Hayes," when he was crier of the Court of Sessions. The room was usually warm. and he was very apt in the afternoon to drop away in a doze. On one occasion, while the Recorder was charging a jury the old man snored, quite audibly. An officer immediately whispered in his ear: 'Uncle Jacob, some one is snoring, and disturbing the court.' Up jumped Hayes, and with his stentorian lungs eried out. 'Silence! there must be no snoring in court !' And, turning to the Recorder, he said : "You can go on now without interruption." The story is sometimes told of him, that being awakened one day by a peal of thunder, he cried out,

Not many months ago, a Philadelphia friend, who rejoiced in the name of Comfort, paid his devoire to a young and attractive Quaker widow, named Rachel H-, residing on Long Island. Either her griefs were too new or her lover too old; or from some other cause, his offer was declined. Whereupon a Quaker friend remarked, that it was the first modern instance he had known, where "RACHEL REFUSED TO BE COMFORT-ED!" This anecdote is only remarkable as being the first Quaker pun on record, "Friends' generally lightly regarding such distortions of "plain language."

Backing Out.

A somewhat eccentric lawyer being engaged in defending a hard case, and not being altogether pleased with the rulings of the presiding judge, remarked that he believed the whole court could be bought with a peck of beans.

The judge, of course, took this remark in high dudgeon, and ordered the lawyer to sit down, and demanded of him an apology for this contempt of court, threatening him with commitment for the offence. if he did not apologise:

The lawyer, after a little reflection, remarked that he he had said he believed that the court could be bought with a peck of beans; that he had said it without reflection, and wished to take it back; but said he, "If I had put it at half a bushel, I never would have taken it back in the
