Mason vs. Anti-Mason.

A few days ago, two bricklayers refreshing the inner man at noon, at the place where they were at work, got into discussion upon the merits of Free Masonry. Neither of them were members of the aucient fraternity but both thought they knew considerable about it. While they were warmly expressing their opinions, one of them noticed that their hod-carrier, a genuine specimen of Ethiopia's race, who was sitting near them appeared to be very much interested in the discussion, so much so indeed, that his corn bread and pickled pork lay upon the scaffolding untouched.

"Well," said he, to his brother, "it is foolish in us to be discussing so warmly something we know so lit le about. If either were a Mason, there would be sense in it."

"I know more about the Masons than you think I do," said the other.

"Pshaw! that's nonsense. There's Jack the hod-carrier, listening very attentively, and I should not be a bit surprised if he knows more about them than both of us. Jack !" he eried to the colored in-

"Do you know the difference between a Mason and an Auti-Mason?"

"Yes, sar, I belieb I does." "Well, what is it?"

"If your husband looks grave, let him alone; den't disturb or annoy him."

Oh, pshaw! were I married, the soberer my husband looked, the more fun I'd rattle about his ears. Don't disturb him! I guess so! I'd salt his coffee-and pepper his tea-and sugar his beefsteak-and tread on his toes-and hide his newspaper -and sew up his pockets-and put pins in his slippers-and dip his eigars in water-and I wouldn't stop for the great to my liking. Certainly, he'd "get vexed;" there wouldn't be any fun in teasing him melancholy blood a good healthful start; and his eyes would snap and sparkle, and he'd say, " Fanny, will you be quiet or not?" and I should laugh, and pull his whiskers, and say, decidedly, " Nat." and buildings. then I should tell him he had'nt the slightest idea how handsome be looked when he was vexed, and then he would pretend not to hear the compliment-but would pull up his dickey, and take a sly peep in the glass (for all that)! and then he'd begin glass (for all that)! and then he'd begin to grow amiable, and get off his stilts, and be just as agreeable all the rest of the far full sized Ladies' Dresses, Sleeves, Mantles, with my mouth looking out the sides of appears, the public can always depend upon continue to receive as the season advances, my eyes, and waiting till that man got ready to speak to me! "I have been using Christie's Galvanic articles in a quiet way unong my patients for about two years past, and I confess I am astonished at their success. If I am sure a disease is Nersons, I know just what they will do. In Epileptic Fits, particularly in children; Deafness and Affections of the Heal, in adults; Paralysis and Palsy, in all ages, and indeed several other diseases of like anattre which have leaguarded the profession, I have found the Galvana articles of surprising benefit. Although I deess the shameless quackery of advertisements and newspapers. I must express my confidence and leifer in the wonderful virtues of CHRISTIES CIRATIVES. My name is, of course, confidential, but I shall never hesitate to recommend your articles on all proper occasions." all proper occasions."
