The people of Danville are having a strenuous time in crossing the river at this period of broken bridges and floating ice. A local paper tells how they do it. The more adventurous, braving the dangers of the river, row out as far as the third pier, the present end of the new bridge. There, after having secured their crafts, they ascend the long ladder which extends from the water to the top of the pier. From that point they walk a narrow plank to the other side, a feat that is per-formed at the risk of slipping off the plank and plunging into the loy water

This adventurous undertaking i sitated by the machinery of the But relief from this embarras situation was in sight at last accounts.
Two more naphtha launches were expected to be put in operation on Satur day or Sunday, one having been ship-ped from Sunbury and another sent down from Bloomsburg. Other relief is at hand, which makes the prospect

With the experience which the peo ple of Danville are having this winter they will have reason to be happy when their new bridge is completed. But they are not the only people who are suffering the inconvenience of in-terrupted communication through the destruction of a bridge, though their case is a more aggravated one than that of Sunbury and Northumberland.

Marriage and Divorce.

The Episcopal clergy in the diocese of Kansas City who have informed their people that they will not marry persons who have been divorced for any cause arising after marriage will not thus weaken the divorce evil nor strengthen the church.

Refusal to recognize divorce is un-reasonable. There are causes for di-vorce which no man should refuse to recognize as good and sufficient. It does not follow that because a man and a woman have been joined togethand a woman nave been joined togeth-er they must remain so although their relations may become unutterably un-bearable and engender thoughts of sin-

Monument to Governor Pollock.

The press of Milton and Sunbury are James Pollock, a native of Milton, the first Republican Governor of Penusylvania, and the most famous of Northumberland County's sons.

The propriety of it is predicated upon the claim that monuments have been erected in memory of other governors, who were his predecessors as well as successors in the gubernatorial office. There is plausibility in such a claim, but it has a more substantial basis than that. It would be a just tribute to one of the best and purest governors this state has ever had. It would be a fitting recognition of the worth of a man who filled honorably and usefully every position he ever occupied, whether public or private.

James Pollock was one of the mos distinguished—probably the most distinguished personage that Nothumberland county ever produced. A brilliant lawyer, and able and just judge, a ant tawyer, and sole and just judye, distinguished member of congress and a governor who reflected additional honor upon that exalted station—these were the distinctions that gave him pre-eminence among the sons of that

DEATH OF AN AGED CITIZEN

Joseph Bingham, whose figure had Deen a familiar one on the streets of Danville for 60 years, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Charles Gerst, Walnut street, Saturday morning, at 8:15 o'clock. Death was the result of gangrene, with which the deceased had suffered for the past three months. Mr. Bingham was born in Shafford-shire, England, May 19, 1821, making when only 4 years of age, his parents emigrated to the United States and located at Patterson, N. J. There the subject of this aketch continued to reside until 1845, being then 24 years old. He came to Danville, about that time where, with the exception of the years he devoted to his country during years he devoted to his country during the civil war, he remained continuous ly to the close of his earthly career. He was an iron worker by trade. When he came to Danville, he secured employment in what is now the Reading Iron Works. The plant was just completed, and he was a member of the force that started the mill in operation. He took the first catch that came from the mill. He continued to work at his trade until about thre years ago, when he was compelled to quit on account of failing sight. For the past year he had been totally blind. He was a man of a kindly disposition, trustworthy and honest in every sense of the word. The many long years that he was a citizen of this city secured was beld in high esteem by all who knew him.

The deceased is survived by his widow, and the following children: William Bingham, Mrs. Charles Gerst, Mrs. A. Deleamp, Mrs. L. Richards and Mrs. P. Brady, Danville; Mrs. J. Schmeck, Pittsbrug; George Bingham, Hiram Bingham and Mrs. Thomas Burley, Shamokin.

It contends that the Pure Food Depart. ment of this State has no right to pro-hibit the sale of colored butter, that there is no law to prevent it, and that the people, the consumers, insist that heir butter be always colored.

The Pure Food Department can safe ly be left to deal with the legal side f the question. In seeking to prove the popular demand for the colored roduct the Dairyman says:

White botter, resembling lard will not appeal to the appetite of the public, and they will have none of it. This has been shown by the great falling off in the sale of uncolored oleo.
