST PATRITIC BALLAD -- BY E. K. BLIFRING

In Manchester a maiden dweit, Her name was Phelie Brown. Her cheek was red, her hair was black, And she was considered by good judges to be by all odds the best looking girl in town.

Her age was nearly seventeen. Her eyes were sparkling bright, A very lovely girl she was, And for about a year and a half there had

And for about a year and a half shore bad been a young man paving attention to her by the name of Reuben Wright.

Now Reuben was a nice young man,

As any in the town

And Pheba loved him very dest.

As any in the town And Phobs loved him very dest, But, on his account of being work for a living, he never could make houselt of the agreeable to Mr. and Mrs. Brown.

Her cruel parents were resolved Another she should wed. A rich old miser in the place, And old John Brown frequently declared that sooner than have his daughter marry Renben Wright he'd sooner knock him on the head. in princip of man.

that (with the exception of Pheba) he didn't cees a burton for the whole race of Browns. So Phobe Brown and Reuben Wright

Determined they would marry, Three weeks ago last Tursday night They started for old Parson Wi coler's, de-termined to be united in the boly bond of matrimony, though it was tremendous dark and remed like old Harry.

But Captsin Brown was wide awake ; He loaded up his gun.

And then pursued the loving pair. He overtook them when they'd hall got about hall way to the Parson's and then Phebe and Reulen started off upon the run.

OH Brown then took a deadly aim Towards young Reober's head But oh! it was a bleeding shame, He made a mistake and shot his only daughter, and had the unspeakable anguish of seeing her drop down stone dead.

The auguish filled young Reuben's heart And vengennee crazed his brain, He drew as awfol pick knote out, And plunged it into old Brown about fity or sixty times; so that it is very doubtful about his ever coming to again.

The bring drops from Reuben's eyes In corrects poured down, He yielded up the ghost and died, And in this restanchely and heart-rending manner terminated the history of Renlieu and Phebe and likewise old Captain Brown.

Look Here! As spurious BRANDRETH PILLS are said by many Druggists in city and sounts, it would be well it persons in inquiring or them would make them produce their Certificate or AGENCE. As there is but one Agent opposited for each city or town, (no difference is large the place) and all Agents can produce heir Certificate, any persons wanting the genue Pills had better purchase where they can spend on getting the genuine article.
