

Advertising for a Wife.

Mr. Michael M'Clasky, a short, puffy gentleman of forty-five, in the twelfth year of his widowhood, complained to the police of an assault committed on his person by Mrs. Hannah Sullivan, and showed several long purple stripes on his visage, which he declared to be the impressions of Mrs. Sullivan's finger nails. It turned out in evidence that Mr. M'Clasky had advertised for a wife, in one of the city papers, notifying applicants for the situation to call at No. 1, Locust street, the residence of the advertiser. Mrs. Sullivan called early in the morning, half an hour after the advertisement was first published, and sent word up to Mr. M. that a lady wished to see him "about a notice in the paper." M'Clasky was all in a flutter, supposing that some blooming beauty was about to fall into his arms. He sprang himself up and came down stairs, where Mrs. Sullivan was waiting. To say that he was disappointed, would be saying too little; he was horrified.

"Might it be you that was wanting a wife, Mr. What-d'ye-call-em?" inquired the lady.

"Mr. M. eyed her with a look of dissatisfaction, and uttered a growling affirmative.

"Then I'm thinking it myself that might shoot you," observed Mrs. Sullivan.

"Devil a bit of it," remarked Mr. M'Clasky, "I'm suspicious that you did not look at the advertisement attentively."

"Sure I've got it here at the very tips of my fingers," and Mrs. S.: "Wanted, a neat, tidy woman, of thirty or upwards."

"Yes upwards," replied Mr. M., with sarcastic bitterness.

"Well qualified for a wife, and good looking," continues Mrs. Sullivan, reading the advertisement.

"Humph! good looking; that's you, too, I suppose madam?" growled M'Clasky.

"Sure I can look well enough to see a rogue at a yard's distance, Mr. What's-your-name; and is it qualified I am! I've had four husbands already, and it's me that ought to know something about the juries of a wife."

"Four husbands, ma'am!"

"Yes, faith, I can show you the graves of all of them, mighty pleasant ground they are laid in, and I hope you may never have no worse if ever it should be your good luck to be berried among Christians."

"You won't do, ma'am," roared M'Clasky. "What the thunder should I do with a wife with a head like a blazing chimney, and a nose and chin like a pair of gimblets?"

"This seems to have closed the conference, for M'Clasky, when relating his story to the Mayor, on coming to this point expressively pointed to his half-skinned countenance. Mrs. S. was held to bail for the assault.

Mr. Wise taken Aback.

We have very good authority for the correctness of the following anecdote:—Mr. Wise, the Aconiac Pilgrim, was addressing a large assemblage somewhere in Virginia the other day, and in his characteristic style abusing the Know Nothing.

"Is there one of that secret, traitorous clan here present?" he exclaimed, "if so, let him show his face." No one rose. Veilous cheering and shouting. Mr. Wise, gathering fresh vigor and vehemence, "if there's a Know Nothing in the room, I challenge him to stand up like a man!" Congregation remain seated. Tremulous applause and veneration.

Mr. Wise, brim-full of gall and bitterness, charging round: "Stand up ye lousy, godless, christless set; stand up, I defy ye, if there be one here present!" An old gentleman in the rear of the room slowly rises, and blandly remarks, "Sam! get up!" whereupon two-thirds of the assembly spring to their feet. It is said that Mr. Wise was so confounded by this unexpected result, that he did not resume his speech.—Wilmington (N. C.) Herald.

Interesting to Hen fanciers.

One of the most serious obstacles in the way of keeping hens about the house, has been their hitherto unconquerable predilection for scratching up gardens. We learn from the Oswego Palladium that an ingenious Yankee has at length discovered a remedy for this difficulty, and is taking measures to introduce it into general use. It consists of a small instrument somewhat resembling a very long spur, attached to the hind part of a hen's leg. The instrument is so arranged, that when the hen is about to scratch the earth, the spur catches in the earth before her foot has fairly descended, and obliges her to bring the foot quietly and harmlessly down, a little in front of the place where she had intended to scratch. The hen thereupon tries the other foot with a like result. She keeps on trying it, and before she is aware of it the machine has walked her right out of garden!

TOO TRUE.—"The best coats," says the Wasp, are generally found on the backs of penniless boys, broken down merchants, wags on pitiful salaries, and men that don't pay up. The heaviest gold chains hang from the fobs of gentlemen of fortune; while the most beautiful ornaments on ladies relate to eyes that are well open, the feet of a silly lover, or a husband cramped for funds. But when a pretty woman dresses in a suit of plain, neat apparel, it is the presumption that she has fair expectations, and a husband who can show a balance in his favor. For woman are like books—too much gilding makes men suspect that the binding is the most important part."

George Sturges.

SOLE Manufacturer of the Improved Spring Mattresses, No. 92 Walnut Street, Philadelphia.

FIVE SILVER MEDALS awarded, viz. Two by the American Institute, New York, Oct. 1, 1853. One by the Franklin Institute, Philadelphia, Oct. 1, 1854. One by the Mechanics Institute, Boston, Oct. 1, 1854. One by the Lowell Institute, Lowell, Oct. 1, 1854. One by the Worcester Institute, Worcester, Oct. 1, 1854.

The peculiar improvement in the construction of this Mattress is, that all the slatted and heavy wooden frame work is entirely dispensed with, and its place supplied by a lighter and much more durable frame, the springs are all concealed by a covering of fine, securely stretched, rendering it impossible for a single spring to fall down or get out of place, and making a Bed so elastic that any part may be raised or bent up, and is thus admirably fitted to the wants of the sick or asthmatic who may require a special posture, having the luxurious softness of the Feather Bed, with the lightness and facility of handling of the common Hair Mattress.

These improved Spring Beds are invariably made of the best materials, and will last many years without repairs.

Persons having Hair Mattresses, can have them altered into Spring Beds.

Spring Seats for Chairs, Carriages or Church Pews and Hair and Hask Mattresses made to order. Also an extensive assortment of highly ornamented (in enamel) and plain finished.

SALAMANDER SAFES.

Evans & Watson, No. 26 South Fourth St., Philadelphia.

Great Fire at Chestnut & Fifth Sts., Friday morning, Dec. 15th, 1854—EVANS & WATSON'S SALAMANDER SAFES THIRTY-MINUTE, as they always are, when put to the test.

Philadelphia, Dec. 15, 1854. Messrs. Evans & Watson, No. 26 South Fourth St. Gentlemen—We take much pleasure in recommending your Salamander Safes to Merchants and others in want of a secure mode of preserving their books, papers, &c. from fire, as the one we purchased from you about seven months since has preserved our books, papers and cash in as good a condition as they were when put into it, before the great fire of this morning, which destroyed the entire block of buildings on the corner of Chestnut and Fifth streets. The above safe was in use in our office, on the second floor of our building, from which place it fell into the cellar, and remained there until the fire was out. The safe was then removed and opened. It contained at least 1000 persons, who witnessed the good condition of its contents. Will you please have the Safe and Locks repaired, as we intend to put it in use again, having perfect confidence in its fire-proof qualities.

Yours, respectfully, LACEY & PHILLIPS."

Evans & Watson take pleasure in referring to the following, among the many hundreds who have their Safes in use: U. S. HERRING'S

Patent Champion Fire-Proof SAFES, with HALL'S Patent Powder-Proof Locks, which were awarded separate Medals at the World's Fair, London, 1851, and also at the World's Fair, New York, 1853 and 1854.

The subscribers are the sole manufacturers and proprietors in this State of the above unequalled Safes. The reputation of Herring's Patent Safes is world wide, and for the last thirteen years the mercantile community have witnessed and borne testimony to their NEVER FAILING fire proof qualities. More than 12,000 of these Safes have been actually sold, and over two hundred have been completely burnt through accidental fires. The public are assured that all Safes manufactured by the subscribers are not only guaranteed to be fully equal, but in many respects even superior to those which have been so severely tried by fire. Few will forget their services in the burning of the "Tribune" establishment, New York, and at the Great Fire in Strawberry Street, at the large fire last July, opposite the Girard House; and still more recently in the Fire at Fifth and Chestnut Sts., in this city, in which these Safes came forth the acknowledged CHAMPIONS, when many other securities failed.

THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE has now a circulation of 12,000 copies, and ever before accorded to any newspaper whatever. This circulation has been gradually and laboriously attained by concentrating upon the interests of the broad masses of our country, and by a greater liberality of outlay in the editorial department than was ever before bestowed upon a newspaper. It has been made in the current of opinion by the wide and fearless exposure of truth and progress, and by an impartial and judicious selection of all the important events of the day, and by a judicious selection of all the important events of the day, and by a judicious selection of all the important events of the day.

The leading ideas which the TRIBUNE is devoted to the advocacy of are: 1. Freedom of thought and expression; 2. Freedom of trade and commerce; 3. Freedom of religion; 4. Freedom of the press; 5. Freedom of the ballot; 6. Freedom of the pulpit; 7. Freedom of the school; 8. Freedom of the church; 9. Freedom of the family; 10. Freedom of the individual; 11. Freedom of the nation; 12. Freedom of the world.

The TRIBUNE is published daily, except on Sundays and public holidays, at the office of the publisher, No. 37 NASSAU STREET, New York. Single copies, 5 cts. Clubs—name price, $5 per annum in advance.

TERMS OF THE DAILY TRIBUNE. Single copy, one cent. Club—name price, $5 per annum in advance.
