EVIL REPORTS .- The longer I live, the more I feel the importance of adhering to Pews and Hair and Husk Mattesses made to the rule, which I have laid down for myself in such matters.

1. To hear as little as possible of whatever is to the prejudice of others.

2. To believe nothing of the kind till I nm absolutely forced to it.

Never to drink the spirit of one who circulates an ill report.

4. Always to moderate, as far as I can, the unkindness expressed towards others.

5. Always to believe that if the other side was heard, a very different account would be given of the matter.

REMEDY FOR THE SUMMER COM- the test : PLAINT .- The great increase of deaths among children has become cause for serious apprehension, and any remedy to avert the fatality should be tried. We have been told of a remedy for cholera infontum, which is said to be excellent, and its simplicity will warrant a trial. Here it is : Take one pound of flour and wrap it tightly in a cloth, after which boil It for three hours; let it get perfectly cool the second floor of our building, from which before the removal of the cloth ; then re- place it fell into the cellar, and remained there move all the glutinous substance from the outside, which will leave the interior portion hard like chalk. This should be grated to serve as a thicking for milk, (from one cow, if possible to obtain it,) upon which feed the patient. It will keep for a long time, and it is said by those who have used it, to be more beneficial than anything else.

"Ah !" said a romantic young lady speaking on some subject in which her feelings were warmly enlisted, " how gladly would I embrace an opportunity !"

"Would I were an opportunity," exclaimed her bashful lover.

- " Bill, what brought you to prison ?"
- " A couple of constables, sir."
- " What brought them after you ?"
- " Their legs, I suppose."
- " And had liquor anything to do with it." "Yes, sir, Eliza teased me so, I had to lick her."
