DISCUSTING BRUTALITY - A short time ago, there met on Long Island about 2400 two-legged beings who claim to be men every election day, but who were then collected to see one of the more noble and kind brates-a horse-driven twenty miles in a certain time. The horse ran several miles, but about the 12th mile gave way, baving lost a shoe, and marking every step with its blood ! The scoundrel the world.

Natural History of the Locust. The following information concerning the habits of the seventeen years locust, given by a writer in the Boston Advertiser, will be found interesting at the present time. In calling attention to it, we would suggest to students of natural history the propriety of making accurate observations of these curious insects, during their present appearance :

The locust's favorite resort is that of a copse of young and rather thin oak wood, where the soil is rather soft and light .--They are first discovered in the ground

The New Digging Machine. This machine was put in operation at our place on the 27th and 28th of April, and a large concourse of spectators from different parts of the United States, were present to view its operation.

We shall avoid particulars as to construction, etc., for the present, and merely state the effects produced, briefly. The oil was found to be disturbed to a depth of sixteen inches, the upper eight inches being rendered as fine as if passed through a course sieve, while the part below was so disintegrated as to resemble spaded earth, sufficiently dry to fall to pieces. The width operated upon was equal to four furrows when made at that depth, as the width of sixteen inches plowing would necessarily be twelve inches or less, and the width of the track of this machine of the operator, depending upon the distance between the rows of spailes.
