Why Heap Up Manure ! The old-fashioned practice of composting all the contents of the yard, the sties, and the stables, is attended with much labor, and is often imperfectly done, or neglected altogether, from want of conviction of its utility. There are the same materials before and after the heaping, the farmer reasons: why will they not benefit the land as much in the one condition as in the other? The question is fairly put, and demands an answer. There are not necessarily the same materials in a compost heap before and afer fermentation. If the contents of a yard ware swamp-muck, peat, surface loam, various kinds of straw, sea-weed, kelp. and the manure of horses, sheep, and cattle, and if to these was added sty manure, or night soil, or a few bushels of lime or ashes, the whole mass would be thrown into fermentation, and new chemical combinations would take place, and the new compounds would be more immediately available for plant food. Just how much the mass would be benefitted by these new combinations we may not be able to state, but no intelligent farmer has any doubt of the higher value of fermented compost for ordinary farm purposes. Another great advantage from this word is the increased fineness of the manure. Stable manure is often carried out and spread in great frozen or dried lumps, and in this condition is plowed into the ground. It doubtless benefits the soil in this condition, but the roots of plants are a long time in getting at their food. We think it pays to fork over a manure heap twice, and give it the full benefit of a second fermentation. The hay and straw are all broken, down by this process, and all the materials of the mass are thoroughly mixed. Much of the immediate effect of manure depends upon its fineness. The time usually allowed for composting is quite too short. The greatly increased effect of well-rotted manure has led some to wish for a whole year to complete the process. This is one of she points that we should like to see accurately determined on an experimental farm. The liquefying of all the yard manures is doubt'ess better than any comminution that we can tus for doing this, and applying it economically to the fields, requires more capital than most farmers have to invest. Thorough composting is within the means of all, and would always pay.

Coughing Horses.

It is well known that feeding horses on clover hay often makes them cough, but the why and wherefore may not be so generally known. From very extensive observation I have become satisfied that the manner of attain by rotting, but the necessary apparahave become satisfied that the manner of feeding hay to horses is the cause. The usual custom is to let them draw it through a rack, thus stripping off the fine dust which adheres to the stalk, which being drawn into the lungs in respiration, produces the cough. The cure consists in removing the cause—that is the rack— and allowing the animal to take their food in the natural way. I have removed all of mine, and now feed sping the 3 00 a m and 9 25 p m. Trains my horses on the barn floor, having a breastwork sufficiently high for them to eat over. In this way they can be fed on hay without raising a dust, they get none under their feet, and the labor of cleaning out the mangers is saved. Whatever is left is easily pushed out with a rake into the yard for the cattle. The dust on the hay will do the horses no harm if taken into the stomach. Since making the improvement above mentioned in my feeding apparatus, I am not troubled with coughing horses. There is no patent on my invention; my brethren can use it freely.

Cure for Hog Cholera.

I write to send a cure for the hog cholers that I know to be good, and a certain cure. so far as I have tried it. Not to trespass on your space, I will give it in a few words.-When the hog is first found to have the cholers thow it on its back; put a piece of tar, about the size of a hickory nut, on the end of a stick; put it down its throat; be sure 'tis swallowed. I have tried it on a good many and cured every one. One in particular was so far gone as to have lost one of his legs. I lost a great many before this was tried. I clipped their ears and tail, but think that should be left off, as it only weakens them. All hogs that look droopy are benefitted by tar. Some recommend rolling corn in tar, but I don't think the hog swallows enough in that way to be benefited.

and all whe have tried it, to be the best application and all whe have tried it, to be the best application and the public that I send it is only through the increasing demand and urgent request of my triends and the public that I send it forth as the grand remedial agent for the various diseases to which that noble and useful animal, the horse is subject.

Many remedies have been offered to the public under different forms, some of these are injurious, others at best of little use, and many wholly improper to answer the purposes for which they are recommended.

A judicious and really useful composition, free from those objections, has heretofore long been desired by many gentlemen who have VALUABLE MORSES, and are unwilling to trust them to the care of designing and pretended Farriers. Their wishes are at length fully gratified, by (Dr. Boale) being prevailed upon to allow this valuable Embracation (which has proved so effectious to the various diseases) to be prepared and brought out to the public.

This Embrocation was extensively used by the Government during the war.

OPERATE by their powerful influence on the internal vicera to profit the blood and stimulate it into bealthy action. They remove the obstructions of the stomash, bowsis, liver, sole other organs of the body, and, by restoring their irregular action to health, exerced, wherever they enist, each derangements as are the first causes of disease. An extensive tried of their virtues, by Professoria, Physiciana, and Patients, has shown cares of dangerous diseases almost beyond belief, were they not substantiated by persons of such scalled position and character as to fortid the suspicion of untruth. Their certificates are published in my American Almanac, which the Agents below named are pleased to furnish free to all inquiring.

Annexed we give Directions for their use in the somplaints which they have been found to care.

Fon Costiveness.—Take use or twe Fills, or such quantity as to gently move the bowels. Costiveness is frequently the aggressing source of Pilms, and the cure of one complaints in the cure of both. No person can feel well while under a costive habit of body. Hence it should be, he is can be, promptly relieved.

Fon Derestal, which is sometimes the cure of Costiveness, and always uncomfortable, take mild doses—from one to four—to stimulate the stomacfi and liver into healthy action. They will do it, and the Acardown, bodybern, and condition of dyspepsismal the Acardown, bodybern, and condition of the spirits and bad health, take from four to eith Pills at first, and smaller doses afterwards, unit activity and strength is restored to the system.

For a Four Bronach, Back, or Nide, take rom four to eight pills on going to bed. If they do not open at sufficiently, take more the next day satil they do. These complaints will be awer to our from the system. Don't wear these and their bindred disorders because your stomach is foul.

sometimes there is severe pain in the store; the same and the white of the eyes become a greenish yellow; the stomach acid; the bowels sore to the touch; the whole system irritable, with a tendency to fever, which may turn to bilious fever, bilious coile, bilious diarrhea, dysentery, &c. A medium dose of three or four Pills taken at night, followed by two or three or four Pills taken at night, followed by two or three in the morning, and repeated a few days, will remove the cause of all these troubles. It is wicked to suffer such pains when you can cure them for 25 cents.

RHEUMATISM, GOUT, and all inflammatory Fowers are rapidly cured by the purifying effects of these Pills upon the blood and the stimulus which they afford to the vital principle of Life. For these and all kindred complaints they should be taken in mild doses, to move the bowels gently, but freely.

They should be take, freely and frequently, and the impurities which sow the seeds of incurable diseases will be swept out of the they do as much good in preventing sickness as b the remarkable cures which they are making ever Liver Complaint, Jaunnice, and all Bilious Affections arise from some derangement—either torpidity, congestion, or obstructions of the Liver. Torpidity and congestion vitiate the bile and render it unfit for digestion. This is disastrous to the health, and the constitution is frequently undermined by no other cause. Indigestion is the symptom. Obstruction of the duct which empties the bile into the stomach causes the bile to overflow into the blood. This produces Jaundice, with a long and dangerous train of evils. Coativeness, or alternately costiveness and diarrhos, prevails. Feverish symptoms, languor, low spirits, weariness, restlessness, and melancholy, with sometimes in ability to sleep, and sometimes great drowsiness; sometimes there is severe pain in the side; the akin and the white of the eyes become a greenish yellow;
