THE INTELLIGENCER, Danville, Pa.

SECRETARY HAY is booked for another farewell tour in the State Department.

A FLOATING pool room has been established in New York. No doubt there will be plenty of money sunk in it.

The question as to whether congressmen are paid enough depends entirely on whether they are paid for their time or their work.

The Russo-Japanese war is getting so far into the wilderness that the news reports have to take a minor position in the newspapers.

DOWIE asserts that his assets amount to $21,000,000 without counting his nerve which would be available anywhere for boiler plate.

An Illinois woman forgot her baby and left it in the train. A baby that will allow itself to be forgotten deserves a better fate than desertion.

It is said that 71,000 fourth class postmasters will be discharged this summer but there are more than 171,000 good Republicans waiting to fill their places.

The game law has been amended in Kansas making it an open season the year round, and big game like the octopus will have no protected breeding season.

EVEN the subterranean fires of the infernal regions show sympathy with the Japs. A volcano threw up a new island as a gift to the mikado. Nobody is throwing things at the czar.

AN Iowa woman has sued for a divorce because her husband made fun of her pancakes, and many things less important than pancakes have produced panics and pandemonium in many families.

MRS. CHADWICK says she has forgotten what she borrowed, but she intends to write her autobiography, giving every detail of her transactions. The people may be forgiven if they do not take the work seriously.

MRS. CHARLOTTE GILMAN PERKINS says that men are far more beautiful than women. This was said by a gentleman named Schopenhauer some years ago but men are glad that at last a woman has discovered it.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT is going right after President Castro and the gentleman with the sombrero will have to say whether he is willing to go against the big stick or will accept the work of The Hague tribunal.

OF course Vice-President Fairbanks cannot prevent his admirers hailing him as the next president. He knows very well that a presidential boom three years old is worthless, but a great many others do not know this.

MRS. WALKER, of Philadelphia, and widow of ex-Congressman Walker, who is heir to forty million dollars, refuses to divide her fortune with her sister-in-law. Mrs. Walker evidently entertains no desire to die poor.

GRADUALLY the truth is coming out in regard to Port Arthur. A German official says that the Russian soldiers are brave and intelligent, but that the officials were drunk and dissipated. No further explanation is necessary.

THE New York girl who sued a beauty doctor for two thousand dollars because in trying to straighten her nose he ruined it, lost her case. The court takes the ground that she got her money's worth for now she knows better than to trust beauty doctors.

MIDSHIPMAN ARROWOOD, who deserted from the navy, has been dismissed in disgrace and his rights of citizenship taken away. He is now a man without a country. Edward E. Hale's interesting story is not more interesting than some things in real life.

ARMY officers in the Philippines are subject to a disease called "Philippinitis," which is caused by too frequent visits to shark money lenders. The people of this country need have no fear that the government junketing party that goes there this summer will be exposed to infection. The Philippine government is paying all the expenses.

THE diplomats have had their innings. At the funeral of Ambassador Azpiroz they took precedence of the members of the supreme court and came first. At the inaugural ceremonies at the Capitol on the fourth of March the order was reversed and the diplomats smarted over the manner in which the supreme court took precedence over them.

A YOUNG man, "dark and looking like a foreigner," picked up an actress in New York the other day and tried to run off with her. Her screams attracted the police and the dark young man let her drop. The story sounds improbable but the advance agent says it is true. Can't we have a law limiting this acting business to the theatre and the stage?

SENATOR DUNE the greatest Italian actress has hit upon a new method of advertising that is inexpensive and telling. She shuts herself in her room and is never seen except when thickly veiled she glides from her room to her carriage. The only possible way to see her is to purchase a ticket. A simple announcement of her performances without pictures or posters draws large audiences.

THE increase of alcoholism in France is said to be alarming to the authorities; yet it has long been that those who defend the use of stimulants point to France as a country where wines and liquors are used in abundance without any alarming symptoms. A French doctor has just made the discovery, long known elsewhere, that alcoholism is a prime factor in causing insanity, tuberculosis crime and general demoralization. A study of the subject ought to be made by the French scientists to the end that they may adopt some measure to save their nation from ruin.

HITS RUSSIA WITH POEM.

GEORGE MEREDITH, the English poet, has contributed to the London Times a poem on "The Crisis," which is aimed at Russia. The poem begins:

Spirit of Russia now has come The day when thou canst not be dumb.

After eloquently painting the perils surrounding the empire the poet thus addresses the spirit of Russia:

Those who bind Thy limbs and iron thy mind, By thee have no fear, for thou art not bound That thou art of the rabble rout Which cries and flees with whimpering lip From reckless gun and brutal whip. But he who has at heart the deeds Of thy heroic offspring reads In them a soul not given to shrink From peril on the abyss' brink.

The poem concludes:

Give to thy sons a breathing breast, And him resembling in his sight, Say to thy land: "Let there be light."

ROWDYISM AT THE COLLEGES.

A FAIR sample of the prevailing rowdyism which is being taught or encouraged in the guise of "athletics" at the big colleges and universities is that at Ann Arbor, where the history of the University of Michigan has been conspicuous by a series of events not calculated to induce young men to study. A dispatch in relation to events last Friday night says:

After two other toastmasters had been kidnaped by sophomores, Walter S. McKillip, of Chicago, took the office of leader of the annual freshman "prom" and successfully started the event. Because of the bitter class war the freshmen were forced to call out the entire Ann Arbor police force to stop the raids of kidnapers on freshmen dancers. During the raids Walter C. Becker of Chicago, was hazed, Walter D. Graham, also of Chicago, was made a prisoner in the classroom, and the second toastmaster within twelve hours was stolen and deported into the country.

After the kidnaping of Toastmaster Edward Croul freshmen appointed Raymond S. Williams, an Alpha Delta Phi of Lapeer, Mich., his successor. Williams was concealed in the dancing academy, where the "prom" is held. The sophomores chased him and the bodyguard out upon the roof and in a fight there captured the second toastmaster. During the raids Walter C. Becker of Chicago, was hazed, Walter D. Graham, also of Chicago, was made a prisoner in the classroom, and the second toastmaster within twelve hours was stolen and deported into the country.

Walter Becker is a sophomore, and being a prominent class leader, was seized by the freshmen in revenge for the kidnaping. Becker was tied with ropes and left in an empty barn. He found a knife on the floor and freed himself. "Octy" Gahan, Yost's 240-pound freshman football tackle, escaped the sophomores by jumping from a window.

After the banquet and when dancing was begun the sophomores released Williams and Croul and escorted them to the assembly hall, together with ten other freshmen who had been kidnaped during the evening. The freshmen were then left unmolested.

JULES VERNE MASTER OF FICTION.

JULES VERNE, who was stricken with fatal paralysis a few days ago and died on Friday, was regarded as one of the greatest masters of fiction known to France. It is said that he continued writing until recently, when illness obliged him to suspend all literary work and his duties as a municipal counselor. He was born at Nantes 77 years ago and began his literary career by writing comedies and filling feuilletons for Paris papers. But his plays were not popular. A new vein of literature was opened by Verne when he began to publish novels which exaggerated the triumphs of science into what at the time were considered impossibilities. But Verne's predictions were realized beyond his most sanguine hopes. Such books as "Around the World in Eighty Days," "A Trip to the Moon" and "Twenty Leagues Under the Sea" created much amusement, but Verne lived to see the journey around the globe made in less than half the time he allowed and the submarine boat a reality. Since 1870 M. Verne wrote nearly 100 volumes, mostly stories of adventurous travels, all of them showing his marvelous knowledge of the latest discoveries in the fields of science. It is claimed that Verne's "Five Weeks in a Balloon" did much toward the development of dirigible air-ships. In speaking of this work, which was written in 1861, M. Verne said:

"I wrote 'Five Weeks in a Balloon,' not as a story about ballooning, but as a story about Africa. I always was greatly interested in geography and travel and wanted to give a romantic description of Africa. As there was no means of taking my travelers through Africa otherwise than in a balloon that is why the balloon was introduced in the story. At that time I had never made an ascent."

SERVANT PROBLEM CENTURIES OLD.

EV. MINOT J. SAVAGE, a New York minister, has been discussing the servant girl problem and he reaches the conclusion it is a problem that is very old, and not likely to be settled until the employers change their attitude. "The problem of housekeeping, they tell me," he is quoted as saying, "is growing worse and worse and yet if you were to read the correspondence written 300 or 400 years ago on this subject you would think you were listening to a conversation at an afternoon tea of yesterday. The same old trouble existed 500 years ago, the same trouble springing out of the same condition. I do not wonder that girls do not like to work in the kitchen. I can understand perfectly why they should prefer a clerkship even on starvation wages, where they can be mistress of their own evenings, go and come as they please, and have what companionship they desire. Let a mistress sit down and think with herself. Would she like to go into the kitchen of the average family, have possibly one afternoon out, no time for reading, no opportunity for music, no chances for free companions, but to be at the back and call of tyranny, of whim, of thoughtlessness, of lack of consideration all the time? If the mistress and the maid could exchange places for awhile, long enough to understand each other, get into sympathy with each other, perhaps these evils would cure themselves."

CITY OF TEXAS HAS A REVOLUTION.

AN interesting situation is that in which the city of Houston, Texas, has become involved. The mismanagement of the city has been so bad that prominent citizens went before the legislature and secured a special charter which, if put in force, would effect a complete revolution in the management of the city. It legislates out of office all the present officials and places control in a board consisting in the mayor and four city aldermen. The mayor appoints subordinates. It would be a decidedly autocratic government, but the responsibility would be placed fairly upon the shoulders of the mayor. The present alderman and officials are, of course, incensed at this, and they have gone into court and have secured a temporary restraining order to prevent the mayor from calling a special election under the new charter. The citizens are so enraged that they will not tolerate any interference of this kind and they threaten, if they can do no better, to go into court and have a receiver appointed for the city on the ground that it is bankrupt through mismanagement of officials. This would get rid of the old officials and pave the way for a new regime.

The Chicago university is preparing to make use of a farm near Chicago for a farm colony for its high school department. The idea is a most excellent one. By far too many of the boys and girls of the day never know anything about the delights of contact with nature. By far too many of them have no practical knowledge of anything. There is no better place than on a farm to learn of the things which go to make good men and women.

It would seem to be peculiar that Midshipman Arrowood drew pay for four years at the Naval Academy and secured an education at Government expense before he found out that naval cadets and officers were not plaster saints and unfit company for such paragons of decency, patterns of purity and pillars of truth as himself.

Mrs. A. J. Billmeyer

At four o'clock, Friday afternoon, March 24, Mrs. Malinda Billmeyer quietly and peacefully breathed her last and her spirit took its flight into the realms of the great "Unknown."

She had been in delicate health for a long time and on the 20th inst. was seized with an attack of pleurisy. Dr. Hoffa, of Washingtonville, was summoned at once, but all that medical skill and a loving husband and devoted children could do, could not stay the hand of death.

Mrs. Billmeyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bowers, was born in Liberty township, Montour county, on December 4, 1828. She was one of a family of ten children, six brothers and four sisters. All her sisters and two brothers survive her.

She was the mother of twelve children, nine of which are yet living. At an early age she identified herself with the Methodist church, and was always a consistent member. The children who survive her are: Sallie, married to Lewis Biss, living at McEwen'sville, John, a merchant, residing and doing business at Hagerstown, Md.; Andrew, a carpenter, living in Liberty township, this county; Frank, of the Billmeyer Lumber Co., living in Cumberland, Md.; Alice, married to J. G. Bogger, Clara, married to James Gerringer, all residing in Liberty township; George, living at home; Edward, a contractor, residing in Maryland.

The funeral was held on the 29th from her late home, on the bank of the beautiful and picturesque Chillisqueague creek.

Many friends and relatives assembled to pay their last tributes of respect, and her body was laid to rest in the old Billmeyer graveyard near her home.

"ROCKED IN THE CRADLE OF THE DEEP."

DANVILLE, PA., March 28, 1905.

To the Editor of the INTELLIGENCER.

The Danville folks, Mr. Frank C. Angle and wife, and Miss Kate Rea, accompanied by their Philadelphia friends, Miss Sarah DeLong and brother, Mr. Frank E. DeLong, and Mr. Wm. B. Chamberlin and family, bade adieu to the hospitable people at the Hamilton House, the principal hostelry of the B-roads Isles, on Wednesday of this week, and are, therefore, expected to arrive at their respective homes on the Saturday following, April 1st.

The return trip, we trust, will be as pleasant as the outgoing voyage, when the ocean was comparatively calm—in a word all that could be expected of Old Neptune.

It requires one day and one night for a steam ship to sail from the land of sweet onions to the harbor of New York. Now calculate the vessel speeded at the rate of 20 knots at about 500 miles, and during all this time the imagination carries us back to the jolly, good time the passengers have in forming the acquaintance of all classes of social tourists who delight in being tossed about on the bosom of the briny deep. And then the good things that are always provided in abundance for the passengers, whether at the regular table in the grand dining room, or comfortably seated on deck, with the choice of piping hot, and the obliging stewards are always on the alert, for when called upon to cater to those desiring an extra meal, they are always ready to hold out their hands for an extra wee sma' tipp.

To those who have never crossed the Atlantic on an ocean greyhound, will be surprised to know what a delightful time they have missed. It is one continual round of pleasure.

When enjoying the good thing of life, the sojourner may be sent off on the upper promenade watching the flying fish, ice bergs or perhaps now and then a huge whale as it approaches the vessel spouting water very much resembling a fountain, or perhaps you may be interested in keeping on your feet, while strolling along the deck, as the huge ship rolls, first on one side, then on the other, and thus you may serenely rest, in the language of the popular haso—

"Rocked in the cradle of the deep. I lay me down in peaceful sleep." While the spray beats against the bow and showers everybody with the particles for who may be promouncing in that vicinity, and when tired of sight-seeing it is one's privilege to return to his or her state room, where inviting berths are at their command, and where nothing occurs to disturb sweet repose.

In a word, we hope and trust the genial party may enjoy the homeward voyage, with no accident to mar the pleasure of all on board the good ship "Bermudian," and that the precious freight may be delivered safe on the shores of Free America. R. W. E.

A Living Monument.

If we were to assemble all those who have been cured of heart disease by Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, and who would to-day be in their graves had not Dr. Miles' been successful in perfecting this wonderful heart specific, they would populate a large city.

What a remarkable record—a breathing, thinking, moving monument, composed of human lives,—that for which every other earthly possession is sacrificed.

The Miles Medical Co. receive thousands of letters from these people like the following:

"I feel indebted to the Dr. Miles' Heart Cure for my life. I desire to call the attention of others suffering as I did to the remarkable remedy for the heart. For a long time I had suffered from shortness of breath, after any little exertion, palpitation of the heart; and at times terrible pain in the region of the heart, so serious that I feared I would some time drop dead upon the street. One day I read one of your circulars, and immediately went to my druggist and purchased two bottles of the Heart Cure, and took it according to directions. With the result that I am entirely cured. Since then I have never had any more of the result that I am widely known in this locality."
