It would be justice to the new States in which portions of the public lands are situated, by converting them into private property—subjecting them to taxation—and thus requiring them to bear their legitimate proportion of the burdens of State government.

With all of our unexampled presperity, Mr. Chairman, in the arts and sciences, in the progress of improvement, in the extent of our commerce, in the growth and success of our manufactures, in wealth and in power, it is nevertheless true that there is great inequality in the condition of life . and that much can be done to ameliorate 3 that condition without doing injustice or violence to the rights of any. There is no Government that has so much to spare as ours, and none where the gift would be productive alike of mutual benefit. It would be the exhibition of a union of phil-: n bropy and national interest, consummating a measure by which worthy citizens would be made comfortable, not by wasting the property of the State, not by exactions from the property of others, but by mode-trate grants of wild land, the cultivation of which would swell the productive property 3,750 of the country, and thus contribute its 1.164 proportion to the common necessities, in 19.630,738 1.448.486 Peace and in war.
