HOW A MAN FEELS WHEN HE'S

FROZE TO DEATH. Many years ago, I wanted to go across sey City one cold night, to take the stage for Trenton at 4 o'clock next morning. It was midnight of a cold bitter night in Dewas midnight of a cold bitter night in the cember. The ferry boats had all ceased their trips. The ice was running rapidly. I must cross, or wait till daylight, and I could not think of that: so I hire! a boatman, with a heavy bribe, and a promise of more if we crossed successfully within an hour, and we left the shore. It was very dark and blustering. The tide was Gasters, half-Gasters, etc. not as furious in the river as now, for the piers were then fewer, and not extended into the channel; but the Northwest wind night, and taking all things together, the prospect was poor. But I had been in rough seas and running ice before, and taking an oar I pulled a stroke that evidently surprised my boatman, and added 🥯 to his hopes of a successful voyage. It was one o'clock when we left the shore. At half past three we were under the lea of Governor's island, coming up the buttercake of ice came in on the sea, and closed around our egg shell of a boat, and it cracked, and crushed, precisely as you have cracked, and crushed, precisely as you have crushed an almost in a nut cracker. Its cake of ice came in on the sea, and closed crushed an almond in a nut cracker. Unfortunately, there was no one to pick the valuable contents out of the broken shell will and heavy remarkably quick.

In the preference of the contents out of the broken shell will appear to my other Steller now in use, and think it if the preference all other sow made.

Sun! Ver Respectfully Yours. Jon. S. WARMEN." and the ice remarkably strong, I am not altogether certain that I should have been here to-day. On the the contrary, I think I might have gone out to sea on the next ebb tide, under water instead of above it, on a cake of ice, as now seemed probab! . By this time I was cold, as you may imagine. Rowing was out of the question, an i I had been forced to beat my hands until they were sore, in vain efforts to keep up HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT some sort of warmth in my numb fingers

And now, on this cake of ice I must keep atill, motionless, or I should go through.

So I sat down, holding the oar which had never left my grasp, and looked about for my boatman. He was missing. A shout brought back a reply. The ice had parted and we had parted company, and we did not meet again till some weeks afterward. We had no time or inclination to exchange parting salutation or good wishes. In truth I had no good wishes for him. I reserved them all for myself. I was thinking of no one else, and his fate formed no part of my apprehensions. Let me tell you that freezing to death is a painful affair, after the state of the sale served. The sale of the proposite thinks we have not meet a sale of the reserved to the sale served and server is a sale the state of her legs was terrible. SIDE OF THE SIDE OF glesm of star-light silvering my eyeballs over, and ten thousand sharp pains darted through every part of me, and I fancied I shricked aloud, a lonesome ery that might startle the gulls in the harbor from their rest on the floating ice, and a momentary. flashing thought of the startled seabir! rising on his white wings was in my mind, and then a blackness of indescribable agon;

My next sensations were the thrilling pains of recovery, sharp, shooting piercing, stabbing, twisting, in fact every sort of pain conceivable. I was surprised to fin! myself alive. This was my first intelligible thought, for I believe I had known that I was frozen; and having deliberately given up after a struggle, I was rather astonished at finding myself likely to thaw out after all. But I had fallen into good hands. I in I gone ashore below Red Hook, and been mek-I up by some scamps who cleaned out my pocitets, and took my coat and the chief the undersigned would be happy to supply any part of my clothing, for I certainly did not som to need any of it. But a better speeimen of humanity followed them and took me to his house, where Dr. Davidson, who then lived in the neighborhood, found me and resusciated me. His attention was able unwearying, and I believe he saved my life a dozen times that day. I shall always remember that fearful night. I am now past the meridian of life. I have this day carefully inspected a conductor of Lightning Red, with vane and index, exected by Mr Thomas Armitage, on Believue House, Gloucester and have no heatation in saying that it is not only the best have ever seen, but that it is the only one I have ever seen, but that it is the only one I have ever seamend that it is constructed on strictly scientific principles. It is with much pleasure that I recommised by conductor to the attention of owners of buildings.

I am well satisfied that the Memetic Lichning Red.

conductor to the attention of owners of buildings.

In McMURTRIE.

I am well satisfied that the Magnetic Lightning Red, manufactured by Mr. Thomas Armitage, of Philadelphia, it the best that has ster been made. I have spent several years in the study of the laws of electricity and magnetism, and have no hesitation in saying that these Reds are constructed upon the only principle of safety. The electric shock is received and dispersed by the magnet at the top of the rod, and it would be impossible, according to the laws of attraction and repulsion, for a building to be injuried by a streke of tightning when protected by one of these rods. I have been acquainted with Mr. Armitage for several years, and before he commenced the manufacture of these rods. I canning the principle on which they are constructed, and felt convinced that their adoption would be attended with complete success. The increasing demand for these rods, and the extensivesales in all parts of the country, is ample commendation of their attiting and auperiority.

Let is be known and remembered that the only and that in all Nervous Direases we should

"Throw Physic to the Dogs." "Throw Physic to the Dogs."

To illustrate the use of the GALVANIC BELT, suppose the case of a person afficied with that base of critication, PVSIP-SIA or any other Chronic et Nervous Disorder. In ordinary cases, stimulants are taken, which, by their action on the nerves and muscles of the stomsch, afford temporary relief, but which leave the patient in a lower size and with highered faculties, after the action thus excited has cased. Now compare this with the effect resulting from the application of the GALVANIC BELT. Take a Daysephic sufferer even to the worst symplems of an attack, and simply the the Beit round the Bedy, using the Magnetic Finid as directed. In a thart period the immensible perspiration will set on Be positive element of the Belt, thereby causing a Galvanic circulation which will pass on to the negative, and there back again to the positive, thus keeping up a continuous Galvanic circulation throughout the system. Thus the most evene cases of DYSSPESIA are PERMANENTIA CURED. A FEW DAYS IS AMPLY SUPPICIENT TO ERADICATE THE DISEASE OF YEARS.
