Democratic State Ticket. FOR AUDITOR GENERAL, HON. CHARLES E. BOYLE, OF FAYETTE COUNTY.

FOR SURVEYOR GENERAL. GEN. WELLINGTON H. ENT,

OF COLUMBIA COUNTY.

The Impeachment Triat.

The President of the United States is now fairly before the Benate for trial on articles of impeachment preferred by the House of Representatives. A summons has been served on him to appear before the Senate on Friday next, the 13th inst.; but whether he will appear in person or by counsel is a question. From all that we can gather he may adopt either course, but judging from the revolutionary plans heretofore pursued by the Rump, they may contrive and attempt to carry out a scheme for bringing the President in person before their august assemblage. But we doubt whether they will be able to induce the chief magistrate of the nation of his own free will and accord to submit to the degradation of appearing in the capacity of a criminal before a body which avowedly has been acting "outside of the Constitution." However, the trial is announced to begin on Friday next: "we shall see what we shall see."

First, as to the manner of trial which seems to have been adopted. The President, at the time designated, either by himself or counsel, appears at the bar of the Senate and is arraigned, very much after the fashion of persons against whom indictments are trial then proceeds very much in accordance with the well known forms in criminal cases, only that the Senators, not sitting as such. but as constituting a High Court of Impeachment, act as judges and jurors, the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States discharging the duties only of presiding officer. So far as we can understand, Lody than that of any other member-in fact less so, for it seems he shall not be allowed to vote. However, the rules for the government of the trial are new, and there may be a modification of the views we have expressed as to their bearing and effect. The seven managers on the part of the House procure counsel learned in the law, to conduct the prosecution, and the President may do the same if he shall so wish, and the trial goes on. The verdiet of guilty or not guilty, or a verdict to that effect. is then obtained through a vote of the Senators; "and no person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present."

Various speculations are indulged in as to the result of his trial; and public opinion, as expressed by individual persons who are ordinarily well informed on current political topics, and by the public journals of the country, is so divided that it would be presumptuous in us to attempt to lead our readers by any set of sequences, which after all must be mainly imaginary, to what we would dare to call safe conclusions. We can only say that it is manifest to us that the extreme radicals in Congress seem desperately determined to push ANDREW Johnson to the wall, and that if a conviction does not follow this trial it will mainly be owing to the fact that the revolutionists who have been trying to hurry the country into war an

> THE MEN who claimed to be Johnson's special friends and supporters, for position in the "bread and butter brigade," are at this date chop-fallen. They are trembling in their boots. They know not what to do. The Democratic party as a party have nothing to do with Johnson and his quarrels. There are many things that the President has done that the Democratic party never can endorse, while on the other hand he has done little to be commended by that party; and for those things alone he will and does receive the support of the Democracy and no farther.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Committee on Credentials reported Lister, of Philadelphia. The Committee on Permanent Organization reported for permanent officers as follows:-President, Honorable William Hopkins, of Washington, and a long list of Vice Presidents and Sccretaries. Mr. Hopkins returned his acknowledgements for the honor done him, and said that to-day ten States of the Union were subjugated to an odious system of military despotism, and that the whole military power of the government was used for the avowed purpose of forcing negro supremacy upon the United States. The paramount question in the coming Presidential campaign was whether our republican institutions should be subjected to the domination of the negro race. Time was when the Senate of The United States was adorned by such members as Clay, Wright, Calhoun, Forsyth, and a host of others. But how deplorable was the contrast to-day! As to the impeachment of the President, he said that the Committee of Congress had been unfortunate in the selection of the charges.

We have Governors through the country who are telegraphing to their confederates in crime, "Stand firm-we will send you a hundred thousand, and if needs be, three these loyal Governors propose to do? The volving the question is simply whether a President has speedily adjudicated by the Supreme Court the right to select his own cabinet officers, and if he has not that right, whether he has the right to have the opinion of the Supreme court of the United States upon a certain question.

Nominations for Auditor and Surveyor-General were then made. General George W. Cass and William V. McGrath were unanimously chosen Electors at Large for President and Nice President. Adjourned. EVENING SESSION.

"The Government."

There appears to be a strong inclination in some quarters, to identify President Johnson with the Democratic party. That such an inclination should manifest itself in the Mongrel ranks is not surprising; but the that prominent democrats should attempt anything of the kind, is seriously objectionable. He is not our man; we had nothing to do in placing him in the position he occupies; and he has given us no special reason to think that he desires our support as a party. In what particular has he favored democracy? Has he not steadily and steadfastly thrown his official patronage into the hands of the mongrelists? Is not that party strong now, by means of the official patronage bestowed upon them? What right or reason then dictates that we should adopted by the Senate for the government do battle for the man that cripples and stabs of the "High Court of Impeachment" do battle for the man that cripples and stabs. WASHINGTON, March 6th. WASHINGTON, March 6th.
At 1 o'clock to-day the Senate suspended its ordinary business and Chief Justice Chase took the chair as the presiding officer of the "Court of impeachment." The Journal of the proceedings of yesterday having been read, Mr. Dixion, who had the floor upon the adjournment yesterday, rose to speak to the quarties of permitting Mr. Wade to be the question of permitting Mr. Wade to be sworn as a trier in the impeachment against the President. The Jacobins, by preconcert had arranged that Howard should makel a point of order upon further debate, under he twenty-third rule adopted by the Senate and insist that the question should be decided by the Chief Justice without discussion, which he (Howard) did. The Chief Justice required the point of order to be re-duced to writing, and after that had been done, and the same read by the Secretary, he (the Chief Justice) decided that the rules were not then in force, inasmuch as the court had not been organized. From this decision Messrs. Drake and Howard appealed, and the Chief Justice submitted the question to the Senate. His decision was sustained. At this point the impeachers stemmed the current of the mongrel trai-tors in Congress; but he has done many again called to order by Conness. The things we cannot approve : many things again called to order by Conness. The hard to forget on the question. This increased the wrath of the Jacobins, and while Sumner, Drake, floor, and after speaking a few minutes in opposition to Wade's right to be sworn, but preferring to have the question decided hereafter, withdrew his objection to allowing Wade to take the oath, and accordingly that dent's desk and was sworn. The oath was shall not find fault with any democrat that then administered to the remaining Senators present. On motion of Howard, the House was notified thereof, and soon after desars. Bingham, Boutwell, Butler, Williams, Wilson, and Logan, managers on the part of that body, appeared at the bar of the Senate. Mr. Bingham, on behalf of the managers, demanded that the President be called to answer the impeachment prefered against him, and then, on motion of Howard, a summons, returnable on Friday next, the 13th instant, was ordered to be issued to the President of the United States, to appear at the bar of the Senate, or high court of Impeachment, at I o'clock on that day.
