Terrible Steamboat Disaster.

The Steamer Henry Clay was burnt on the North River, between New York and Albany, on Thursday week. She contained some three hundred passengers, EIGHTY THE LEWISBURG WHIG. of whom perished by drowning and otherwise. The particulars furnish the most perty that we have ever read.

Henry Clay was racing with the Armenia, and had the steam up to the highest point. The passengers remonstrated, but were told that there was no danger. The whole blame is credited to the Captain and crew. and properly. The gallows is too good a place for such men, and the survivors of them should be dealt with in the severest manner.

Among these lost are Stephen Allen. aged 84, once Mayor of New York ; Abralyn; Mr. Downing, the distinguished horticulturist ; J. J.
