We find the following seasonable poetical exhortation in the N. F. Recorder, where it appears without credit:

3 Winter Sermon.

Then dwellert in a warm and cheerful home; Thy nof in wain the winter tempert lacket; While houseless wretches 'round thy mansion room, On whose unsheltered head the incrent plackes. Thy heard is leaded with the richest ments,

O'er which thins eyes in satest lacquer wander; Many might live on what thy mactiff eats, Or feast on fragments which thy servants equands Thy limbs are muffled from the plorting blact, When from the freedle corner than dost cally; Wany have scarce a rag about them cast, With which the frosty breezes try and daily.

Thou has soft smiles to great thy later of lave. When thy light step resemble within the portal; Same bare no friend care Him who dwells above; No sweet communion with a follow mortal.

Then sleepest soundly on thy costly bod, Lutted by the power of invaries unnumbered; Some silies on a stone an aching head, Never again to wake when they have slumbered.

Then think of these who, formed of kindred clay, And God will hear them for thy welfare pray-They are His children, though in rags and tatters.

" Prohibitory Lane. FOR a Prohibitory Law." Reader! would you know ichy that modest lady braved the glances of an election crowd, to give even so small a testimony as that in favor of the cause of Prohibition? I will tell you. Her husband lay at her home dying of mania potu! He could not vote-she proceeded to put before the Board of Officers at least, her wish, in behalf of one who could no longer exercise the power! What a story of blighted hopes-of agonizing sufferings-of heartrending sorrow-did that woman's offering

I confess no incident I have heard in a long time has so affected my sensibility as the vote given by that soon-to-be-widowed woman, yet in the prime of life, for the husband of her youth, dying of intemperance! How long, O how long, shall a death-procuring, needless evil be allowed to waste and destroy? How long! O how long?

Lottery Revivals.

One hundred-fifty-perhaps twenty years ago, Lotteries were tolerated in most of the States of the Union, and attempts were made, by legal restrictions, safeguards, and overseers, to make them honest. Some of the persons who owned and conducted licensed lotteries, were men who stood high in the world as respectable citizens, and, with the sanction of law about them, they were regarded as honest and even religious men. But the gradual development of the system-its legitimate tendency-was ere long found to be most injurithe most upright "managers" grew rich of splendid fortunes to be gained by a turn worthy but indigent person in the possession of the wonderful wheel which-by some of luxuriant comforts for life! happy conjunction for their especial sakes and Who bogs the $40,000 Loom? would eject the three particular No.'s and they desired in consecutive order. Meeting of the Democr. State Central Committee.

There was quite a full attendance of the members of the Democratic State Committee in this city, on the 26th inst., and the proceedings were conducted with spirit and unanimity. The meeting of the Committee will, no doubt, produce the happiest results. Mr. Bonnam presided. and E. B. Chase, of Susquehanna, acted as Secretary protem. After a full and free interchange of opinion in relation to the present position and duties of the Demorratic party, the following resolutions and an address of similar terms were unanimously adopted :

Resolved, That the immutable truths embedied in our principles, which have been faithfully and successfully carried out by the Democratic party, and by which the glory, honor, and prosperity of the country have been upheld and secured, forbid and preclude the possibility of our making any treaty with error, or forming alliances for the sake of expediency, or temporary party triumphs.
