ANNIE LAURIE.

"Annie Laurie" is the song of the British camp; and wherever there is a British regiment, this song bears off the gallant burden of the loving soldier's heart, whether he freezes in Canada, or wipes his brow beneath the sun of India. Our readers will remember among the accounts from the Crimea, that of a gunner, who sang it working at his gun during the terrible bombardment, and was only stopped by a shell which sealed his lips for ever. Bayard Taylor's beautiful poem, "The Song of the Camp," was suggested to the author by this song. As few comparatively are familiar with it, we now print the lines, The simple Scotch air to which they are sung is not less touching than the words:

Maxwelton's banks are bonny, Where early falls the dew And 'twas there that Annie Laurie Gave me her promise true-Gare me her promise true, And ne'er forget will I, But for bonnie Annie Laurie I'd lay me down to die.

Her brow is like the snow-drift, Her throat is like the swan, Her face is as the fairest That e'er the sun shone on-That e'er the sun shone on. And for bonny Annie Laurie

I'd lay me down to die,

Like dew on the gowan lying Is the fa' o' her fairy feet, And like winds in stimmer sighing Her voice is low and sweet-Her voice is low and sweett. And for bonny Annie Laurie I'd iny me down and die.

Description of Cold Water.

"Look at that fluid which has been produced from the clear distillery of nature," (holding up a glass of water.) "The Eternal Father of us all has brewed it for His children. It has been produced, not in filthy distileries, but in beautiful fragrant places. It has been brewed down in you grassy dell, where the deer linger and the ripplied rills sing their wild lullaby; or large the first large their wild lullaby; or rippling rills sing their wild lullaby; or storms are born. It sparkles in the ice gem. It makes the graceful frost fissue on which the moonlight plays. It dallies in the calcaract; weaves the snow wreath, and the emerald sitting on the mountain peak. It never injures, but always does groud. It is blassed always are always does groud. It is blassed always always does groud. It is blassed always are always always always always always are always far off upon the ocean, where showers and good. It is blessed always, at evening and at morning. It is ever beneficent and " kind. Gad makes it glorious. Take and drink. Take the pure liquor which God our father gave us. Take it as it isbright, beautiful, and blessed". J.L. B.

The papers friendly to Buchanan are publishing a " Life" of their favorite, which deserves a place in the "Curiosities of Literature." It omits every fact calculated to show under what auspices he rose to political eminence, and conceals his early opinions as cautiously as if they involved disgrace or criminality. Such a biography is a fraud. Mr. Buchanan, as all intelligent men know, was an ardent Federalist. He fought under the flag of that party so long as it waved in Pennsylvania. As a Federalist, he was elected to the State Legislature, and to Congress, and has never formaly renounced his Federal principles. He embraced Jacksonism, in 1824, as hundreds of other Federalists did, and, without any recantation of his original opinions, he has floated with the tide, and is now classed as a Rabbi in the Sanhe-ded to the "Atkins' Self-Raking Reaper and 1855

More Kicks THAN COPPERS .- A prize fight commenced on the afternoon of May 1st, at a retired spot near the town of Medford, Massachusetts, between Ned Price, of London, and a man named Colbert of New York, for a purse of three hundred dollars. The parties fought one hundred and fiftyfive rounds, in three hours and a half, when, both blackguards being blind, dirty, bloody, and savagely mauled, they were separated by their respective friends, thro' fear of a fatal termination if the fight continued

The SCHMER SESSION of the LEWISBURG ACADEMY Will commence on MONDAY, April 21,1856, to continue 13 weeks. The design of the Principal in shortening the coming session, is to avoid the warm and sickly season; and the ime thus curtailed will be made up in the Fall and Winter sessions.

The course of Instruction is calculated to fit youths for College or for general business.

Composition and Declaration receive careful attention; and proficiency in Rectation of stu-dies is rewarded by the bestowment of Complimentary Cards. A class of Young Labors is secured.

The Bible is a text-book in the school. Parents and Guardians are always cordially welcomed to the school; and short, friendly visits of encouragement from them have a most happy effect upon the deportment and progress of pupils. With the present session the Principal enters upon the 10th year of his connection with this Institution, and takes this opp runnity to return his thanks to the catizens of Lewisburg and vicinity for the cou-stantly increasing support he has received.
