Last Commencement at Lewisburg---Burleigh and Saxe--- &c. &c.

We find in the Franklin Visitor, of Delaware Un. N. Y., a series of traveling letters from Ws. H. Bennesse, from which we clip the following description, by himself, of his recent visit, here.]

DEAR SIR : Since I left your county I have divided my labors between Orange, Ulster, and Duchess counties, besides having made an excursion into the interior of Pennsylvania, for the prepase of addressing the Literary Societies of the University at Lewisburg at the recent Commencement. The latter trip, in spite of torrid heats and dusty roads, was a most delightful one. Lewisburg is situated in the midst of a beautiful and fertile valley, on the West Branch of the Susquehanna, in Union county, 170 miles northwest of Philadelphia. The journey from that city is through a most delightful country, which, for varied beauty, the fertility of its soil, and the air of thrift which characterizes it, will compare favorably with any portion of Central New York. I never saw finer farms than those of Chester, Lancaster, Dauphin, Northumberland, and Union counties, and nowhere, outside of Pennsylvania, have I seen such palatial barns. The farmers of those counties house their cattle far more luxuriously than they do themselves. It is not an unusual thing for them to invest four, five or six thousand dollars in a barn, while the accommodations provided for themselves, ynows, and children, would scarcely sell for as many hundreds. I heard a good story while in the valley of the West Branch, of a man who former large assortment, making had built himself a splendid residence, and furnished it, without and within, with all that could gratify a cultiva- of type, large and small, with a good ted taste, or minister to the comfort variety of borders, and most respectof its occupants. Shortly after its fully solicit a trial of them by those completion, however, he decided to wanting anything in the way of offer it for sale, and announced his desire by handbills and through the papers. Many people came to view it, but found it too magnificent for their means, and left without purcha-sing. At last, a well-to-do Dutch far-ess men generally, is more common in mer came and scrutinized the mansion more searchingly than any of his predecessors. After passing from storey to storey, and from room to room, examining their relative positions, or PROFESSION of any man : and a and minutely inspecting partitions nearer approximation to a Cash busiand stairways, he went outside, and ness may be made with patronage viewed the building from several dif- attracted by this means. ferent stand-points, with very evident purchaser, and began to expatiate expected from a Country Office, in a heer" interrupted him with the quiet AT THE remark, "I was seeing if I could turn him into a goot baru !"

The University at Lewisburg is under the patronage of the Baptist denomination, though not sectarian in its character. Rev. Howard Malcom, D. D., was for some years its prosperity which has raised it from a very humble to a comparatively elevated position among the Colleges of the Keystone State. The President Combined Carriage Springs cleat, who enters upon his official duties with the commencement of the next term, is Rev. Justin R. Loomis. LL. D., a ripe scholar and a most affable gentleman. Under the guidance of such a man and an able corps of Professors, the University, I trust, will enter upon a career of increasing usefulness and prosperity. The principal University building has been but just completed, and is an imposing edifice, built of brick, situated on an cminence east of the village, and surrounded by stately trees-the native forest, which seems to have been miraculously spared in a country so infested by tree-exterminators, who, with axe and fire, wage as relentless war against our groves as did King Josiah against the groves of Judah which were dedicated to idolatry. In the third storey of this building, is a fine hall eighty feet square, which was used for the public services connected three or four feet added to its height. it would be one of the finest public halls in the country. Of the Oration before the Literary Societies, I have nothing to say-except its theme was "Knowledge-a Power and a Delight," and that it was unfortunately too long for a short and warm evening. John G. Saxe followed with a Poem, sparkling with humor, abounding with fine description, with now and then a touch of truest pathos, and pervaded by a sound philosophy and a down right, practical, Yankee common sense. His theme was "Love." trip to Lewisburg that it brought me into temporary companionship with this true Yankee poet-

I stayed over a day in Lewisburg, to attend exercises of Commencement. I can only say of them that, I never heard a class of young men acquit themselves more creditably than did the speakers on this occasion, in both rhetoric and oratory. Several of the declamations were really eloquent, and the Valedictory, by Thomas Chamberlin, of Lewisburg, was one of the happiest efforts of the kind that I ever listened to.
