To Mariners . Won . - The Lawissons Conoxier

The Junior's Introductory.

In taking our place in the Chronici corps as a co-conductor, it may not be amiss to say, very briefly, what may be expected of us.

Our course hereafter, will be in accordance with our conduct heretofore. We will do our utmost to assist in making the Chronicle se a family journal, as valuable a sheet as can be published in this neighborhood, or elsewhere. In matters pertaining to the local interests of the community, we shall join in their defence with our eld r and much more experienced col-

Politically we are not fanatical, but, should we be called inside of the party of the terrine distortions at every step, to the number of apwards of two hundred, from either of our seniors, and defend, to the best of our ability, the principles advohold to the doctrine that Protestant America should be governed by Protestant native born citizens; that the right of suffrage should not be granted to foreigners until they have resided in America 21 years. Generally speaking they know ter of our people to day! We are now nished gratuitously by Mr. Colder. Ar. that will contain 10 heigheads, a stone Milk lightened, christianized foreigners among us, is whose hands government would be safe; but there come here to line among us and do not wish to rule us. It is the ranting vagabond and wiley Jesuit, wi o are so cager to have a vote and an office as soon as they touch American soil and get a a drink of American whiskey.

We are young, and have an unusual amount of vivacity in our composition, and smount of vivacity in our composition, and our besetting sin is a proneness to poke pretend to teach you music, or to make to believe that he was surrounded by those to be the believe that he was surrounded by those that he was surrounded by those to be the believe that he was surrounded by those th fur at our associates; but in this we shall pot hooks; they will cure your corns, or who, though somewhat enfeebled in body, take the greatest possible care not to mortify their feelings or touch their character, and, being as willing to take as to give a joke, they are heartily welcome to reciprocate just as soon as they have a mind to.

Without going into long columns of useless and stereotyped harangue we will close by wishing all who read this (and also all who do not) A HAPPY NEW YEAR. C.
