GEMS BY MRS. SIGOURNEY.

"The first weight is the spirite" Prot. xvi. 2. Men weight in gold. Each fragrant slight, He in the well-prised balance lays,

Aud marks with unforgetful trust. Man weigheth words. The fleeting breath, May waken anger unto death,

Or kindle love's exulting flame. God weighs the spirits. Oh! beware, There is an eye ye can not 'scape;
A sun-ray rends the darkest cloud.

And when the gold the rust shall eat, The forgue be silent in the tomb, The metires of a secret soul Give vertict in the day of doom.

A Negro's Ingenuity.

An incident occurred at an auction sale the other day, which was so usutterably ; provoking, that it insists upon being recited. A fine, robust negro man, one of those first class darkies, who enjoy alike a physical as well as an intellectual superiority over the race of common niggers, was 1 offered for sale. Knowing that if his real good qualities were known, he would be the subject of some competition, which a would perhaps terminate in his consignment to a cotton field, he determined to look cheap, and stand a chance of being a How the bell got to the how refused by the bokers out for profitable ; bargains. He was put up on the block, the most complete metamorphosis, in ap pearance, of a good for nothing nigger outside of Pocahontas.

"What are you good for?" asked a keen eyed individual, with a twinkle that to immediately put Sambo on his guard.

"Good for? aiu't good for nuffin. I'se mitey weak and feeble; don't recken I'se gwine to live much longer, bress de Good-

In this treatise it will be seen that the object has been to give the farmer that kind of information which enables him to make practical application to fertilize his inmi and increase his grain, folder and partureage. The doctrines, as taught by this manuring, and folder, and perture cultivation system, are rational, clear and evident, and suggest an improvement in the mode of agriculture hitherto unknown to our farmers, and which, if adopted, and carefully practiced can not fail to advance the interests of the farming community. Such a work has been much wanted, as it tills a void which has long been felt, but which there has hitherto been no attempt to supply. And as farmers of Centre and Huntingdon counties we recommend the work to every farmer, as they will reap the greatest possible benefit from it.
