A Proposition for the Times.

If what everybody says be true, then it must be true that "times are hard" and "money is scarce."

The future promises no immediate relief in this community; we can not reasonably hope for an improvement until the proceeds of next year's crop are realized.

To enforce payment, now, would precipitate many, otherwise good and solvent men into ruin.

Can anything be done that can remedy the misfortune that has befallen us, in common with the whole country?

I think that I can point out—not a cure—but a remedy, that, if acted upon, will do much to alleviate the distress.

Let a general settlement of all indebtedness take place—say on the first of January next, and make temporary payment by note, with legal interest, with or without security as the case may be, payable one year after date, on three days' sight.

Large amounts should be divided and sub-divided, and these notes, made negotiable, given for all debts and balances.

This would form a kind of circulating medium that would soon settle a vast amount of indebtedness.

In connection with this, a crop, I say, will continue to be given cash in circulation to cancel a portion of this indebtedness, and meet all the absolute necessities of the day.

Such a course, together with the practice of prudence and economy in the meantime, I feel assured would do much towards "weathering the storm."

The propriety of a general meeting to discuss the advantages and disadvantages of the above suggestions, is proposed.

C.

Synopsis of the Message.

The President commences with expressing thanks to Almighty God for the many benefits which he has bestowed upon us as a people, and especially for the unusual degree of health and abundant harvests so generally enjoyed.

Monetary Embarrassments. The embarrassments the country has been thrown into by the recent financial crisis, claim the first and largest consideration, and it is intimated that they may require a loan to help the Government through the present year.

The remedy for these evils lies with the State Legislatures, who should afford a real specie basis for their paper circulation—restrict their rates to large denominations, $20 first, and afterwards $50—and provide that all banks which suspend shall go into liquidation absolutely and without exception in any case.

The Independent Treasury gives abundance of gold and silver to the office holders. Congress, he thinks, possess the power to pass a uniform bankrupt law, applicable to all banking institutions throughout the United States, and he strongly recommends its exercise.

The existence of banks and the circulation of bank paper are so identified with the habits of our people, that they can not at this day be suddenly abolished, without much immediate injury to the country.

Mr. Allen has appointed John F. Carter, formerly of Williamsport, Pa., chief clerk. J. Gratz Brown, editor of the Missouri Democrat, St. Louis, was the Republican candidate for Clerk.

Tuesday, Dec. 8.—In Senate on a motion to print the President's Message, Messrs. Douglas, of Ill., Stuart of Mich., (Adm.) and Hale of N. H., Seward of N. Y., and Trumbull of Ill., (Rep.) declared themselves against the Kansas policy indicated by the President, and argued that "the people thereof had not been perfectly free to form and regulate their own institutions in their own way."

Messrs. Davis of Miss., Bigler of Pa., Mason of Va., and Brown of Miss., declared themselves with the President, as at present advised. The Senate then adjourned.

House.—Discussed the Printer question. Mr. Grow urged that a vast amount of useless printing was done, which should be abolished.

The attempt to elect a Printer, failed. It was claimed that it was the money of Cornelius Wendell, the late Printer, which saved Pennsylvania for Buchanan.

George M. Weston of the Washington Republic, is the Republican candidate for Printer in the House.

The Bookkeepers of Washington are greatly incensed at some speculations in books by members of the Opposition—such speculations belonging to prescriptive right to the Democracy.

Another Outrage.—On Tuesday last John B. Floyd, late Governor of Virginia, and now Secretary of War, removed from his humble position, as a watchman in the War Department, Fiddler Dorsett, who, in the war of 1812, was a member of Captain Stall's rifle company, and in more than one instance received the fire of the enemy—and put in a brace a Roman Catholic Irishman, with a horse as broad as a ten inch plank—Washington, D. C., Nov. 24.

Long experience has deeply convinced me that a strict construction of the powers granted to Congress is the only true, as well as the only safe theory of the constitution. Whilst this principle shall guide my public conduct, I consider it clear that under the war-making power, Congress may appropriate money for the construction of a military road through the Territories of the United States, when it is absolutely necessary for the defense of any of the States against foreign invasion.

Experience has proved that the routes across the Isthmus of Central America are at best but a very uncertain and unreliable mode of communication. The distance on the Arizona route near the 22d parallel of north latitude, between the western boundary of Texas on the Rio Grande and the eastern boundary of California on the Colorado, from the best explorations now within our knowledge, does not exceed four hundred and seventy miles, and the face of the country is, in the main favorable.

For obvious reasons the government ought not to undertake the work itself by means of its agents. This ought to be committed to other agencies, which Congress might assist either by grants of land or money, or by both upon such terms and conditions as they may deem most beneficial for the country.

partment, to raise four additional regiments; and this I earnestly recommend to Congress.

A new Southern Territory. "I recommend to Congress the establishment of a territorial government over Arizona, incorporating with it such portions of New Mexico as they may deem expedient.

The Pacific Railroad. "Long experience has deeply convinced me that a strict construction of the powers granted to Congress is the only true, as well as the only safe theory of the constitution.
