Ma. W. Q. Hickon: Drak Siz.—It gives me great plea nure to lend my feeble influence in recommendation o your invaluable Patent Chier Mill. Any person who has made cider by the old process will quickly perceive, should they procure one of your new Mills, the utility and concess of your hevertion. I regard it as one of the best inventions now in use. Although I have had it but one year, it has amply regain me for what it cost. Cider expressed through one of your machines is less liable to formentation, and can be preserved sweet longer than that produced through the old fashioned Mill, from the very first that it is more free from ponnuel, which always has a tendency to actifity, and units it in many instances for domestic use.
