Love, Garters, and Sausages, A GERMAN STORY.

About a hundred years ago, a young lady, of Rotterdam, named Wilhelmina Terschelling, was riding on borseback through the village of Boxmeer, when her herse became frightened and ran away with her. The young man who accompanied her, and to whom she was betrothed, cried out that he would give a hundred ducats to any one that would stop the PINE Gold Pens diamond pointed

The young villagers, who were playing ball upon the green near by, seeing a woman in danger, threw themselves before to $1.00 received contusions; the horse fell, and the beautiful Wilhelmina rolled in the dust. A young man who was passing threw immediately his cloak over the lady, before any one had time to perceive a finely turned leg and a pretty garter.

Mademoiselle Terschelling, on being enried home, had time to reflect, and the mer's Store. result of her reflection was, that there must never be two men in the world that had seen her garter. She sent for her betrothed, and said, "Will you kill the man who threw his cloak over me?"

"Who, I? What an enormity!" "I thought you would refuse. Then I shall marry him. When my life was in danger you offered one hundred ducats to save me. This is the price you set upon my hand. Here are twenty-five hundred. You have made a good bargain."

She then sent for the stranger. "Monsieur," said she, "I am rich and young, Stationery Store, 3d St., Lewisburg. and (she blushing prodigoiusly while adding one of those hypocritical paraphrases by which women speak of their beauty) I am not considered repulsive. You have rendered me great service, Monsieur. Without you all the young men of Boxmeer would have seen it, and, as I could not have married them all, I should have killed myself. But if you are not free, or I am not so happy as to please you, I shall give my hand and my fortune to a man who will kill you. Do you accept, yes or no!"

" Yes, a thousand times yes, a hundred thousand times ves."

The marriage took place, and was like all other marriages probably; we have no men of Boxmeer were invited to the nuptials and sumptuously feasted.
