More Work for Know-Nothings.

Now that the Election is over, it may not be indelicate to ask a favor of the K. N.'s that have set all the people to succsing so prodigiously. Gentlemen Know-Nothings, our hat is in our hand—we are yours truly. The Times begs your kind and price his work, as he is confident they will render entire satisfaction even to the most

All kinds of REPAIRING done at short no of French pattern, and pants of cassimere from the same gallant country, which our Know-Not-too-much Minister was not good enough to pass through unmolested. He carries a cane from India, French boots pinch his corns, foreign buttons adorn his cost, an English watch ticks in his fob, and when he stops to speak with you he takes Scotch snuff. Go home with him, and in a Turkey-carpeted parlor, by a fire of coal from Liverpool, he will offer you to smoke eigars all the way from Havana, or drink brandy that pretends to have come from Bordeaux.

Enter-Mrs. Sam, rustling in foreign silks, carrying in her dainty hand a fine handkerchief of foreign linen, and delicately seented with foreign perfumery.

Stop to tea-an exhilerating cup of berbs from China, infused in a pot of Britannia ware, poured into porcelain cups from the Celestial Empire, sweetened with foreign sugar, and whitened with milk that was made rich with foreign chalk.

Shame on Sam for the aid and comfort he gives to foreigners! We want that gold at home. Let the allies pay for their foolish fighting in paper money. Oh, Sam, is u't American cloth fit to make a coat of? American pants good enough to wear? Do not sticks enough grow in your native forests? Are not American calf-skins tight enough? Does not Authracite warm your room enough? The tea herb is a little refractory too, on our soil, as yet, and if it does not master us, the foreign may be tolerated; but for the wines and brandies, let us urge you to "beware of foreign influence," and when you go to a wine dinner let us advise you to "put none but American champagnes on duty" -they are comparatively harmless, since for their influence.

But Sam travels sometimes. Yes : to and very poor ones at that; or he takes a ton duck of domestic manufacture abundof course, who can parlezeous, and tell the those wishing to patronize his establishment, sames of all the bones in Dutch, and has will please avail themselves of that opportutheory and practice, and all but his sugar erally. and milk pellets, from a German enthusiast. But when Sam dies he is true to his professions, and is baid in American soil!

IRISH POTATOE PEELINGS .- Some time in March last, a negro boy of ours was sent from the kitchen to the pig pen, to throw in some of the raw peelings of the peelings containing eyes, and planted them | MEYER'S Planes.—The subscriber Irish potatoe. The boy picked out those ours down, the little nigger chuckled at his tater patch-frost never touch him.

A few days since, we saw the little fellow staggering under a load of something in a large basket on his head, he approached, showing a set of ivory, and with a knowing look : "Just look here, massa Charles, see what I'se made from dem tater skins! beat your big taters all to smash." We looked in the basket, and to our astonishment saw near a bushel of as fine Irish potatoes as were ever raised in any sometry; they were of uncommon size, and mealy as a boiled chesnut. "Master!" says little wooly, "ain't you going to put it in de newspaper, how little nigger make big taters from peelings in de fence corner, and beat the old master wid all his gwanner and gypsum?" We promised to put it in the "noos paper," and here it is. "White folks" may take a lesson from the little negro's economy. There is many a fence corner that might produce a good crop of Irish potatoes .- Soil of the South.

POLITICAL BITTERNESS .- Parson Eaten, of Harpswell, Maine, whose three cornered hat, big white wig and shoe-buckles, indelibly impressed our memory, was one of those stern old revolutionary Feds, who preached polities, as was the fashion of the day; and he prayed politics, too, for in one of his public performances, during the strife between Adams and Jefferson, he

RECOMMENDATIONS.

I have this day carefully inspected a conductor or lightning Rod, with rane and index, exceed by Mr. Thomas Amuliage, on Bellevine House, Gouvester, and have no heritation in saying that it is not only the best I have ever seen, but that it is the only one I have yet examined that is constructed on strictly scientific principles. It is with much pleasure that I recommend his conductor to the attention of owners of buildings.

I am well-actived that the Mr. M. M. M. M. STRIE.

I am well satisfied that the Magnetic Lightning Red, manufactured by Mr. Thomas Armitoge, of Chiladelphia, is the best that has ever been made. I have spent several years in the study of the laws of electricity and magnetism and have no hesitation in saying that these Rode are constructed upon the only principle of safety. The electric shock is received and dispersed by the magnet at the top of the red, and it would be impossible, according to the laws of attraction and repulsion, for a building to be injured by a stroke of lightning when protected by one of these rods. I have been acquained with Mr. Armitage for several years, and before he commenced the manufacture of these rods. I care been acquained with Mr. Armitage for several years, and before he commenced the manufacture of these rods, a transmined the principle on which they are constructed, and felt convinced that their adoption would be attended with complete access. The increasing demand for these reds, and the extensive site in all parts of the country, is ample commendation of their utility and superiority. Philad. Co., April 10, 1882.
