looking afterwards. In looking for a location, the purpose of your business or calling should be the first consideration. If you are a merchant or mechanic, select a city, town or neighborhood where there is an appearance of energy, enterprize and improvement surrounded with good land well cultivated. If you locate there and make the best use of your rime, talents and capital, feel that you are a part of the community, that the growth of the place will contribute to your growth, not forgetting the old adage, "keep your shop and your shop will keep you." These, shop and your shop will keep you." These, with common courtesy and good behavior will insure your success.

If you propose to Grain growing, look first for a railroad station or landing on a navigable river, next land or good quality easily cultivated, and calculate the cost of transportation to the sea-board markets. It all these are favorable, you may venture to

If Stock growing is your object, you may go farther from lines of transportation where you can get more land for the same amount money, but be sure that the land is of good quality and natural to the grasses to insure good pasturage. Stock can be transported short distance to landings by their own locomotion, and being a little retired gives them less disturbance which is a matter of | Fathers, Hemp, anuch importance.

If your object is Gardening, or what is familiarly called "Trucking" and small fruit growing, the advice to dairymen will be applicable, with this difference, that the soil should be light, as well as deep and rich.

If you are a Florist, locate in or near a large and flourishing city. Your labors there are more fully, appreciated. People who live in small towns or in the country see so much of the floral world all around them from spontaneous nature, that the florist's labors are not by them fully appre-

THE BORROWED TOOL .- A boy borrowed a tool from a neighbor, promising to return it at night. Before evening he was sent on an errand, and did not reach home until late; but ere he started, he was told that his brothers should see the tool returned. After he had come back, and gone up to bed, he inquired and found that it had not been carried to the owner. He was much distressed to to think that his promise should not have been fulfilled, but was finally persuaded to go to sleep, so that he might rise early and carry the borrowed article home. By daylight he was up; and nowhere was it to be found.

After a long and fruitless search for it, he set off for his neighbor's workshop in great distress, to acknowledge his fault. But how great was his surprise to find it on the door step. At length it appeard, from the prints of little bare feet in the mud, that he had got up in his sleep and carried the tool home and then gone to bed again, walking quite unconscious of what had occurred. Of course, a boy thus prompt in his sleep was prompt when awake. He lived respected won the confidence of his neighbors, and was placed in many offices of trust and responsibility.

This boy took the best course to succede in life, though perhaps he did not know it. Whatever we have to do, we should do it with our might, and do it promptly. Especially should we be able to keep our promises, strictly and faithfully. If we are careless in discharging these and similar duties, we shall suffer for it.

A BOY in one of our Baptist families, the other Sunday morning, commenced blacking his boots. "Why, Barber," said the mother, "didn't you know this is the Lord's day?" "Well," replied he, "If the Lord does come to-day, he won't find me with a pair of rusty boots on."
