

FARM AND GARDEN.

WHEN TO TURN IN COVER.—In the regions where green crops are turned under for manure, there is a diversity of practice. Some plow when the crop is in its most succulent state. The rule for clover is when the heads are about half turned brown.—The reason offered for this practice is, that the bulk of the crop is then the greatest, and it undergoes most rapid decomposition in the soil. Others do not plow in clover until late in the fall, and after it has been well pastured. The reason they give for this practice are:

- 1. That turning in the clover green, makes soil sour, and has a tendency to produce sorrel.
2. It has a bad influence upon subsequent crops.
3. In waiting until fall, you have the advantage of pasturing, and if the cattle are kept upon the pasture, as they should, everything the field produces is returned to it.
4. More carbonaceous matter is returned to the soil; what you lose in tops you gain in the roots of the clover, which have four or five months longer to grow.
5. Better crops follow.

SOME OF THE BEST FARMERS IN PENNSYLVANIA FOLLOW THIS METHOD ALTOGETHER. Others still wait until the following spring, and turn in the clover just as it begins to grow.

GREEN CORN PUDDING AND SUCCOTASH.—Grate the green corn from twenty-four ears, to this add one quart of milk and three eggs, one tablespoonful of sugar, half a teaspoonful of salt. This must be varied according to the age of the corn; if the corn is old, add more milk or take less corn. Bake in pie dishes, till of a proper consistency.

Succotash is of two kinds—green and dried corn. For the first, boil the beans first, as they need more cooking, then shave the green corn off the cob, and boil it with the beans, then season to taste with butter or cream. With dry corn, the corn must be soaked until it is thoroughly swelled out tender, and treated as the other.

TO PURIFY A SINK.—In hot weather it is almost impossible to prevent sinks becoming foul, unless some mechanical preparation is used. One pound of copperas dissolved in four gallons of water, poured over a sink three or four times will completely destroy the offensive odor. As a disinfecting agent, to scatter around places affected with any unpleasant odor, nothing is better than a mixture of four parts dry ground plaster of Paris to one part of fine charcoal by weight. All sorts of glass vessels and other utensils may be effectually purified from offensive smells by rinsing them with charcoal powder after the grosser impurities have been scoured off with sand and soap.

VALUABLE HINT.—A correspondent of the Western Rural says that when he perceives his horses inclined to rub their manes and tails, he feeds them a little oil meal, say from one to two quarts a day for a week or ten days, and at the same time makes a good brine as warm as he can bear his hand in it, and washes the scaly substance out of the mane and tails, and mixes a tablespoonful of lard to a tablespoonful of powder, and rubs it in well about the roots of the mane and tail.

TO KILL BRAKES.—The only way is to cut them often just as they are shooting up. If you delay too long till they have grown to their full size, this cutting will not be effectual, but a frequent cutting while young will kill them out in a year or two. Ploughing and draining would destroy them, but many of our rough pastures are not to be ploughed without great cost and trouble. On the whole, the frequent cutting while young, is the most practicable way.

TALL BUCKWHEAT.—The Reading Gazette says that Charles Kuser, a Seymour and Blair Democrat of Earl township, Berks county, has a stalk of buckwheat growing upon his farm, which is six feet seven inches long. Old Berks is as rich in her agricultural products as she is great in her Democratic majorities.

WATERMELON RIND PICKLES.—Peel and throw in salt and water for two or three days. Then drain, and put in water and cook until soft. Add sugar, and spice slightly, steeping them in the vinegar, having enough to cover them. A little alum, or a handful of peach leaves while cooking will make them clear and green.

SWEET POTATO PUDDING.—One pound of sweet potatoes, boiled and mashed fine, or grated white hot, six eggs well beaten, 1 lb. of sugar, the same of butter, a grated lemon rind, and nutmeg, a wine-glass of brandy; line the dish with paste. When baked, sprinkle the top with fine sugar.

DRY HAY FOR COWS.—Cows sometimes get a surfeit of grass, especially in wet, warm weather, when the grass is succulent and rich. This feed distends the bowels uncomfortably. An armful of dry hay once a day will serve to absorb some of this moisture, and benefit the cow in several respects.

Flour and meal of all kinds should be kept in a cool, dry place.
