What a Difference!

THREE WEEKS AFTER MARRIAGE. My dearest, are you going out! Indeed, 'tis very cold, Let me, sweet love, around your neck This handkerchief enfold.

You know how anxious for your health, My own dear George, am 1; One loving kiss before we part, Good-bye, sweet chuck, good-bye! THREE TEARS AFTER NABRIAGE.

"You're going out"—why don't you go!
I can not help the rain; You would n't grieve me mightily To ne'er come back again.

"Umbrella !"-I don't know where 'tis, What 'll you want next, I wonder ! Don't pester me about your cold, Good gracious—go to thunder!

Touching-Very.

Bob courted Molly for some time, But Susan's charms were in their prime, And faithless Bobby left poor Mary In unrequited love's quandary, And, all her sweetest smiles refusing, His soul surrendered to fair Susan. "Oh, wretch!" cried Moll, with angry look, " And is it thus that I'm forsook ! "No," Bobby grinned, "Moll, thou'rt mistaken, "Tis I'm ron-Sook, and thou ron-sakes!"

Blind to his Own Interests. [The St. Louis Intelligencer relates the following amusing incident as having occurred there a few days since :]

One of Heath's sprinkling wagons, used to dampen the streets of our city by water from a large reservoir, was proceeding down Fourth street, engaged in the laudable task of flooring the dust, when the attention of a raw Hoosier was attracted towards the singular looking vehicle.

"Hullo, stranger," said he, addressing himself quite audibly to the driver, "you're losing all your water that?"

No answer was made by the person addressed.

"I say old hoss," said the Hoosier, "you are losing your water right smart, thar, I tell you, and I'll be dog-on'd if your old tub won't be dry next you know."

The driver was still silent, and the stranger again addressed John-

"Look here, you fool, don't you see somethin's broke loose with your old cistern on wheels, and that all o' your water is leakin' out ?"

Still the driver was silent, and the Hoo sier turned away in disgust, saying :

" I'll allow that feller is the biggest fool I ever did see, but if he's so blind to his interests as to throw his labor away in that way, let him do it, and be hanged."

WORTH TELLING AGAIN .- When Nich olas Biddle-familiarly called Nick Biddle -was first connected with the U.S. Bank there was an old black man, named Harry, employed about the premises. One day Biddle said to him, in a familiar mood-"Well, my old friend, what is your name ?"

" Harry, sir-old Harry, sir," said the man, touching his sleepy hat.

"Old Harry!" said Biddle, "wh that the name they give to the Devil?"

"Yes, sir," said the colored gentleman, "sometimes ole Harry, and sometimes old Nick !"

The "money king" was vanquished.

OMINOUS .- Some months since, Louis Napoleon ordered that a certain silver coin, struck at the French mint, should bear on the face of it his own image. In due time the coins appeared, with the likeness of the French President shining on their faces. They went into general circulation, and, in a short time, the modern usurper was glittering, in the way of change, all over Paris, with his throat cut!

A PRAYER .- The honest Chaplain in the Indiana Legislature, is said to have closed an opening prayer with the following invocation : "And the Lord have mercy on our legislators. Spare their lives till they return to their homes, and then put it into Union Co, Pa, belonging to the estate of Isanthe bearts of the people to keep them there and return men of temperate habits and sentiments, who will do some good."

A queer-looking customer inserted his head into an auction store, and looking gravely at the "knight of the hammer," inquired,

"Can I bid, sir?"

"Certainly," replied the auctioneer, " you can bid."

"Well, then," said the wag, walking off, "I bid you good night."

" Have you ground all the tools right as I told you this morning when I went away ?" said a carpenter to a rather green lad whom he had taken for an apprentice.

" All but the handsaw, sir," replied the lad promptly, " I couldn't get quite all the gaps out of that."

Philosophers say that the motion of the earth is equal to 17 minutes a second; so that, if you take off your hat in the street to bow to a friend, you go 17 miles, bareheaded, without taking cold.

The man who never told an editor how he could better his paper, has gone to Schenectady to marry the woman who never looked into a looking-glass. Their children will not live. When a party of four have devoured two pints of strawberries, what term should we apply to them? We should say, there's large cement Cistern, a Pump and Well of a quart eat (quartette.)

Bob says that when the men marry now-a-days they get more whalebone than Esq. woman, and more coffee bags than "tin." Lewisburg, Sept. 23, 1850
