A number of people are suffering with severe colds caused by the sudden changes in the weather.

At any rate the crop report indicates enough to eat during the winter.

A gold field valued at $500,000,000 has been discovered in Japan, and evil-minded persons will be hinting that the imitative Jap has found a chemical way to raise a war chest without borrowing the money in Europe.—New York Press.

Our neighbor, John Hughes, the popular marble and granite dealer, is adding to the appearance of his already attractive residence by placing a fine stone pavement before it on Bloom street.

Nobody cares for the meat strike now. Oysters are reported to be fat, juicy and plentiful.

Unless all signs fail, a wave of confidence is beginning to spread over the entire country.

The melancholy days are almost come when our yards will no more be radiant with bloom and when the market will no longer be gay with flowers.

The first frost of the season was noticed at Bloomsburg yesterday morning.

A famine in railroad ties is said to exist among lumber dealers at Pittsburg. One of them said six trunk lines had the Carnegie Steel Company experimenting on a number of steel shapes, with which it is proposed to displace wooden ties.

An exchange that seems to know says: "Take care of your own nose. Don't let it roam." A Roman nose is all right, but when one's nose gets to 'roaming' so as to get in all the business of the neighborhood, its owner is approaching the danger line. Keep good neighbors by carefully keeping your nose in your own business and holding it there."

Poor Fishing This Season.

The North Branch in this vicinity several years ago was one of the best fishing grounds in this section. Of late years, however, it has yielded very poor sport, each succeeding year seeming to bring fewer fish.

A well known fisherman of our town stated yesterday that a few years ago it was not unusual thing for him to look as many as four hundred bass in a season, while during the present year he has thus far caught but fourteen.

During the last few years when the falling off in fish was first noted, black bass were still plentiful in the West Branch, which gave rise to the theory that the fish in the North Branch were beginning to suffer from the floods of coal dirt. It now develops that black bass have become as scarce in the West Branch as anywhere else, so that fishermen are beginning to look for some cause for the general scarcity other than coal dirt.

The fisherman above quoted takes the view that the ice gorges and the big flood of last spring swept a large number of fish down the stream and that they are prevented by the dams from finding their way up the river.

Celebrated Their Silver Wedding. Mr. and Mrs. John Kilgus, Walnut street, Monday rounded out twenty-five years of married life. The event was celebrated in a quiet way by only the immediate family and two or three others.

Mr. and Mrs. Kilgus began their married life in Freudenstadt, Wurttemberg, Germany. They came to America in 1880. In a very short time after Mr. Kilgus entered the employment of the shoe dealer, Andrew Schatz by whom he has been employed ever since. Mr. and Mrs. Kilgus are the parents of four children, all of whom were present at the silver wedding. Mrs. Joseph Himmus with her husband and Katie and Andrew live in Philadelphia. Emma resides with her parents in Danville.

Mr. and Mrs. Kilgus received a number of handsome presents.

After Coal Companies. From present indications the West End Coal Company at Moccasin, will be called upon to answer for their share of polluting the Susquehanna river. State Fish Warden Holland has made an investigation and reported the same to the authorities at Harrisburg. The charge is that the company has been polluting the river with sulphur water and culm.

The state game commissioner has instructed Holland to examine the river at every point where there is a colliery and all the companies engaged in polluting the stream will be prosecuted by the state. Under the laws framed for the protection of the fish the authorities say they can compel the companies to cease dumping culm and other undesirable matter into the river.

Buckwheat Higher than a Man. A stalk of buckwheat raised on the land owned by Lloyd Lamerson lying between the river and the canal, a short distance below Lower's Leap, was brought to this office yesterday which measured six feet, four inches in height.

The stalk, which was well filled with buckwheat, near the ground was at least half an inch in diameter. It is probable that nothing like it was ever seen herebefore before. Mr. Lamerson attributes the rank growth to the exceeding fertility of the soil caused in great part by the big flood of last winter, which left a thick deposit of rich mud upon his land.

Stees Band Discouraged Music. The festival given in the market stand at J. R. Wallitz's property, had the effect of enlivening things on Lower's Millberry street Tuesday evening.

About 8 o'clock Stees' band appeared on the scene and discouraged several fine selections, which soon attracted a crowd. The market stand and the lawn was decorated with Japanese lanterns and flowers. Tables were set in each of the stands and on the lawn, beside the dwelling.

After the band had departed the crowd remained upon the ground, many partaking of the refreshments offered for sale.

Family Reunion. A family reunion was held at the home of William Barnhart, near the Fair Grounds, on Sunday. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Grant Barnhart, Mrs. Norris Childs, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Crossley, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Baylor, Mr. and Mrs. William Barnhardt, Mr. and Mrs. William Barnhardt, Miss Jennie Barnhardt, Stewart and Howard Barnhardt, Warren Barnhardt, Frank Charley, Arthur Barnhardt, Raymond, Willard, Hattie and Mary Baylor, Charley, Annie, William, Harvey, Norris, Alice, and Mary Childs.

Eleven Men Erecting Poles. A force of men under Superintendent Watts began the construction of poles for the municipal light plant on East Market street yesterday morning. Eleven men were employed and very good progress was made.

It is feared that the shade trees on Market street may prove an obstacle in the way of erecting the system; at least that many of the trees will have to be extensively trimmed in order to admit of the wires.

Bloomsburg Night Watchman Shot. Emanuel Hummel, employed as night watchman at the carpet works, Bloomsburg, was shot in the head early Sunday morning. Hummel was on duty at the mill during Saturday night.

About one o'clock Sunday morning while the watchman was in the boiler room of the mill the shot was fired. The wound is not considered dangerous.

At the regular meeting of the borough council of Shamokin, held Tuesday evening, it was decided to hold a special election to increase the borough debt $45,000 by issuing bonds, the money realized to be used in building two new hose houses, installing the Gamewell Electric Fire Alarm System and the purchase of a hose truck.

ELAINE ROZE'S PARISIAN TRIP.

Her Impression of the Modes—Frisulous Little Poplins the Vogue—Waistcoats a Feature.

I am back again with a budget of fashion news which I have culled for you from a most bewildering display of exquisite garments for milady's adornment.

The splendor of the time when France was at the height of her luxurious extravagance seems to have returned, and after a tentative trial of 1830 Directoire styles, Dame Fashion is contented at last with the Louis XVI inspiration for her motifs.

Louis XVI coats as well as short paleots of colored silks will be worn with fancy wool skirts, and when it comes to suit jackets there are no bounds to the whimsicalities one finds. The litte basque is more and more in evidence and often takes on port ways, like, for instance the frivolous little pelum. In all these garments the waistcoat is a prominent feature. It is cut high and low, and is a veritable garment or only a presentment of it.

With the popularity of the waistcoat and vogue of the fitted bodice an exquisite fitting corset, such as the C-B-A in Spirite is even more essential than ever.

The liquor question is fast becoming paramount in the politics of the state, and it but needs unity, determination and perseverance on the part of all retail dealers to win a full measure of their long-dented rights. Heinz, the pickle man, and Carnegie have each put up $15,000 for the temperance people to fight us. They are going to push a local option law. The liquor dealers must get ready for them, for they mean to break us if they can."

It Was Free to All.

A. Grono! A plauge! A groan! The act occupied but the fraction of a minute, but the fun was not yet over, as is the case of loop-the-loop. In this daring feat of an amphibian act we find one of our foremost citizens figuring conspicuously. Wednesday morning the free performance was given, and those who missed it may rightfully be sorry, for we can't say when it will be repeated. The actor restrains himself, and only accomplishes it a few times in a lifetime. But the eye witnesses say it was great. Most anyone, after a great deal of practice, can climb a slippery pole, but this acrobat in his first attempt slid down one the first time he tried, but was sure to see that in case it would not work the fall would not be great. In order to demonstrate to the full satisfaction of himself and those about him, the rear end of the ferry flat was chosen. Placing the pole on the bottom of the river, the actor leaped forward and gracefully took the slip. It was completed. Beneath the surface of the crystal water flounder he for a moment, then to his feet, and a smile of satisfaction, mingled with excitement, greeted his comely countenance, when the thought presented itself that the flat had been stranded and he was already late to catch the train and attend to business in connection with the Adam's express. Wading to the south side a launch was employed and the hero safely transported back to us again to receive the congratulations due him.
