This result was superinduced by the fact that the Territorial Legislature had appointed all the Sheriffs and Probate Judges in all these counties to whom was assigned the duty, by law, of making this census and registry. These officers were political partizans, dissenting from the views and opinions of the people of these counties, as proved by the election of October last. These officers, from want of funds, as they allege, neglected or refused to take any census, or make any registry in these counties, and therefore they were entirely disfranchised, and could not and did not give a single vote at the election of delegates to the Constitution Convention.

And here I wish to call attention to the distinction which will appear in my inaugural address, in reference to those counties where the votes were fairly registered, and did not vote. In such counties, the question is very different from those counties where there was no census or registry, and no vote was given or could be given, however anxious the people might be to participate in the election of delegates to the Convention. Nor could it be said these counties acquiesced, for, whenever they endeavored, by a subsequent census or registering of their own, to supply this defect, occasioned by the previous neglect of Territorial officers, the delegates thus chosen were rejected by the Convention.

I repeat, that in nineteen counties out of the thirty-four, there was no census; and in fifteen counties out of the thirty there was no registry, and not a solitary vote was given or could be given for delegates to the Convention, in these counties. Surely, then, it can not be said that such a Convention, chosen by scarcely more than one-tenth of the present voters of Kansas, represented the people of that Territory, and could rightfully impose the Constitution upon them without their consent. These nineteen counties, in which there was no census, constituted a majority of the counties of the Territory; and these fifteen counties in which there was no registry, gave a much larger vote, at the October election, even with the six months' qualification, than the whole vote given to the delegates who signed the Lecompton Convention on the 7th of November last.

If, then, the sovereignty can be delegated, and conventions, as such, are sovereign, (which I deny,) surely it must be only in such cases as where such conventions are chosen by the people; which we have seen was not the case as regards the late Lecompton Convention. It was for this, among other reasons, that in my inaugural and other addresses, I insisted that the Constitution should be submitted to the people by the Convention as the only means of curing this vital defect in its organization. It was, therefore, among other reasons, when, as you know, the organization of the so called Topeka State Government, and, as a consequence, an inevitable civil war and conflict with the troops must have ensued, these results were prevented by my assuring, not the abolitionists as has been erroneously stated, for my address was not to them but to the people of Kansas, that, in my judgement, the Constitution would be submitted fairly and freely for ratification and rejection by their votes, and that, if this was not done, I would unite with them, the people, as I now do, in "lawful opposition" to such a procedure.

The power and responsibility being developed exclusively upon me, by the President, of using the Federal army in Kansas to suppress insurrection, the alternative was distinctly presented to me by the questions propounded at Topeka, of arresting revolution by the slaughter of the people, or of preventing it, together with that civil war which must have extended throughout the Union, by the solemn assurance then given, that the right of the people to frame their own government, so far as my power extended, should be maintained. But for this assurance, it is a conceded fact that the Topeka State Government, then assembled in Lecompton, would have been put into immediate and actual operation, and that a sanguinary collision with the Federal army and civil war must have ensued, extending, it is feared, throughout the Union. Indeed, the whole idea of an inaugural address originated in the alarming intelligence, which had reached Washington City, of perilous and incipient rebellion in Kansas. This insurrection was rendered still more formidable, on my reaching the Territory, by the near approach of the assembling of the revolutionary State Legislature, and the very numerous mass conventions by which it was sustained. In truth I had to choose between arresting that insurrection, at whatever cost of American blood by the Federal army, or to prevent the terrible catastrophe, as I did, by my pledges to the people of the exertion of all my power to obtain a fair election, and the submission of the Constitution to a vote of the people, for ratification or rejection.

My inaugural and other addresses were therefore really in the nature of proclamations, so often issued by Presidents and Governors, with the view to prevent, as they did, civil war and insurrection.

Now, by my oath of office, I was sworn to support the Constitution of the United States, which, I have shown, in my judgment required the submission of the constitution to the vote of the people. I was sworn also to take care that the Kansas and Nebraska bill should be faithfully executed, which bill, in my judgment, as heretofore stated, required that the Constitution should be submitted to the vote of the people; and I was therefore, only performing a solemn duty, when, as Governor of the Territory, to use as people my first obligations were due, I endeavored to secure both these results. The idea entertained by some, that I should see the Federal Constitution and the Kansas Nebraska Bill overthrown and disregarded, and that, playing the part of a mute in a pantomimic scene, I should acquiesce, by my silence, in such a result, especially where such an acquiescence involved, as an immediate consequence, a disastrous and sanguinary civil war, seems to me most preposterous. Not a drop of blood has been shed by the Federal troops in Kansas during my administration. But insurrection and civil war, extending, I fear, throughout the country, were alone prevented by the course pursued by me on these occasions, and the whole people, abandoning their revolutionary violence, were induced by me to go, for the first time, into a general and peaceful election.

* * * * * * *

I state it is a fact, based on a long and intimate association with the people of Kansas, that an overwhelming majority of that people are opposed to that instrument, and my letters state that but one out of twenty of the press of Kansas sustains it. Some oppose it because so many counties were disfranchised, unrepresented in the Convention. Some, who are opposed to paper money, because it authorizes a bank of enormous capital for Kansas, nearly unlimited in its issues, and in the denomination of its notes, from one dollar up and down. Some, because of what they consider a Know Nothing clause, by requiring that the Governor shall have been twenty years a citizen of the United States. Some, because the elective franchise is not free, as they can not vote against the Constitution, but only on the single issue whether any more slaves may be imported, and then only upon that issue by voting for the Constitution to which they are opposed. They regard this as but a mockery of the elective franchise, and a perilous sporting with the sacred rights of the people. Some oppose it, because the constitution distinctly recognizes and adopts the Oxford fraud, in apportioning the legislative members for Johnson county upon the fraudulent and fictitious returns so falsely made from that precinct, which recognition of that fraud in the constitution is abhorrent to the moral sense of the people. Others oppose it, because, although in other cases the presidents of conventions have been authorized to issue writs of election to the regular territorial or State officers with the usual judges, with the established precedents and adjudication of returns, in this case, unprecedented and viceregal powers are given to the President of the Convention to make the precincts, the judges, and to decide finally upon the returns! From the grant of these unusual and enormous powers, and from other reasons connected with the fraudulent returns of Oxford and M'Ghee, an overwhelming majority of the people of Kansas have no faith in the validity of these returns, and therefore would not vote.

[The Governor goes on to state that the President entertaining views which would compel him to violate his convictions of right and duty, he is forced to resign, at the same time expressing his respect for the President himself. He still argues that slavery can not be maintained in Kansas, on account of the climate; and that he had urged the pro-slavery and Free-State Democrats to unite and yield the slavery point, as the only way to make Kansas a "conservative Democratic free state." He complains that everybody, in public or private life, may speak their opinions of Kansas affairs, "except the Governor of that Territory," and concludes his truthful and thought-stirring letter as follows:]

In now dissolving my official connection with your Department, I beg leave to tender to you my thanks for your consistent courtesy and kindness. Most respectfully your obedient servant, (Signed) R. J. WALKER.

ONE and Two Horse Endless Chain POWER.—The undersigned being convinced by practical experience of the superiority of Vanderslice's Tread Power over the ordinary five horse power now in use in the West Branch country, for threshing out grain, have purchased the patterns and right to make them. We are now making and have on hand a large number, which we propose to introduce on the plan if they don't answer to the letter of the guarantee given with each of them, the machine will be taken back and the money refunded, if paid. They are now almost the only entire Threshing Machines in use in Chester, Montgomery, Berks and Delaware counties. Their advantages are that they will do almost double the work, according to the number of horses used, than the old machines will do; 1st they will save at least two hands; 2d and Threshing can all be done snugly closed up in the barns, in wet days, when the hands would be otherwise unemployed. A Call to Farmers.

Farmers, drop your tools—pause a little—read this, and reflect!!

"FARMERS' PROMOTION BOOK."

A NEW and scientific manuring system, Guanan, Alvanion and increase of all kinds of Winegraphies, fodder and pasture, upon all kinds of soil, proved by actual experiments and based upon evident truths, designed to improve agriculture in all its branches; represented by upwards of one hundred and fifty engravings of the most valuable grasses and plants connected with the system, by DR. C. G REINHOLD, of Boalsburg, Centre Co., Penna.

RECOMMENDATION.

In this treatise it will be seen that the object has been to give the farmer that kind of information which enables him to make practical application to fertilize his land and increase his grain, fodder and pasturage. The doctrines, as taught by this manuring, and fodder, and pasture cultivation system, are rational, clear and evident, and suggest an improvement in the mode of agriculture hitherto unknown to our farmers, and which, if adopted, and carefully practiced can not fail to advance the interests of the farming community. Such a work has been much wanted, as it fills a void which has long been felt, but which there has hitherto been no attempt to supply. And as farmers of Centre and Huntingdon counties we recommend the work to every farmer, as they will reap the greatest possible benefit from it.

DENTAL CARD.

THE new method of inserting artificial Teeth, Gum, &c., known as is, without exception, the best improvement ever made in the art of Dentistry. This work, when properly constructed, is the most beautiful, the cleanest, combines the greatest strength with durability, and adds more to a clear and distinct articulation, than any other kind of work ever brought before the public. And not only this. By a beautiful discovery in combination with this style of work, we can give the face its natural expression, without, in the least, interfering with the usefulness of the teeth in mastication.

I would take this method of informing those interested that I have purchased the Patent Right for the valuable improvement, of the inventor, John Allen, (now of New York,) for this and several adjoining counties, and that I am now manufacturing an article of Teeth and Gums that will compare favorably with anything in that line that has ever been made in this or any other country. I ask all, and especially those that need teeth if they have engaged them or not, to call, and examine for themselves.

HOVER'S LIQUID HAIR DYE.

THE testimony of Prof. Booth and Dr. Brinkle having previously been published, the following is now added:

From Prof. M'CLOSKEY, formerly Professor of Theory and Practice of Medicine in the Female Medical College of Pennsylvania, and late Professor of Surgery in the American College of Medicine, &c.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 27, 1856.

Mr. Joseph E. Hover—A trial of your Liquid Hair Dye will convince the most skeptical that it is a safe, elegant and effectious preparation. During my stay in Rome in several instances proofs were accessible in the cure of some cutaneous eruptions on the head and I have no hesitation in commending it to those requiring such an application.

Very respectfully, J. F. X. M'CLOSKEY, M. D.

HERRING'S SAFE.

THE ACKNOWLEDGED

CHAMPION!

THE RECENT TRIALS at Reading have endorsed the current of public opinion, and confirmed the verdict of more than 200 eminent firms, proving conclusively that "Herring's" is the ONLY SAFE THAT WITHSTANDS FIRE.

Extract from the Committee's Report on the Trial of Iron Safes at Reading:

"On the 26th of February all the members of the Committee met to witness the Safes and books and papers placed in them, and were perfectly satisfied that all was right. The fire following the burning took place under the superintendence of the Committee. After a fair and impartial burning for five hours, the Safe of Messrs. Evans & Watson was first opened, the safe being on fire inside, and the contents partially consumed, while the contents in the safe of Messrs. Farrels & Herring were in good condition, and no fire inside."

A. H. FRANCIS,

And endorsed by over 50 of the best men in Reading.

The above Safe can be seen in operation at No. 9 Walnut street, where the public are cordially invited to see the great superiority of the "Herring-Patent Champion," over the defeated and used-up "Inside Iron Door Salamander."

FARRELS & HERRING,

23 Walnut Street, Philadelphia.

Only makers in the State of Herring's Patent Champion Safes.

The utmost good faith on their parties to bolster up the reputation of a Safe which has failed so signally in every test of fire in Philadelphia, (Reported Dunlap,) by taking one out of an agent's store, (H. A. Lantz,) made specially different from those they sell, to "burn up" one of Herring's, (half as thick) has met with the treatment it so richly deserved. Herring's Safe stood the ordeal of fire in Philadelphia, and has established for itself the only reliable fire proof safe in the market—Hundreds of which ever have been tested, and never in a single instance has one of them been known to fail, although upwards of 200 have been tried by fire, without a single loss.

Truth is Mighty, and Must Prevail.

Report of the Committee appointed to superintend the Burning of the Iron Safes, at Reading, February 27, 1857.

READING, March 4.

The undersigned, members of the committee, do respectfully report, that we saw the two Safes originally agreed upon by Farrels & Herring and Evans & Watson, placed side by side in a furnace, and the fire was kept up by the Pyrmaster of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Company, in his office at Reading, manufactured by Farrels & Herring, and the Safe in use by H. A. Lantz, in his store, manufactured by Evans & Watson, and put in books and papers precisely alike.

The fire was started at 8½ o'clock, A. M., and kept up until four o'clock of green hickory, two cords dry oak and half chestnut top wood were entirely consumed, the whole under the superintendence of the subscribers, members of the Committee. The Safes were then cooled off with water, after which they were opened, and the books and papers taken out by the Committee and taken to H. A. Lantz's store for public examination, after they were first examined and marked by the Committee. The books and papers taken from the Safe manufactured by Evans & Watson were but slightly affected by the intense heat, while those taken from the Safe manufactured by Farrels & Herring were, in our judgment, damaged fully fifteen per cent. more than those taken from Evans & Watson's Safe.

We believe the above to have been a fair and impartial trial of the respective qualities of both safes.

JACOB H. SNYDER,
DANIEL S. HUNTER.

Having been absent during the burning, we fully coincide with the above statement of the condition of the papers and books taken out of the respective safes.

G. A. NICOLLS.
H. H. MUHLENBERG.
JAMES MILHOLLAND.

Evans & Watson have now on hand 300,000 pounds of the above SAFES, which they offer for sale on better terms than any other manufacturer in the United States.
