

A SLIGHT MISTAKE.—A few days since a German was riding along Sansone street, in Sacramento, when he heard the whizzing of a ball near him, and felt his hat shaken. He turned about, and saw a man with a revolver in his hand, and took off his hat, and found a fresh bullet-hole in it.

"Did you shoot at me?" asked the German. "Yes," replied the other party: "that's my horse. It was stolen from me recently."

"You must be mistaken," says the German; "I have owned the horse for three years."

"Well," says the other, "when I come to look at him, I believe I am mistaken. Excuse me, sir; won't you take a drink?" The rider dismounted and tied his horse. The two found a drinking saloon; they drank together, and parted friends. That's the California way to make acquaintances.

ROMANTIC.—The following thrilling extract is taken from an unpublished romance: "Listen to me, Gasparola, do. When I first met the lady Arabelle in the brilliant saloon of the Count de Pomperoni, I was struck with the spiritual lustre of her dove-like eyes. In short, my friend, I loved her, although I knew nothing of her birth, fortune or station. 'Twas one moonlight eve, in the old chateau, when I pressed her to become my own, my cherished bride. She shrank from me saying: 'You knowest not whom I am.' 'I care not,' said I passionately. 'Then I do!' cried she in a piercing tone; 'I am your unknown wail-woman, and I'd thank you to pay me for the six pieces I washed for you last week.' 'Gasparola, I left for ever the sunny clime of Italy, a broken hearted man.'

"A FEW DAYS."—This seems to be all the rage at present. The Louisville Times thus takes it off, which suits this section exceedingly well: "You present a man a small account, he will pay you in a few days; pretty girls expect to marry in a few days; bigger boys wile a few days; brass band blow out a few days; high fellows sing a few days; and we expect to give our readers some interesting local news in a few days."

And we are hoping that a great many of our subscribers will send the amount of their dues in a few days. In fact we know they will, for some of them have been promising to "do that little thing" every few days, for a year or two; we expect, then, to be "in funds" in a few days.—Belleville Advertiser.

The following is the translation of an advertisement in Hindoostanee, of idols for sale of Birmingham manufacture: "Yaman (god of death) in fine copper; very tasteful. Nironi (king of the demons) in great variety; the giant he rides is of the boldest design, and the sabre of the present style. Vaccouni (god of sun) very spirited; his crocodile in brass and whip in silver. Couberen (god of wealth); this god is of exquisite workmanship; having stimulated the best powers of the manufacturer. Smaller demigods and minor demons in every variety. No credit, and discount for ready money."

A German peasant, now enlisted in the army, had scarcely arrived at the regiment when he was sent with others upon a skirmishing party; approaching a wood in which a party of the enemy were posted, who immediately fired upon the Germans, and while the musket balls were flying very thick, the honest peasant stepped out of the ranks, making a sign to the coming enemy to desist, at the same time hawled out—"Why, what do I care for you firing for, don't you see there are people a coming?"

HOW TO MAKE A HUSBAND HAPPY.—As soon as he reaches home, after business hours, his wife should commence grumbling and finding fault generally, and keep it up until he leaves the next morning (excepting while asleep, of course.) In that way, the man will be prepared to transact business successfully during the day. The system is an excellent one. Several of our friends have tried it.

THE SCHOOLMASTER ABROAD.—The following is a literal copy of a list of questions proposed to a debating club in a Western town: Sujet de Discussion—Is dansin moralla rong? Is the readin of fictitious books commendable? Is it necessary that females should receive a thorough literary education? Or females to take part in politics?

Two rich young sprigs of Cincinnati recently fought a duel. They fired three times without effect, when one of the seconds stepped forward and declared he was engaged to the young lady about whom the principals were fighting. This announcement put a new face upon affairs. All parties professed themselves satisfied, and the belligerents retired from a bloodless field.

An Irishman and a Frenchman were to be hanged together. The latter was strongly affected by his situation, while Paddy took it very easy, and told his companion to keep up his pluck, for it was nothing at all to be hanged. "Ah," replied the Frenchman, "zaro be one grande difference between you and me, for zo Irishman are used to it."
